Grand Jury Fails to Act As 'Wire-Tap' Probe Ends

Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

New names yesterday spiced the Capital's wire-tapping probes, but a major deadline passed without indictments. These were the main events:

1. The Federal Grand Jury gave up, without returning indictments, its investigation of Police Lieut. Joseph W. Shimon's alleged tapping of the wires of Howard Hughes, millionaire plane maker. The decision not to indict was reached on the deadline day set by the three-year statute of limitations. The wire-tapping allegedly took place when Hughes, in the summer of 1947, was a target of a war contracts investigation by the Senate committee headed by Senator Owen Brewster (R., Me.).

2. Senator Claude Pepper (D., Fla.) chairman of the special Senate District wire-tapping inquiry committee, said the wire tapping incidents connected with Hughes still will be a subject of the committee's investigation, and that Shimon will be called to testify, maybe next week. Pepper also identified Pvt. John McHale, aide to Shimon when the latter was special investigator for the United States Attorney's office, as the man who first reported to Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett the alleged wire-tapping activities of Shimon. McHale, a witness before Pepper's group Thursday, may be heard in public, the first open hearing of the committee, some day next week, probably Thursday, Pepper said.

3. Both the grand jury and the Pepper committee turned their sights on what Lieutenant Shimon may have done for the Macy Investigating Committee of the House in 1948. Representative W. Kingsland Macy (R., N. Y.) has denied he called up Shimon for wire-tapping, and has denied any wire-tapping was done to his knowledge for the committee.

The Washington highlight of the 1948 Macy probe was its sensational hearings on gray market practices in the automobile business here.

The new names stirred into the wire-tapping broth were those of "The Fox" and of John P. Monroe, one-time proprietor of the "Big Red House on R St."

Charged With Conspiracy

"The Fox" was identified as Norman Whitaker, who served a prison term in the '30s for conspiring with Gaston B. Means to rob Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean of $35,000 in the Lindbergh baby ransom hoax. He was subpenaed by the FBI to go before the grand jury next Wednesday. Whitaker would not discuss with reporters yesterday the current grand jury inquiry, but he did protest he was innocent

2 Pepco Board Members Quit Transit Posts

A. G. Neal and Robert V. Fleming, both board members of the Potomac Electric Power Co., will resign as board members of the Capital Transit Co., it was announced yesterday.

Their resignations followed Capital Transit's recently announced opposition to Pepco's application for an increase in power rates.

Neal is president and chairman of the board of Pepco.

Fleming, president and chairman of the board of the Riggs Bank, said he was resigning from the Capital Transit board because "I find myself in a position of conflict."

He said his decision to resign from the Capital Transit board and remain on the Pepco board was no reflection on Capital Transit and added he did not wish it to be construed as a prejudging of the issue.

"It's simply this," said Fleming. "I'm the oldest member of the board of Pepco. I've been a board member for 25 years."

The resignations will be officially submitted on August 24.

Capital Transit has announced it will oppose Pepco's request for an increase under which the transit company would be forced to pay 70.7 percent, or $661,000, more for electricity to operate its streetcars. The District Public Utilities Commission yesterday formally approved Capital Transit's petition for permission to intervene in the case.

Meanwhile, District legal officers wrestled with the question of how the city may properly take part, as a consumer, in the Pepco rate case in which it will play the role of partial judge.

Pepco two weeks ago asked the Public Utilities Commision for an over-all average 9.5 percent rate increase which would, however, boost by 59.8 percent or $710,000 the District's annual bill for street lighting.

Contempt Laid to 54 By House

By The Associated Press

At a case-a-minute clip, the House voted contempt citations yesterday against 54 persons, including four atomic scientists and the general manager of the Communist newspaper Daily Worker.

All had been summoned as witnesses by the House un-American Activities Committee, and all had refused to answer questions about communism. The committee recommended they be cited for contempt of Congress, and the House agreed overwhelmingly.

All the votes were by voice, and only Representative Marcantonio, American Labor Party member from New York, dissented.

The citations will be referred to the Department of Justice for prosecution. Conviction of contempt of Congress is punishable by as much as a year in jail and a $1000 fine.

Two other men had been cited by the House Thursday.

Of the 54 cited, 39 were witnesses called before the committee in Hawaii last April in the course of an investigation into communism in the islands.

The four witnesses who were identified by the committee as atomic scientists are Giovanni Rossi Lomanitz, David Joseph Bohm and Irving David Fox, employed in the University of California radiation laboratory during the war, and Clarence Hiskey, a chemist who worked on the atomic bomb project at the University of Chicago.

Others cited included Philip Bart, general manager of the Daily Worker; Mrs. Louise Bransten Berman of New York and the West Coast, called by committee members a financial "angel" for Communist causes; James J. Matles, organizational director of the United Electrical Workers, and several other members of that left-wing labor organization.

Also cited was Pasquall Leonard James Branca, 833 Allison st. nw., a former Eliot Junior High School Teacher, later a wholesale drug salesman.

Miss Elizabeth Sasuly and Mrs. Bella Rodman, 3700 Massachusetts ave. nw., were on the list of those to be cited, but the committee continued their cases for further investigation. Miss Sasuly was Washington representative of the Food and Tobacco Workers and the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers. Mrs. Rodman is a social worker.

Representative Rankin (D., Miss.) demanded that the Administration "fumigate everything from the staff of the White House to the Bureau of the Census" to make sure there are no Communists or Communist sympathizers in the Government.

In U. N. Debate

Reds Mass 'For the Kill', Jebb Says

Lake Success, Aug. 11 (AP).—Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb told the U. N. today the forces of Communist imperialism, repulsed in Europe, are concentrating in Asia "for the kill."

"What has happened in Korea simply must not be allowed to occur again," Jebb said, citing Burma, Indonesia, Indochina, the Philippines and India's Hyderabad state as Communist-menaced areas.

Jebb tangled with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik in a renewal in the Security Council of the bitter oratorical battle over Korea.

Malik brushed Jebb off with a suggestion to tell it to the British Museum—and then spent 45 minutes counter-attacking American declarations of Russian responsibility in North Korea. The Russian declared the United States wants to make Korea its military bulwark in Asia.

When the day's debate ended, the Council found itself right where it was at the start. The procedural stalemate continued as tight as ever.

Malik argued that Gen. Douglas MacArthur, U. N. commander in Korea, ordered President Syngman Rhee to attack North Korea and promised American troops and planes to help him. He said the American delegation here is shedding "crocodile tears" about Korea, but that actually the United States is interested in nothing but investments in Korea, in cheap labor and in a military bulwark in Asia.

Malik said MacArthur is trying to play "the role of God and Emperor in the Far East."

Most of Malik's talk was a repetition of assertions designed to support his argument that the United Nations must decide between peace and war, and picturing the Soviet Union as showing the way to peace and the United States the path to aggression.

Jebb started the fireworks when he rejected Russian demands that foreign troops (meaning Americans mainly) withdraw from Korea. Jebb said if the U. N. policeman left the victim to the mercies of the aggressor, the U. N. would have the whole thing to do over again soon.

"Asia would once again be the scene of the crime," Jebb said. "Yes, Asia would once again be the scene of the crime. Here is the vast arena in which, repulsed in Europe, it is now clear that the dark forces of Communist imperialism are concentrating for the kill. All the new emergent

1717 Men Of This Army Area Affected

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

The Army and Air Force yesterday ordered 17,000 officers and 42,000 enlisted men of their non-organized reserves called to active duty.

The Army's call included 7862 male captains and lieutenants in combat service and service branches and 1582 male medical and dental officers.

Air Force reserves to be called consist of 8000 officers and 42,000 enlisted men, the latter possessing critically needed skills.

Of the Army's total, 1423 line captains and lieutenants and 294 medical and dental officers will be called to active duty in the Second Army area, which includes the District, Maryland and Virginia. It could not be learned immediately how many of these officers each State would furnish.

Army officers will be ordered to active duty "with or without their consent" for not less than 21 months. They will be given at least 21 days to settle their private affairs before being inducted in three increments beginning September 22 and ending October 6.

The Air Force said its call will include navigators, bombardiers, radar, communications and weather specialists, a few pilots, and other needed experts. Officers mostly will be in the grades of captain and lieutenant and all personnel will be in service "by early fall."

While Army commanders will determine what officers will be called to meet their quotas and, to a large extent, where they will be assigned, the Army Department gave these general priorities for assignment:

1. In units destined for shipment to the Far East.
2. At newly activated posts, camps and stations. The Army announced Thursday a list of five camps soon to be reopened.
3. To divisions in training.
4. For Army, Corps and Department staffs.
5. To new units being formed with men to be drafted.

In the Second Army area, which also includes Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Delaware and Kentucky, 348 captains and 1075 lieutenants are to be inducted by October 6. The medical and dental officers to be called will include 143 doctors, 69 dentists, 8 veterinarians, and 77 Medical Service Corps officers.

Age-in-grade requirements must be met in placing these officers on active duty, the Army said. Under

U. S. Tanks Take Wrong Turn, Dodge Through Pohang Streets

By Hal Boyle

Pohang, South Korea (Saturday), Aug. 12 (AP).—American tanks and infantry ringed Pohang airport this morning and South Korean troops began pushing toward the city.

The attack began from Angang, 10 miles west of Pohang on the road to Taegu.

Pohang itself is a "no man's land." The Americans and South Koreans hold the docks. The Communists are concealed in the northern section of the city. The area between the two forces is empty.

Americans also were holding a bridge one and a half miles outside the city. They controlled four and one-half miles of road from the airport to the bridge.

Airport Operating

The airport was operating this morning with planes landing and taking off regularly.

Tanks went into position after a night of wild fighting, attempted ambush and an unscheduled trip through the burning streets of Pohang.

American armor was ambushed at the same point where troops had been attacked on the previous night. They fought their way through and also cleared the road of 10 wrecked American troop-carrying vehicles.

Between 10 and 20 American dead were found by these tankmen.

One tank spotted between 60 and 70 Reds in a tree-covered gully.

Tanks Lose Way

When they finally got past the ambush point, the tanks lost their way and rolled right into Pohang. The streets were so narrow and the fire from burning buildings so close that the crewmen were "singed," they said. Baggage carried in the rear of the tanks was burned.

Reds Fight Desperately In Trap Before Chinju

By Don Whitehead

With U. S. Forces on Southern Front (Saturday) Aug. 12 (AP). The Army's Fifth Regimental Combat Team today fought off stiff attacks from Communist troops battling desperately to break out of a trap separating them from their supply base to the west.

North Koreans were hitting the Americans from the rear of the U. S. positions. The enemy was using machine gun and mortar fire in their all-out attempt to achieve a break-through and escape annihilation.

Red machineguns clattered and mortars fell on the U. S. supply line between Pongam and Pansong, about 15 miles from the Communist-held communications hub of Chinju.

It was a give-and-take battle which American commanders regard as "serious" until Red pockets can be wiped out. An estimated two regiments of North Korean troops are battling in the sector.

The stage for the fight was set when the Fifth Regimental Combat Team and elements of the Thirty-fifth Regiment joined to cut off the Reds' escape route westward toward Chinju.

To the north of the American push toward Chinju, a tank-led Communist column was reported driving east below the Naktong River. Elements of the United States Twenty-fifth Division were sent to deal with this latest threat.

The Naktong River swings eastward above the Chinju area and it is not necessary for the Reds to cross the stream here to contact the American defense line.

Attlee Recalls Parliament for Crisis Session

London (Saturday), Aug. 12 (AP). Prime Minister Attlee today summoned Parliament, which recessed for the summer barely two weeks ago, to reconvene September 12 to deal with the prdoblem of Britain's defense.

The summons was announced after a lengthy Cabinet meeting. Parliament recessed July 28 to reconvene October 17. Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison told the House of Commons when it adjourned that it might be recalled if the international crisis worsened.

Last night's Cabinet meeting lasted 3 hours and 45 minutes. It is believed that the ministers made a wide-ranging review of Britain's defense position in the light of the Far Eastern crisis.

There were unconfirmed reports that the Cabinet had discussed the possibility of lengthening the service term of British draftees. They now serve 18 months.

Chinju Drive Gains Objective In Hills East of City, Army Says

Tokyo, (Saturday) Aug. 12 (AP).—A headquarters spokesman said today that American forces have attained their objective in the Chinju fighting.

A briefing officer said the objective was the high ground in front of the town—not the town itself.

Tokyo (Saturday) Aug. 12 (AP).—American and South Korean troops launched a counter-attack on the newly fallen east coast port of Pohang today as the Communists stabbed across the Naktong River toward Taegu on the western side of the United Nations Korean beachhead.

The counter-blow at Pohang, second most important U. N. port in Korea, was announced in an Eighth Army communique at noon. It said the town, which fell Friday night, was held by 3000 Reds.

During the night a column of American tanks moved in to help the embattled American defenders to cling to Pohang's airfield and port facilities, outside the town proper. Destroyers came into the harbor and swung their guns shoreward. Battle-tested South Korean troops rushed to the area in preparation for the counter-attack.

Reds Strike on Naktong

Fifty miles to the west, the Reds threw two punches at the American and South Korean defenders of the Naktong line protecting the communications center of Taegu. It might be the start of the expected all-out push on the city but it was too early to say for sure.

The Reds sent about 300 men across the river into the First Cavalry Division front and the Americans met them with bayonets in fierce hand-to-hand battle. To the north the Reds pushed against the South Korean First Division with 10 tanks which they got across the Naktong Friday night. The Reds were reported halted but five tanks still were roaming east of the Naktong.

Londoners Jam Mall for News of Princess' Baby

London, Aug. 11 (AP).—Throngs of the curious waited along the historic Mall tonight for the proclamation of the birth of a second child to Princess Elizabeth, the heir presumptive.

A notice tacked to the Mall-side gate of Clarence House is to tell of the arrival of a new brother or sister for Prince Charles, 21 months old.

Clarence House is the modernized Elizabeth century home of Princess Elizabeth and her husband, Prince Philip. As the hour of confinement drew closer, it became in British eyes the most important house in all England.

A spokesman for the Royal family said last night "we shall not have long to wait," but the word from Buckingham Palace today was: "The birth is expected any day. That is all anyone can say."

Court officials said the Princess is in excellent health. She keeps up with her correspondence each morning.

Prince Philip spent much of his day playing with Prince Charles, a chubby child who is next in line after Elizabeth for the throne. For Prince Philip, it was something of a get-acquainted period. He has been away at Malta on extended naval duty.

Controls Held Superficial In Fighting Off Inflation

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter
(Third in a Series)

Most Government and private economists believe some price rises are inevitable. But they are also convinced that if we really try, a painful and disruptive inflation can be prevented.

The methods they propose do not include wage and price controls and rationing at this time. They think those devices are more trouble than they're worth.

Their arguments on this point will be discussed in the next article in this series. For the moment, it is enough to say that they believe these controls do not get at the root of the problem. They fail to remove the underlying forces that cause inflation. They may suppress or divert them, but they're still there, uncured.

So even if it does later become necessary to apply ceilings and rationing, you still have to deal with the basic troubles. We might as well deal with them at the beginning.

The inflationary pressure we now face comes from the fact that while our power to buy keeps growing—from increasingly full or "over-full" employment at high wages—a steadily larger proportion of what we produce will be diverted from civilian markets to military purposes.

We are left, then, with purchasing power in excess of what is available to be bought. That serves to bid up prices.

One can indulge in a small oversimplification and say, then, that the way to prevent or reduce inflation is to blot up, remove, absorb or sterilize that excess buying power.

In his post-Korea messages to Congress, President Truman proposed two basic ways to do it. One is by taxes. The other, a preventative against the very creation of purchasing power and at the same time a deterrent to spending itself, is by limitation of credit.

Federal taxes, however applied, justly or unjustly, simply take away from individuals and businesses money that might otherwise be spent.

Mr. Truman obviously hopes for higher personal and corporate income tax rates. He will ultimately accept an excess profits tax and will probably not refuse levies that are in effect sales taxes.

One special form of sales tax being considered is an excise on certain articles, the production of which will be limited—heavy, metal-consuming goods such as autos, and other household appliances. The tax would be about equal to the difference between the legitimate sales price and the prospective grey-market price.

If, because of scarcity, a man will pay $1500 more for a car than the dealer's price, it would be better if the Government got it than the shady operator around the corner.

The more the Government taxes, the more potential purchasing power it mops up. The more nearly it can pay for the expanded arms program through taxes, the less the Government borrows, and the less additional inflationary purchasing power it thereby creates.

In retrospect, it would seem that the gravest economic error of the Senate Group Boosts Taxes On Incomes to Near War Peak

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

A $2,745,000,000 increase in individual income taxes, boosting payments to near World War II peaks, was unanimously aproved yesterday by the Senate Finance Committee.

The Truman-recommended increase, virtually certain to be ratified by the Senate and House, means a step-up in individual withholding rates from 15 percent at present to 18 percent beginning October 1.

The committee approved precisely the same "interim" tax rates the Administration asked to help finance rearmament and curb inflation—tantamount to a tax rise of 20 percent for most persons in lower brackets.

Special treatment was provided for members of the armed forces in Korea or any other "area of hostility." GIs in embattled areas would pay no tax at all on military pay, and officers in the same areas would receive a still undetermined exemption.

All members of the armed forces received a $1500 exemption in World War II, but the emergency bill provision will be limited strictly to service in embattled areas.

The individual tax boost, following close on the heels of a $1,500,000,000 upping of corporate income taxes voted Thursday, completed the main points in the bill, but the committee slated more work on tax "loopholes."

Chairman Walter F. George (D., Ga.) predicted the bill will be reported to the Senate next midweek. The following week it will be called up on the Senate floor, where a group of independents will launch a fight to add an excess-profits-tax rider.

The individual tax increase would not become fully effective until 1951, but it would apply to

Russia and Red China Expected To Stay on Korea Sidelines

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

Neither Russia nor Communist China is expected to intervene openly in the Korean war.

They are regarded as co-conspirators in organizing the aggression of the North Korean Communists and supporting it. The hard core of the army that smashed over the 38th Parallel in June was made up of troops that once fought in the Chinese or Russian armies.

Nevertheless, the belief prevails here that Stalin and Mao Tse-tung will not go so far as to get their countries openly involved with the American forces in Korea. Those who hold that belief concede that they could be wrong, but this is their reasoning:

The Soviet Union—as of this time, at least—does not intend to get involved in a major war.

Communist China does not want to clash with United States forces because there are already enough troubles at home; a war with the Americans would be unpopular, and it would prejudice her chances of ever being seated by the United Nations.

According to this view, Communist China not only will stay out of the Korean war but will refrain from attacking Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist stronghold of Formosa.

From a military standpoint, a Communist attack on Formosa would be extremely hazardous. In traveling from the mainland to Formosa, a distance of well over 100 miles, the Communist troops would first have to get past the United States Navy's Seventh Fleet.

As to Korea, the Chinese Communists can continue to help by releasing soldiers from their Manchurian army and sending them to join the North Koreans.

But this is considerably less awesome than the specter of a full-scale invasion.

Leveled Artillery Stops Attack of Reds

By Homer Bigart
NYHT News Service

With the Twenty-fifth Infantry Division, Aug. 11.—Two batteries of American artillery fired at point-blank range today to prevent the escape of several hundred North Korean Communists trapped by the Fifth Regimental combat team near Poganni.

In action of a type seldom seen outside of American Civil War prints, the artillerymen leveled their 105-mm. Howitzers at enemy groups which at times penetrated to within 100 yards of the guns.

With fuses set at zero, the artillery men were using charge 7—the maximum charge that a 105 will take. Charge 7 is almost as rough on guns as it was today on the Reds, and after almost two hours of steady firing Capt. Perry H. Graves of Robinson, Ill., found three of his four guns were burned out. And he was running out of ammunition.

Strike In the Dark

The gunners grabbed rifles and set up a skirmish line, determined to defend their batteries to the last.

The action began about 3 a. m. The Reds poured down on Poganni through a valley, from the north. They flanked the village on the east and spread out along the slope of a high ridge. There they set up machineguns, intending to cut a supply road and cut off three American battalions from a regimental command post.

Graves' outfit was established in a dry creek bed at the western edge of the village. His guns were pointing north, but before the action ended they were firing in all directions.

The artillery men received their first fire from an enemy machine gun planted on a slope 500 yards to their left. Almost simultaneously, a group of Reds crawling through rice paddies in rear of the battery opened up with automatic small arms.

Out of the Trenches

"We were pinned down by crossfire, and toward daybreak we really caught hell," Graves said. "We figured they were coming up on us and that there was no use sitting in slit trenches and getting shot like fish in a barrel. So we jumped up and turned the guns around and blasted at the ridge and the rice paddies.

"There must have been about 40 snipers lying in the paddies. We took some casualties but the men kept firing even though lead flew all around them. We fired everything we had. When the high-explosive shells were all gone we used the armor-piercing stuff and then the chemical shells and white phosporous. It was pretty rough on the guns."

Pvt. 1st Class Stephen Surmiller of Cornona, Long Island, said that when all the ammunition was gone the artillerymen formed a skirmish line to prevent the Reds from overrunning the guns.

"At daybreak we could see a few Reds running around on the slope, so we plastered the whole hillside," said Pvt. John K. Efferman of Brooklyn, who helped medical corpsmen carry wounded to places of safety.

Men Falling All Around

Lieut. Wayne Heuck of Madison, Wis., said Sergt. Wayne Casey of Macon, Ga., kept one gun firing "while men were falling all around him."

Meanwhile, another battery of 105's was getting plenty of exercise 4 miles down the road. An infantry command post in a grove nearby was almost overrun by Reds who came down from a ridge with mortars and machineguns at dawn.

The colonel commanding, all of whose units were already committed far up the road, had few troops to spare for a perimeter defense. Cooks and drivers grabbed rifles and set up a skirmish line at the edge of the grove. The artillerymen saved the situation. Leveling their guns, they fired point blank into a village where groups of the enemy had infiltrated.

Calls for Support

When ammunition gave out, the colonel called for air and armored support. The road to the rear was under fire, and for several hours no supplies could be brought up.

Brig. Gen. George B. Barth of Leavenworth, Kan., artillery commander of the Twenty-fifth Division, raced down the road under machine gun fire to look over the situation.

"They caught us all spread out," the colonel told him apologetically. Barth agreed the troops were being obliged to cover three times as much ground as they should.

As we stood in the grove, Marine Corsair planes put on as good a show of close-in air support as has been seen in this campaign. Gliding down out of the sun, they loosed rocket and machinegun fire and strafed enemy groups out of ravines on the scrubby flank of the ridge.

Gets an Airlift

But snipers continued to infest the road. They blew up two ammunition trucks, cratering the road deeply and clogging it with wreckage. Then they ambushed a patrol of the Seventy-second Engineer combat company which had come down to clear the road.

From dawn to mid-afternoon, the Reds succeeded in denying supplies to the Fifth Regimental Combat Team, which has been spearheading the American drive in the Chinju sector.

Barth arranged an emergency airlift and got a helicopter to Poganni to help bring out wounded of the First Battalion, which was under constant harassing fire.

By mid-afternoon, tanks succeeded in neutralizing the last machinegun and sniper nest and escorted several ambulances down the road to retrieve wounded.

Communications were reestablished between the regimental command post and the First and Second Battalions, but the Reds had succeeded in slowing the American offensive, and only slight advances were made.

Press Asked Not to Print Unit Alerts

The Defense Department yesterday asked newspapers and radio stations not to report troop movements or alerts of military units in the United States.

While induction of National Guard divisions would continue to be announced, a spokesman said, it would aid the enemy if national or State roundups of smaller guard units were published. There is no objection, he said, to local publication of these alerts and movements.

In reply to a question at the morning Pentagon briefing, he said there was no present plan to institute security censorship in the combat zone but that it is "under study." At present, newsmen exercise "voluntary" censorship at the front.

No Medics With Reds, Prisoner Declares

Somewhere in South Korea, Aug. 11 (AP).—A captured Korean Red told interrogators today the North Korean army gives no organized medical care to its wounded.

The prisoner said he had seen no ambulances, doctors or nurses with the Red troops. He said wounded were left behind when North Koreans advanced. And when the front was static, he said, wounded Communists got only limited first aid from fellow soldiers.

This was the picture along the 140-mile battlefront from south to north around the beachhead:

Southwestern Front—The United States Army's Thirty-fifth Regiment of the Twenty-fifth Division and th Fifth Regimental Combat Team were coming abreast on high ground just east of Chinju, 55 air miles west of Pusan, the main U. N. supply port. The Fifth Marine Regiment took the south coast port of Kosong, 20 miles southeast of Chinju, and advanced four miles beyond in a Friday night attack. The Marines, on their way to a junction with the Fifth Regimental Combat Team, were throwing another threat at Red troops not already trapped by the Army. The Reds continued to withdraw from Chinju.

Western Front—The Communists heavily reinforced their bridgehead across the Naktong near Changnyong, 23 air miles southwest of Taegu, putting another regiment across Friday night. This gave them about a full division on the east side of a 2-mile sector facing the United States Twenty-fourth Division. A battery of 14 heavy Red field guns apparently survived a night attack by American planes.

Just to the north, about 300 Reds made a new crossing of the river west of Taegu Saturday morning and ran into hand-to-hand combat with men of the United States First Cavalry Division. Red tanks and artillery on the west bank pounded American positions.

Farther north around Waegwan, 12 miles northwest of Taegu, the Communist buildup continued west of the Naktong. In the heaviest concentration anywhere along the line, they had four—possibly five— divisions, General MacArthur's headquarters said. A report not fully confirmed said the Reds had massed 30 tanks in the Waegwan area.

North of Waegwan, the Reds launched their second Saturday morning push against the first South Korean Division. Ten tanks supported the push. Eighth Army headquarters reports said the South Koreans had knocked out five tanks and stalled the Reds. But five tanks still were on the loose. A South Korean commander said the Reds were getting tanks across on a rock and gravel causeway submerged in shallow water.

In all, the Communists appeared to have about 50,000 troops ready—or almost ready—for an all-out smash over the Naktong toward Taegu. American reinforcements moved into the river line Friday night.

Northern Front—South Korean troops repulsed Red attacks in the mountains about 30 miles north of Taegu on the western side of the north U. N. line.

On the eastern side, Red troops pushed southward from captured Yongdok, 90 air miles north of Pusan toward Pohang against strong South Korean resistance.

South Korean reinforcements for the Pohang battle were placed northwest of the town to block a major Red thrust expected along the 23-mile stretch from Yongdok.

The fresh South Koreans moved up from the south to meet the main Red force, estimated at two regiments. They traveled northward by road, skirting Pohang itself.

Red guerillas were only a mile and a half from the Pohang airfield when Associated Press Correspondent Hal Boyle filed a Friday night dispatch. He said Red artillery was within range.

United States tanks and South Korean troops sped to reinforce the greatly outnumbered Americans fighting for the strip.

So small was the number of United States soldiers defending the field that such noncombatants as cooks and clerks dug in with their fighting buddies.

United States Mustangs helped fight for Pohang and the airstrip Friday. Enemy fire got so close to the field by dark, however, that the fighters flew to safety elsewhere for the night.

Red regulars were only 3½ miles from the strip when the Mustangs were forced to quit.

The Eighth Army said Pohang, No. 2 United States supply port, was left in flames as United States troops withdrew after savage close-quarter fighting during the night.

While General MacArthur's headquarters announced that United States troops had erased all but one Communist bridgehead on the Naktong River, that one is important.

It is the Changnyong bridgehead 29 miles southwest of Taegu. If the Reds break through there they will cut off Taegu from Pusan, 55 miles southwest of Taegu.

Heavy fighting continued there. About 6000 Red troops, aided by artillery fire from across the Naktong, were making a big effort to break eastward.

The attack on Pohang, 55 miles due east of the Waegwan build-up, was started Friday. Rugged Communist invaders, carrying hand weapons, moved across mountain trails on the port.

U. S. Army leaders apparently underestimated the speed with which Red troops could move inland off the coastal area in strength enough to seize Pohang.

The attackers numbered possibly 3000 men, including guerillas.

The Red troops in Pohang were well ahead of their supplies. But unless they are dislodged soon, the Third South Korean Division, 25 miles up the coast, will be trapped.

Boyle, on the vital Pohang fighter strip, told how a task force pushing to the aid of the American defenders was ambushed on a highway leading to the field.

More than 100 men got through, he said. Boyle did not say how many were caught in the Red ambush.

5-Shot Russian Weapon Captured by U. S. Unit

With U. S. Fifth Regimental Combat Team, Aug. 11 (AP).—American troops captured a new Russian-made weapon on the South Korean front today.

It is an automatic weapon that fires five shots at once, similar to a pom-pom machine gun.

24th Division Delays Attack; Enemy Doesn't

By O. H. P. King

With the Twenty-fourth Division in Korea, Aug. 11 (AP).—Every day for six days the depleted American Twenty-fourth Division has counter-attacked North Korean troops in an attempt to shove them back across the Naktong River on the central front.

Every night the division conceded another half day would be necessary.

But the Reds kept gaining ground. They have rolled two or three miles since spanning the river which is deep and wide in this area.

Today the American program was changed from the usual 5:45 a. m. takeoff to noon. At about 10 a. m. the enemy launched a mortar and artillery attack that surprised officers in regimental headquarters.

Windows were broken and a shell fragment landed on a map on the table in the "war room."

Try to Solidify Line

But at noon the Americans counterattacked again—as scheduled. A heavy artillery bombardment preceded the push-off.

Several hours later, Maj. Gen. John H. Church, division commander, said good progress was being made.

Claiming equal attention was a move by Americans from another division to join the Twenty-fourth and solidify the line against the Reds.

This could eliminate one of the greatest causes of worry for the Twenty-fourth—encirclement.

The Reds put an antitank weapon across the river today by means of a pontoon bridge which was quickly destroyed. The weapon reportedly knocked out one American tank which was helping a reconnaisance party eliminate Communist roadblocks on the route to Masan, to the south. This road was believed open to traffic as of tonight.

The seesaw battle fo the ridges in the bulge east of the Naktong River, south of Pugong and west of Yongsan, has given new United States troops a stark example of the difference in military theories of Communist and democratic forces.

The Communist enemy charges and keeps coming in the face of devastating fire.

U. S. Forces Build Up

As a result, the enemy is expending troops at a rate that should find his resources exhausted, say military observers. Meanwhile, American forces are being built up.

The Allies expect rapid progress once they get started.

Almost every enemy advance has been patterned on infiltration and encirclement tactics, plus seizure of artillery positions as immediate objectives.

Officers of the United States 24th Division are hopeful their old enemy, the North Korean Fourth Division, will be eliminated at the Naktong River front.

These enemy troops have moved out from one sector of the battle front to another as the 24th Division shifted.

Records show each contact resulted in a rebuff for the Americans. One officer said there have been nine such consecutive defeats.

Shipload of Supplies No Help, Army Decides

At a South Korean Port, Aug. 11 (AP).—A shipment of ladies lingerie, hosiery, babies' bottles, bottle warmers and expensive luggage arrived at a South Korean port recently.

"I took one look at the manifest and told them not even to bother unloading it from the ship," said Maj. Charles Whitcomb, Sacramento, Calif., United States Eighth Army central exchange officer for Korea.

Army Hostess Describes Wild Flight to Escape Invaders

By Bill Brinkley
Post Reporter

Irene Karl got three hours notice to flee the Reds and the tortuous path that began in Seoul's black night ended yesterday in midsummer Washington.

Miss Karl

In between lay 48 hours of fear and a fractured skull and three weeks in the hospital . . .

Sitting, somewhat shaken still, in Lee House hotel, Miss Karl had tales to tell.

"But just call me Bobb. All the boys in the Army knew me as Bobby."

Bobby was Army hostess at the only recreation club in Korea, and . . .

"When the news came that Sunday of what was happening on the thirty-eighth parallel, no one got excited. We had had many alerts like that . . ."

But at midnight word shot through that this was it. Bobby and the other Americans got orders to be ready to depart in buses in three hours.

"All I could take with me was 65 pounds . . . I had to leave behind $5000 worth of my own belongings. A big banquet tablecloth with 24 napkins, hand-embroidered linen. . . .

"And we had to leave behind that nice club. I had just finished having built the only swimming pool in Korea."

Twenty miles south at Inchon, Bobby and 681 other American women and children were put on a Norwegian freighter for evacuation to Japan.

When she stepped aboard she had had not one wink of sleep for 48 hours.

She stepped aboard . . . immediately fainted away, her head cracking, fractured, on the deck.

Then it was the hospital in Japan. . . . Finally in a plane back here, setting down yesterday.

Korea is physically far behind her but many questions flame up in her mind. . . .

What happened to the 62 South Koreans who worked at the Army club? Rumors in Japan were that the Reds had executed them.

Particularly she wonders about a South Korean called "Casey" — by the Americans—who ran her craft shop.

And she wonders who got her clothes . . . the three summer formals, three dinner formals, 12 pairs of shoes.

"Anyhow, they can't wear my shoes," she laughed. The club in Seoul, where Bobby first went in 1947, was the third she has been connected with to meet ill luck.

When she was with the Red Cross at Ipswich, England, during World War II the club was bombed out.

When she went to the Fleet Club at Exeter, England, that club burned.

A friend, Comdr. Harry W. Leiser, who commanded the supply base at Exeter when Bobby was there and who met her yesterday on her arrival, was kidding her:

"Now, don't you go to Germany."

Hope Still Alive For U. S. Flier Twice Missing

With tested courage and hope born of answered prayers, the wife of a Fort George Meade, Md., colonel is facing the fact that her flying son, a 1st lieutenant, is missing in action again.

Lieut. Thomas

Mrs. Ignatius B. Thomas has met hardship and despair before, and won.

Perhaps the first time was in the Philippine Islands in 1924 when she gave birth to Norbourn Anton Thomas in a lonely Army post.

Another time was in Pearl Harbor, December 7, 1941. Norbourn Thomas was 17 when he got his first taste of bombs. The family prayed and survived the day.

And again a few years later, when Norbourn Anton Thomas was shot down in action flying a reconnaisance mission over Austria. He was MIA for the first time. The family heard nothing for more than a month.

Then the young flier was found alive in a prisoner-of-war camp, and the family prayed that he would survive the horrors of that experience.

He survived to fly again in many countries and in Korea in July.

But on a mission over Korea August 3, Norbourn Anton Thomas disappeared for the second time. MIA in another war, half a world from Austria and World War II.

Mrs. Thomas received a letter from her son Wednesday. It was dated August 2. "There's really a war going on here," he wrote his family. "Don't let anyone ever tell you different."

Lieutenant Colonel Thomas, the boy's father, now on the adjutant general's staff at Second Army headquarters, Fort George Meade, is a Pacific war veteran himself.

"We are just clinging to that shred of hope," Mrs. Thomas said. "Our hopes were answered once before."

Propaganda Move

Enemy Plans To Use Seoul As Capital

Tokyo (Saturday) Aug. 12 (U.P.). The North Koreans plan to abandon their provisional capital at Pyongyang August 15 and move their seat of government to Seoul in an effort to justify their invasion of South Korea, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said today.

A spokesman for MacArthur said United States Far East headquarters has received intelligence advices that the move will be made.

Seoul, the traditional Korean capital, has been the seat of government for South Korea since the country was split at the Thirty-eighth parallel. The city was captured by the Communists shortly after they invaded South Korea.

2 From Area Are Wounded In Korea War

Two Washington area soldiers have been wounded, one of them seriously, in the Korean fighting, the Defense Department announced in its latest casualty lists yesterday.

A total of eight Virginia and five Maryland soldiers were reported wounded, and an Air Force first lieutenant, the son of a Fort George Meade colonel, was reported missing in action.

Seriously wounded, the Defense Department said, was Corpl. Howard James Wimbrough, jr., 21, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. Wimbrough, 3346 Baker st., ne.

A native of Norfolk, Va., and a veteran of two years in the Army, he was in the field artillery in Korea.

In a letter to his parents dated in July, Wimbrough wrote: "Keep your chin up, mother. I'll come through all right. We're really giving these jokers a fit."

Mrs. Wimbrough said the Defense Department telegram said her son had been "seriously wounded," but gave no details. Corporal Wimbrough was a student pilot with the Virginia Pilot Association in Norfolk before he joined the Army. The family moved to Washington five years ago.

Second Lieut. James R. Hill, jr., 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ralph Hill, 6404 46th ave., Riverdale, Md., has been wounded in both legs in Korea. Hill is in a Tokyo hospital, according to his mother and expects to be evacuated. He lived in Japan with his wife and small son.

A native of Langley, Va., Hill was a cadet at McKinley Technical High School here, and joined the Navy in 1943 at the age of 17. After attending naval schools in Richmond, Hill shifted to the Army in 1945 and was appointed to West Point in that year. After a year and a half at the Military Academy, Mrs. Hill said her son left to get married, re-enlisted in the Army and was commissioned in October, 1947. He went to Japan in April, 1949.

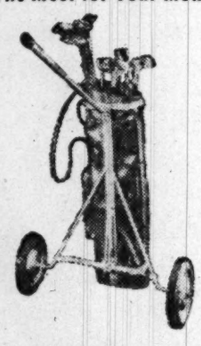

These other Maryland soldiers were reported wounded:

Corpl. Leo A. Fisher, son of Norman L. Fisher, Waldorf; Pfc. Charles H. D. Hager, son of Mrs. Ruth Griffith, Keedysville; Pfc. George T. Smith, son of Mrs. Frances R. Smith, Baltimore; and Pfc. Virgil Lee White, son of Mrs. Zelda Mary White, Cumberland.

These Virginia soldiers were reported wounded:

Corpl. Edward Bynum, son of Mrs. Adell Bynum, Suffolk; Corpl. Ray S. Covey, son of Mrs. Lou Odell Covey, Hiwassee; Pvt. Roy E. Dillard, son of William A. Dillard, Tazewell; and Pfc. Harold E. Dyke, son of Mrs. Dorothy V. Dyke, Winchester.

7th Suspect Seized In Fuchs Spy Case

New York, Aug. 11 (AP).—The FBI nabbed suspect No. 7—a 34-year-old mother of two children—today in the Harry Gold-Dr. Klaus Fuchs atom spy case.

She is Mrs. Ethel Greenglass Rosenberg, accused of conspiring with her husband Julius and others to recruit her brother, David Greenglass, into gathering "classified information concerning the atomic bomb for the Soviet Union."

The small, impassive Mrs. Rosenberg was held in $100,000 bail after Chief Assistant United States Attorney Miles J. Lane said she and her husband made preparations to leave the country after the arrest of the confessed atom spy Harry Gold.

"If the crime with which she is charged had not occurred," Lane told United States Commissioner Edward W. McDonald, "perhaps we would not have had the present situation in Korea."

Lane did not explain his remark. Presumably he meant that possession of stolen A-bomb secrets gave the Communists enough confidence to press beyond their former borders.

Rosenberg and Greenglass were arrested earlier on spy charges. Greenglass formerly was an Army sergeant stationed in 1945 at the Los Alamos, N. Mex., A-bomb project. The FBI said they and Mrs. Rosenberg were involved in a conspiracy with Gold, the Philadelphia chemist who has admitted giving the Russians highly secret data stolen by the British atom scientist, Dr. Klaus Fuchs.

Gold is awaiting sentence. Like Mrs. Rosenberg and the other Americans, he could be sentenced to death. Fuchs is serving a 14-year term in a British prison.

Mrs. Rosenberg worked as a stenographer for various industries. In 1940 she was a United States census clerk. She is a native New Yorker. Her father was born in Russia and her mother in Austria. Lane said she and her husband have long been affiliated with Communists.

The FBI said at the time of her husband's arrest July 17 he belonged to a spy ring financed by Anatoli Yakovlev, former Soviet vice consul.

The others arrested and linked by the FBI with Gold are Alfred Dean Slack of Syracuse, N. Y., charged with conspiracy; and Abraham Brothman and Miriam Moskowitz of New York, both charged with conspiring with Gold to give false testimony before a Federal grand jury.

Typists Needed

Marines Call On Women to Rejoin Colors

The Marine recruiting station at 1400 Pennsylvania ave. nw., made a special appeal yesterday.

They need a recruit who won't need to go through boot training and who won't expect to be sent either to the Halls of Montezuma or to the shores of Tripoli.

In short, they want to sign up a former enlisted woman Marine who is a good typist, to handle the growing paper work at the recruiting station.

The woman who qualifies will be enlisted in the Reserve in her former grade for active duty at 1400 Pennsylvania ave. She may be single or married, but may not have children dependents. There are no age requirements.

On the male side, the Marine recruiters accepted three enlistees yesterday out of 18 who applied.

The main Army-Air Force recruiting station at Arlington Farms swore in 14 Army recruits and seven for the Air Force. Fourteen other men were accepted and were still being processed.

The Navy recruiting station at 1400 Pennsylvania ave. nw., enlisted nine men and accepted two of six new applicants for further processing.

Two applicants were also accepted for the chaplain service.

The Army-Air Force recruiting station at Arlington Farms yesterday gave pre-induction physical and mental examinations to 107 men sent by District Draft Boards 13 and 15.

Six others called by these boards failed tot report. They are being checked by District Selective Service officials.

3 More Guard Units Here Are Called Up

Three more units of the District National Guard were called to active duty yesterday.

The units, which will be activated on September 11, include the Headquarters detachment and Headquarters Battery, 260th Anti-aircraft Artillery Group.

The third outfit ordered to active duty is the 171st Military Police Battalion.

The 260th AAA Group units are under the command of Col. Leroy S. Mann of 5447 30th pl. nw. Commanding officer of the 171st is Lieut. Col. Sylvester Blackwell of 1820 California st. nw.

New Immigration Bill Rapped by Acheson

Secretary of State Dean Acheson said yesterday that Senate-passed legislation sponsored by Senator Pat McCarran (D., Nev.), to tighten immigration restrictions "unduly hampers the Government's conduct of foreign relations especially in the struggle with Communism."

Acheson said the measure also would bar from this country nationals of Yugoslavia and Spain as well as ex-Communists who might be of help in the fight against subversive activities.

Acheson referred to a bill which would set up barriers against second-string foreign diplomats and lower-echelon United Nations employes who are suspected of engaging in Communist activities.

McCarran introduced a sweeping Communist control bill Thursday that wraps into a single package about seven measures to curb subversives. It includes the provisions in the Senate-passed bill which Acheson criticized.

Answering Acheson's statement, McCarran said "it is quite evident that Mr. Acheson does not want a law with teeth in it." He said Acheson had written him a letter sometime ago opposing the immigration bill on "the general theme" that it was too tough.

"Mr. Acheson wants to pussyfoot as he has in the past," McCarran said. "We cannot go into this fight with 20-ounce gloves. We must use brass knuckles. We cannot stop tanks with kisses."

Meanwhile two veterans groups today urged immediate passage of Communist-control legislation.

Clyde A. Lewis, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said that Congress should "enact immediately the so-called Mundt-Nixon Communist control bill."

A VFW spokesman said Lewis referred to the Mundt-Ferguson bill which, he said, is patterned after the Mundt-Nixon bill of the 80th congress and which would require the registration of Communist party members.

George N. Craig, national commander of the American Legion, said that activities of the Democratic and Republican parties are more restricted under existing laws than are those of the Communist Party.

Truman Would Put Off UMT

President Truman will not ask for universal military training to build up the armed services this year although he is "as strong for it as ever," the White House announced yesterday.

National Commander George Craig of the American Legion said after a White House conference, however, that he got the impression Mr. Truman favored UMT on a standby basis. He said he and the President did not discuss when such authority might be requested.

Rear Admiral H. A. Houser, director of legislative liaison for Defense Secretary Louis Johnson, told the Senate Armed Services Committee Thursday that the Defense Department will have a UMT recommendation "in the near future."

But Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said Mr. Truman will not ask for a law this year because he does not want anything to impede the progress of other emergency legislation.

Representative Harry L. Towe (R., N. J.) introduced a UMT bill yesterday calling for six months active military training for all men 18 through 19, who then would serve a term in the reserves.

Craig said he outlined to Mr. Truman provisions "of the new UMT bill" which will call for six months basic instruction "and trainees with 11 options for completing the equivalent of the remainder of the required year's training."

Craig said the Legion is mobilizing all its posts in support of the measure.

"We hope the new UMT bill will be introduced in Congress by the middle of next week," he said.

European Assembly Approves Churchill Plea For One Army

Strasbourg, France, Aug. 11 (AP). The European Consultative Assembly tonight adopted Winston Churchill's motion calling for creation of a unified European army under an over-all defense ministry.

The roll-call vote in this lower house of the unofficial United Europe Parliament was 89 in favor, five opposed and 17 abstaining.

The motion was introduced earlier today by Britain's wartime Prime Minister as western Europe's answer to the threat of Russian aggression. By accepting the motion the delegates agree to take Churchill's proposal to their respective member governments for action.

Churchill had asked for such an army "subject to proper democratic control." He said creation of a trustworthy defense system within the next two years would lessen the threat of a third world war.

A-Bombs Might Free Russia

He suggested that the use of atomic bombs against Russia in case of such a war "might well enable the brave Russian peoples to free themselves from a tyranny worse than that of the Czars."

"We in this assembly have no responsibility or executive power," he said, "but we are bound to give our warning and our counsel. There must be created, in the shortest possible time, a real defensive front in Europe. Great Britain and the United States must send large forces to the continent.

"France must revive again her famous army, welcome our Italian comrades. All—Greece, Turkey, Holland, Belgium and Scandinavia—all must bear their share. Courage and unity must inspire us and direct the mighty energies at the disposal of our governments to solid and adequate measures of defense.

"Those who serve supreme causes do not consider what they can get, but what they can give. Let that be our privilege, let that be our rivalry in the years that lie before us.

"We Have Breathing Space"

"The question which challenges us is: 'Shall we have the time? . . We are still under the shield of the atomic bomb, possessed of formidable quantities by the United States alone. In my opinion, we have a breathing space."

Churchill did not mention West Germany in his roll call of nations, but told newsmen later "of course Germany is included."

"I have heard it said that if any Germans, except Communists, were to be armed, this might be the pretext for a preventative war by Russia. Believe me, the long-calculated designs of the Soviet government will be timed or reflected by events of this order."

Members of the ruling British Labor Party opposed Churchill's motion calling attention to statutes forbidding discussion of military measures in the council.

Churchill asked approval of his motion as "a gesture of practical and constructive guidance" to the freed world. He did not specify how such an army should be organized or how it should tie in with the North Atlantic Pact defense system.

"Soviet forces in Europe, measured in active divisions in air force and in armored vehicles, outnumber the forces of western unity by at least six or seven to one," Churchill said. "These are terrible facts."

Churchill's address brought their quarrel to a head.

East-West Zones Ready Steel Accord

Bonn, Germany, Aug. 11 (AP).—An agreement has been reached for the immediate resumption of West German iron and steel deliveries to Communist East Germany, Allied officials said today.

This trade revival was disclosed even as Allied experts were reported authoritatively in Frankfurt to be discussing redeveloping the German industrial potential for Western European rearmament.

Occupation officials said that, with the exception of the former Hermann Goering war works at Watenstedt-Saltzgitter, in the British zone, scheduled dismantling of German factories will be completed by October 1.

A trade treaty between West and East Germany ran out last June 30 during an embargo on Ruhr steel shipments to the Soviet zone, which was caused by lagging Eastern deliveries to West Germany. East-West negotiations for a new trade arrangement, to run from October 1, are to follow, Allied spokesman reported.

(A Berlin dispatch of the Associated Press said that three million dollars worth of steel has been smuggled from West Germany into the Soviet Zone in the past six months.

(American officials, the dispatch said, reveal that a highly-organized contraband system made a virtual mockery out of an Allied-sponsored iron and steel embargo clamped against the Russian zone by the Bonn Republic last February.)

Part of what is left of the Goering works' steel production has been shipped to East Germany in the past, it has been reported. Of a scheduled 212,000 tons marked for dismantling, 181,000 tons already have been removed from the former Nazi war project. The Goering plant, which "not only made steel but fabricated it into munitions, could produce 700,000 tons a year.

This and other industrial production facilities remaining in West Germany have captured the interest of Western authorities, especially since the eruption in Korea. About six million tons of steel capacity has been lost in Western Germany through the dismantling program, officials say. But while this program is being wound up, a capacity of some 14,500,000 tons remain, although production is limited under the occupation to 11,100,000 tons a year.

Baudouin Takes Oath As Ruler of Belgium As Bomb Smoke Fills Parliament Chamber

Brussels, Aug. 11 (AP).—Crown Prince Baudouin, a bespectacled youth of 19 who virtually is a stranger in his own country, became ruler of the Belgians today. His father, King Leopold III, dropped to the role of King in name only.

Thrust suddenly to the stage in a drama that at one time threatened civil war, Baudouin took the oath of Prince Royal, or Regent, before both Houses of Parliament. Leopold, whose return July 22 from six years in exile provoked a crisis, remained in Laeken Palace.

Although Leopold remains King in name until Baudoin's twenty-first birthday, September 7, 1951, his son already is King in fact. Tonight Leopold appealed in a recorded broadcast to the Belgians to unite around "my well-beloved son."

Defiant noises from both factions in the royal crisis punctuated the day's ceremonies right up to the moment that Baudouin, standing nervously before the throne, took the oath.

As a joint session of Parliament finally approved the bill transferring the royal powers, an elderly Belgian army major hurled a smoke bomb from the gallery in the direction of Max Buset, Socialist president and leader in the move to oust Leopold.

No one was injured, but the chamber was filled with smoke. The major, Deloze de Corswaren, was seized by police.

The bill was passed with 349 affirmative votes. Eight legislators abstained.

The Communists carried their war of nerves to the young Prince as he was on the verge of taking the oth. Clad in his brand-new lieutenant general's uniform, Baudouin bowed stiffly at the start of the ceremony.

Suddenly, an unidentified Communist deputy sprang to his feet, cupped his hands to his mouth, and shrilled:

"Long Live the Republic!"

An apprehensive silence was broken by a din from the audience of 400 senators, deputies and guests, which gave him a burst of applause.

Baudouin read the oath, first in Flemish, then in French:

"I swear to observe the Constitution and the laws of the Belgian people, to maintain the national independence and the integrity of the territory. God save Belgium."

After the ceremony, Premier Jean Duvieusart called on the prince with the formal resignation of his Social Christian (Catholic) government. Baudouin was soon involved in political consultations on the choice of leaders to head his first administration.

Hereafter as in the case of Queen Wilhelmina during Princess Juliana's short regency in the Netherlands before her own accession, Leopold will be chief of state in retirement. He will draw an allowance. Thirty million Belgian francs ($600,000) will go to Baudouin.

Army and AF Call Reserves

these requirements, for combat arms second lieutenants may not be over 30, first lieutenants over 35 and captains over 41. In the service branches the limits are, for the same grades, 38, 41 and 45. Overage officers in the combat arms may be assigned to duty in service branches.

In selecting medical and dental officers, the Army said, efforts would be continued to procure quotas on a voluntary basis, and to assure equitable distribution throughout the country. Those who will not be called except by special Army Department direction are:

1. Medical officers with less than one year of intern training.
2. Senior residents before completion of the current year's training.
3. Those pursuing post-graduate courses until completion of the current year.
4. Those engaged as teachers whose work is deemed necessary to maintenance of national health, safety or interest.
5. Those whose separation from their communities would unduly jeopardize health.

Medical officers called will not be restricted to the company grades. These will include majors in the Medical and Medical Service Corps and Veterinary Corps and lieutenant colonels in the Dental Corps.

The Air Force announced the grounds on which reserve officers and airmen called to active duty may apply for delay.

It also announced that, as a step toward adjusting the rank of officers already on active duty to those of officers being recalled, 5000 will be considered for temporary promotion to the grades of captain and first lieutenant.

The Air Force said reserve personnel eligible for recall delay included:

1. Those engaged in research and scientific activities.
2. Students of professional graduate courses in dental, veterinary or medical colleges, or performing the first year of medical internship.
3. Individuals in certain essential activities.
4. Hardship and dependency cases meeting Air Force standards.
5. Key managerial personnel whose call to active duty would cause material loss in production, services, or research necessary to the national interest.

Reservists who are called to active duty and who "feel it essential" that the call be temporarily delayed were advised to ask the Air Force issuing their recall orders for delay.

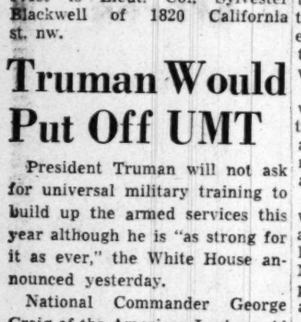

25 Ships Ordered to Use

The Maritime Administration yesterday ordered the withdrawal of 25 more victory-type cargo ships from the National Defense Reserve Fleet, bringing the total number of vessels withdrawn to 148.

Points On Milk

Health Officer Seckinger was given a Hobson's choice in determining the scoring procedure for various systems of milk utensil sterilization. The pity is that, in giving a five-point preference to steam sterilization over chemical sterilization Dr. Seckinger seems to have gone against his own conviction. During the hearings Dr. Seckinger argued that chemical sterilization, properly performed, was just as good as steam. The District Commissioners, however, stipulated that steam was to receive preference and left the determination of how much to the Health Department.

Dr. Seckinger's dilemma was understandable, and one which the Commissioners should not have foisted on him. Nevertheless, it was within his power to give, say, a one-point preference, or, indeed, to state flatly that he could not conscientiously give preference to either system. As it is now, although the former 15-point preference accorded steam has been cut down, the proponents of this system—notably the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association—maintain a substantial advantage with District sanction. Our feeling, which we reiterate, is that the determination of proper sanitary standards, provided that they can be adequately policed, is a job for the Health Department alone and not a matter for decision according to special interest pressure.

Pepco's Petition

The Potomac Electric Power Co. bases its request for rate increases on the need for new capital to finance a costly construction program made necessary by the rapid growth of the Washington area as well as by backlog construction needs neglected during the war years. The company states that since the commencement of its expansion program in 1946 its total capital investment has increased by $55,900,000 or 49 percent. By the end of 1954 the estimated cost of the long-range construction program which it considers essential to meet the demands of customers and insure uninterrupted service will amount to 128 million dollars. To raise needed funds the company will have to sell large amounts of securities to investors, and those funds will not be forthcoming unless earnings are sufficient to attract new investment capital.

Since the construction of new facilities takes time and there is a further lag between the time when they are placed in service and the time when they begin to produce improved earnings, it follows that Pepco's new capital investments have, for the time being, reduced the average rate of return on total capital investment below the level of what is considered adequate. To emphasize the need for interim rate increases the company states that the return on the additional capital invested in the business since 1946 was only 3.2 percent during the year ended June 30, 1950, while the return for the current year is expected to drop to 2.9 percent.

Although the company has presented convincing arguments in support of rate increases, designed to increase operating revenues by $3,500,000, its proposal to obtain $661,000 of that total—an increase of 71 percent over present charges—from the Capital Transit Co. is startling, to say the least. Since an increase of this amount in the cost of electric services would take away about a third of the net income that was expected from the recent increase in fares, the Capital Transit Co. warns that if Pepco's request is granted, another increase in bus and streetcar fares will be necessary. Ultimately, therefore, the burden of these higher charges would have to be borne by the public.

As a matter of fact, it is doubtful whether the Capital Transit Co. would be able to offset the additional cost of electricity by a further fare increase. For, as fares rise, patronage declines, and eventually returns diminish instead of increasing. Possibly the limit of profitable fare increases has already been reached in this case. Whether the higher charges can be justified on strictly economic grounds is a controversial question that will, no doubt, be threshed out in the hearings before the Public Utilities Commission. But even if it can be shown that the rates paid by Capital Transit are unreasonably low, the PUC will have to decide whether it is in the public interest to raise transit rates or, as an alternative, establish a higher scale of rates than requested for residential and commercial users. In other words, assuming that rate increases are granted, it will be up to the PUC to decide how the burden of the increased charges shall be distributed.

In our opinion, Pepco showed poor judgment in delaying its request for rate increases until the PUC had disposed of the Capital Transit request. But its petition, though belated, will at any rate bring the issues involved to public attention and compel the PUC to seek a solution of the problems raised by the irreconcilable demands of Pepco and Capital Transit.

Formosa Policy

It is of the highest importance that the President should clarify and expand upon the policy on Formosa which he declared as part of the decision to join the United Nations in repelling the aggressor in Korea. The general misunderstanding is as thick as a fog. Not only are people of this country in a quandary; the countries which are our allies in Korea are mystified and more than a little querulous. There should be not the slightest doubt left in the American or the Allied mind about the intentions and purposes of the United States. At all times this is important, but nowadays, with 50 nations relying upon the United States as defensor pacis, it is crucial. General MacArthur, in the statement of his visit to Formosa, appears to regard the current questioning as a personal insult, a form of treachery, or Communist, but that is either because he is 10,000 miles from the scene of the questioning, or is not being properly informed by the Administration.

The Truman statement is plain as a pikestaff—severely plain. The President said:

> In these circumstances the occupation of Formosa by Communist forces would be a direct threat to the security of the Pacific area and to United States forces performing their lawful and necessary functions in that area. Accordingly I have ordered the Seventh Fleet to prevent any attack on Formosa. As a corollary of this action I am calling upon the Chinese government on Formosa to cease all air and sea operations against the mainland. The Seventh Fleet will see that this is done.

This is language that a school child can understand. Formosa is taken out of the war, quarantined, neutralized. The Seventh Fleet will see that this is done—by patrolling the 100 miles of water in the Formosan Straits. The President did not say that we would support Chiang Kai-shek in Formosa, that we would arm and provision Chiang Kai-shek, or that we would advise Chiang Kai-shek in the operation and disposition of his army in Formosa. If he had meant any of these things, then he would have used the kind of language he reserved later in the same message for Indo-China and the Philippines. Here he says we would give "military assistance" to the Philippines, "military assistance" to the French forces in Indo-China, together with the dispatch of military missions. This is just as clear—and different—as the phraseology about Formosa.

Mr. Harriman on his return from Tokyo says that there has been no change in policy since June 27, and the President has indorsed him. This is heartening. But it doesn't altogether satisfy those who have seen a curious development in the administration of that policy which doesn't jibe with neutralization. There was, for instance, Chiang's air strike at Quemoy, which is within the territorial limits of mainland China. Were there any representations on this matter to Chiang Kai-shek? After this strike the United States sent a tanker of aviation gasoline to Chiang Kai-shek. What are our allies to think of a shipment made so soon after a strike which was out of harmony with the Truman order and so soon after we had persuaded the British to stop all fuel shipments to Communist China?

The issue cannot be sloughed off by the easy assurances that the President gave on Thursday. Surely he knows better than anybody that Chiang Kai-shek will stop at nothing to undermine his policy of localizing the conflict in Korea. It should be made clear that in respect of Formosa he reaffirmed Formosa as still Japanese territory and that Chiang is there only by tolerance and not as an ally or even a deputy of America in the furtherance of its new Far Eastern policy.

Privilege Of The Club

Much is being made of the rejection by the Senate of four nominees to Federal posts as a slap at President Truman. Certainly the overwhelmingly negative vote had that element in it, and in a sense it was a reflection on the President for bad or whimsical judgment. But, more than a rebuff to the Administration, it also was a reaffirmation of the rules of the world's most exclusive club—rules that Mr. Truman, himself a former Senator, well knows. When a nominee is declared "personally obnoxious" by one Senator, it is only on the rarest occasion that fellow Senators disregard the objection. Thus the present votes are not so much against Mr. Truman as for the tradition of senatorial courtesy.

In the case of Martin A. Hutchinson, whom Mr. Truman had nominated to the Federal Trade Commission, the vote apparently had little to do with Mr. Hutchinson's qualifications, which are pretty good. Mr. Hutchinson had had the temerity to run against Senator Byrd of Virginia in 1946. Mr. Byrd, of course, has been one of the Administration's most uncompromising foes. It may be suspected that Mr. Truman could not resist the temptation to tweak the Virginian in appointing a man whom he knew would be unacceptable to Senator Byrd. But as the President should have expected, Mr. Byrd, though he did not resort to the "personally obnoxious" phrase, got the Senate to reject Mr. Hutchinson.

There is something more to be said for the rejection of former Representative Frank E. Hook of Michigan to be a member of the Motor Claims Commission. Mr. Hook incurred the enmity of Senator Ferguson by running against him, but beyond that his principal qualification seems to be that he is a former Democratic Congressman looking for a job. The only thing strange in his rejection is that the Senate apparently is a good deal more severe in its treatment of former members of the House than of its own former members.

In the rejection of two judges the Senate also followed form. Judge Carroll O. Switzer of Iowa had run afoul of Senator Gillette, who opposed him bitterly. Senator Gillette had this on his side: Mr. Switzer was far down on the list of recommendations of the Iowa bar. As for Judge M. Neil Andrews of Georgia, he had two strikes against him in the opposition of both Georgia Senators, who were consulted but whose advice was ignored. What all this adds up to is that, irrespective of the merit of nominees, the old senatorial rule still is very much alive, and President Truman played a long shot in ignoring it.

Ship Security

As one of the measures taken by the Bureau of Customs to provide port security, all ships from Iron Curtain countries apparently are to be searched thoroughly before docking. Thus the fact that the Polish liner Batory was subjected to a four-hour check by customs officials in New York the other day is not surprising. The Batory is the ship that spirited away Gerhard Eisler, and it and its crew are per se suspect. What is not so easy to understand is why two Finnish ships were not allowed to dock at Philadelphia though the slight has been corrected. If there was specific reason to suspect the Finnish vessels, that is one thing; but if Finland has been lumped with Iron Curtain countries, the Finns have a legitimate grievance. To be sure, Finland is a neighbor of Russia, but the Finns, so far from being the slaves or even the vassals of Moscow, have maintained a high degree of independence. The latest example is a trade agreement with Russia which was a free and equal transaction.

One wise step taken by the Coast Guard is to screen crews of American ships to prevent known subversives from signing on—a measure already agreed to by unions and management. Beyond this a great deal of secrecy surrounds the specific instructions of the Customs Bureau to its individual port collectors. The threat, of course, is that some foreign vessel will smuggle in an atom bomb or similar device to destroy a port city or block its harbor. This is one of the possibilities mentioned by Vannevar Bush in his book, Modern Arms and Free Men. No precaution against this possibility is too great, and every doubt ought to be resolved in favor of the United States. Secrecy on exact procedures followed is, of course, necessary, for customs officials cannot afford to tip their hand. Nonetheless, we ought, insofar as possible, to avoid offending our friends with needlessly narrow interpretations of the rule. No nation can object to necessary security precautions, but wounded feelings often can be prevented with a little advance explanation.

CAB Turnabout

From all appearances the Civil Aeronautics Board has been pretty cavalier in its treatment of National Airlines' request to institute daylight coach service to Florida. On August 2 the CAB informed the airline verbally that it had approved the petition to start DC-6 coach service from New York to Miami at a fare of $58. Shortly thereafter National's competitor, Eastern Air Lines, filed a complaint charging that the new low rate would "debase the general fare level." Whereupon the CAB reversed itself and suspended National's authorization—but not until after National had spent several thousand dollars publicly advertising the new service.

It is true, as the CAB order points out, that many coach experiment authorizations will expire on September 30. Daylight coach service is a new departure, and undoubtedly the CAB will want to investigate thoroughly the effect of coach service on airline economics generally before giving final approval to it. A relevant factor here, of course, is whether coach service is costing the Government more in subsidy, directly or indirectly. Nevertheless, all reports indicate that air coach experiments have been phenomenally succesful, not only paying for themselves but actually generating new traffic. At any rate, the CAB must have known before it gave initial approval to National's request that it intended to make a new survey. Whatever the merit of the suspension, the CAB's inconsistency is mystifying. Airlines at least have the right to expect that a decision, once made, will hold long enough to permit them to operate without fear of overnight cancellation.

ON TURNING OVER A STONE

The man before me, raking the hay, had moved
A stone with the rake's prongs that curved behind.
It was a rough shale, sun-warmed on one side,
And when it tipped its cool side to the sun,
I saw the ants beneath, boiling and frenzied,
Their white and clammy eggs glistening like rice.
The red dots scurried in tormented haste.
Moments before, I thought, a regularity
Pulsed in the avenues, and over all
A sky of stone seemingly stood forever.
But a steel arm had shoved through stones and clovers,
Dodging a few and grazing others until
It found the right one. Like so many disasters
Striking in the night, this had come and passed—
And a small city shook within the weeds.
The ants' fears would be mended. For the moment,
They must know waves of fear, as others must
Who feel black scouring, whips of pain, and steel
Though not as accidental as rake-prongs.

Russian Trees

According to an Associated Press dispatch from London, the Moscow radio has announced to the world a new invention. Prof. Nikolai Vekhov told a Moscow radio reporter about a development of trees that grow twice as fast as usual and yield four times as much wood.

It seems to me that this would have been the time for him to tell the world about the huge animals the Russians are raising. They have sired the biggest bull in the world and can throw him farther than anybody else. Why brag about the flora and slight the fauna?

Glamourizing Potatoes

The potato surplus is being argued and studied by our legislators and economists seemingly without remedy. Apparently these men are looking for some complicated miraculous legislation of political importance to do the trick; or they would apply the remedy that has lifted industry after industry to the very heights of prosperity and self-reliance.

Remember the housewife! Come down from high economy fiddle-faddle and sell the girl in the kitchen. She is the last word. She decides how big the next surplus will be, not some Government legislator or economist.

The writer grew potatoes for several years and later spent many years selling for one of the world's greatest potato merchants. With this experience, it is safe to say when the white potato meets the housewife at today's grocery store it is the dirtiest, poorest displayed, and poorest assorted item in the store.

Almost all other industries have cleaned up and assorted their products. For example, look at today's oranges, apples, lettuce, plums, cherries, celery, and, believe it or not, tomatoes. Suppose the above mentioned items were heaved in a bin dirty, cut, bruised, broken, and unassorted!

There is not another item on the grocery market so versatile as the potato. It cooks with almost everything from clams to cheese, and alone it is hardly equaled. Hidden in the potato is a gold mine of selling dynamite. Never in our history has a delicious staple been so in need of rescue.

Ado About Hoarding

If, according to all the reports from sources which should know the facts, there is no shortage in consumer goods, why raise so much fuss about people hoarding what they want?

The simple facts are that no family, prices being what they are already, can afford to buy more than a normal supply; and, if they do buy, they run the risk of losing a lot of the stuff through spoilage.

People living in cattle country, or nearby, can stock their deep freezers. So can those living in produce areas.

The squirrel lays by his needs for the winter—would he be guilty of hoarding nuts to carry him over? Why, then should a thrifty city slicker's wife be branded a hoarder if there is plenty of everything? The logic is distorted. Is there enough or not? If there is not enough, then the accusation of hoarder is in order. A lot of old stuff can be sold if there is plenty. If there is a shortage, then put on controls. W. T. McKINNON.

China In The U. N.

I was dumfounded by a Peterborough, N. H., dateline, on an Associated Press dispatch quoting Owen Lattimore as having said that Communist China should be given a seat in the United Nations.

I have been very much inclined to favor Mr. Lattimore's side of the controversy between Senator McCarthy and Lattimore, very largely because of the very bad odor attaching to McCarthy from some years before he was elected a Senator. I was inclined to take Mr. Lattimore's defense at face value; and, of course, it still may be entitled to be taken that way. But if he was quoted correctly by the Associated Press, I feel that he made a very serious blunder.

If Mr. Lattimore is in favor of giving the Communists another voice in the United Nations he would have been wise, so far as his own case is concerned, to have kept those ideas to himself. He has now given McCarthy and all his tribe an excellent basis for reopening the whole mess.

ALBERT D. RUST.
Mount Rainier, Md.

It would be as logical and realistic for the United Nations to recognize representatives of Czarist Russia today, and to refuse to seat the Communist delegates of the U. S. S. R., as it is to continue to recognize delegates of Chiang's regime and refuse to recognize the Communist government, which is now both the de facto and the de jure government of China.

Partnership With Germany

The American public is getting tired of the German problem. Unless we check this attitude in time we may be caught at serious disadvantage in a region far more vital to us than Korea. What we need is a fresh approach and a determination on our part to make the German people our partners in the world-wide struggle in which are are involved.

Two steps are necessary to make a partnership mutually beneficial: first, the psychological barriers existing on both sides must be broken down, and second, Germany must be given further support in realizing her justified national aims.

The basis of understanding between the two nations has sadly deteriorated during the past few years. Americans are disturbed by the rise of nationalism in Germany and tend to blame the "incorrigible" German character for it. Too few of us are willing to concede that nationalism is bound to appear in any country under foreign occupation. We must also distinguish between unhealthy chauvinism and a legitimate patriotic feeling expressing love of home.

On the other side of the fence, German understanding of America is equally marred. Illogically, occupation personnel are only too often blamed by the Germans for the bitter consequences of the nation's defeat. At the same time, they do not want western forces to leave for fear of a Russian move. The aim should be for the occupiers to act and consequently to be accepted not as a force to hold Germans down but to protect them from outside aggression.

A great possibility for improved understanding lies in cultural relations. So far the occupation has not succeeded in giving the Germans a favorable impression of our way of life. Increasing attempts to bring before them the best that our culture has to offer have not yet eliminated the widespread prejudice against American "jazz and movie culture." Nowhere is the need for informed understanding and positive contact greater than in the area of culture for which the Germans in general have genuine appreciation. It is encouraging to see the energetic steps being taken in this direction.

With the second point, American support for justified German aims, many complex issues are rising. For here we have to weigh not only the American and German viewpoints but also the interests of our European allies as well as the effect upon eastern Germany and the Russian bloc.

The primary western German aims are: Security from aggression, industrial capacity sufficient to absorb unemployment, to increase exports, to provide a fair standard of living, sovereignty in handling German affairs, unification of the country, restoration of lost eastern territories to permit the resettlement of expellees.

Security, industrial capacity, and sovereignty are issues that can be solved through the cooperation of the Western powers. Fortunately, with the European Council and the North Atlantic Pact a supranational framework has been created which, through German participation and with American support, can solve many problems. Security from the German point of view must now no longer mean the establishment of a national military machine, but can be obtained through cooperation with and possibly a contribution to the Western defense forces. This new concept would also help to break down the traditional distrust of the French.

By the same token, the German demands for increased industrial production could be granted. In an integrated European industrial system, such as is now being worked out under the Schuman Plan, a satisfactory living standard can be guaranteed to the Geramn people and, at the same time, the fear of German industrial domination can be dispelled to the good of all Europe. A larger measure of sovereignty, finally, needs no longer arouse suspicion when vital parts of national sovereignty are voluntarily surrendered to an international authority.

The other two German aims stated above, unification and restoration of lost territory, cannot be satisfied by the Western powers alone but would require the consent of the Soviet Union. It is unlikely that this consent will be given unless Russia expects that through it the Kremlin's hold can be extended over the whole of Germany.

This does not mean, however, that the United States should no longer champion the cause of a restored Germany. Quite in the contrary. Peace will not come to Europe and the world without a stable peace for Germany, and that must include the restoration of her pre-Hitler area.

New Strains On Family Ties

By Malvina Lindsay

Parking the 'Old Folks'

WE SELDOM think of them as flesh and blood, those digits that make up the frequently quoted statistics of the Nation's aging population. Yet the lined, anxious faces of old Mrs. Doakes and elderly Mr. Doe, the worried faces of their sons and daughters, the baffled faces of their grandchildren hover behind every abstract discussion of the aging.

Mrs. Doakes and Mr. Doe symbolize the family dilemmas growing out of longer living in a crowded, industrial world. Seas of such elderly faces will rise before social workers participating next week in the Conference on Aging called by the Federal Security Agency.

Both Mrs. Doakes and Mr. Doe are among the four fifths of all Americans who live with "the children" or other family members.. They are among the three and a half million past 65 who have no money income.

MRS. DOAKES, 75, lives with a married daughter in a pint-sized city house. She must sleep on the living-room couch, hence be a participant in all family social life. She constantly feels in the way of her teen-age granddaughters; they find many of her ideas cramping and irritating. Her ways of doing things differ from her daughter's; she feels a nuisance in the tiny kitchen. Hence she has a frightening sense of impotence.

Mr. Doe, 67, lives in a city apartment with his married son. He feels a constant sense of guilt before his daughter-in-law, is worried over sharing a room with his grandson, which he realizes is not best for the boy. He is fairly vigorous and constantly hunts for work. But no one wants a man that age.

The living conditions of these oldsters are examples of the new strains being put on family life by the increase of the life span. "Who will take in mother—or father—or both?" is the question an ever-increasing number of families faces today.

This may cause dissension among family members. All too often it causes major sacrifice from the unmarried member of the family—usually a woman wage earner.

It frequently causes family emotional conflict when three generations are living in close quarters, and thus makes more difficult the rearing of mentally healthy children. It brings the greatest heartaches to the aged themselves, often robbing them of dignity, usefulness, self-esteem. Or it may cause them to swell the increasing numbers of the elderly senile and mentally ill—especially if they are parked out somewhere, neglected emotionally and deprived of normal family relationships.

This situation has been slowly building up as life expectancy has increased from the 49 years at the turn of the century to 67 today. Now it is having widespread impact on American families as they find themselves so generally living in cities in small houses or apartments without room for "grandma."

ONLY a little more than a generation ago many of the aged met their parking problems by retiring to the church yard. But medical science, including gains on pneumonia, has changed the picture. And the trek to cities has deprived the elderly of the odd jobs on farms that made them useful and needed.

How these older people can be fitted into family relationships today will be approached from many angles at the Conference on Aging. More specially designed housing, including communal apartments, is one approach. More economic independence for the elderly (by social security, pensions, individual thrift and planning) is another—and one that would do much to put out the welcome mat for them anywhere.

More continued opportunity for them to get jobs suited to their abilities, and to continue self-supporting is still another—and one that they are greatly interested in, judging from letters coming to conference planners.

However, the underlying issue to be met is the human one. The elderly and their grown children love each other as much as ever, but both suffer from a sense of guilt from the strain that the mechanics of modern living puts on their relationships.

Education to help both to understand this situation and to adapt to it is needed, beginning at the cradle. In this crowded world every one needs to begin early to prepare psychologically for living with and adapting to others. But even if not early, then later, for people can change at any age. Science has shown that the legend of old age's rigidity has been much exaggerated.

Above all, the sons and daughters of the retired need a deeper understanding of how to give their parents a sense of belonging to the social scene, especially the family group, whether physically members of it or not.

Finland A Satellite?

In your issue of August 9, on the front page you have a story indicating that Finland is a Russian satellite and telling of the two Finnish ships that were subjected to an intensive search before being allowed to unload their cargo.

You should know better than that. The Finns have been fighting Russian oppression for hundreds of years.

You have published many articles by some of America's best known writers that disprove the idea of Finland as a Russian satellite.

Lagging Stockpile

By Marquis Childs

Foot-Dragging Over Manganese

ONE OF the things that almost no one in Washington talks about—publicly—is the status of stockpiles of strategic materials. This is a grisly kind of secret because nobody wants to expose the deficiencies to public view.

Childs

On vital materials such as aluminum, copper, manganese, tin and rubber the totals give no comfort at all. In some instances they are truly frightening. It is very much like the story of the early years of World War II when raw material deficiencies caused such harrowing concern as Nazi submarines sank American cargo ships almost at will.

In view of this, it is astonishing to discover a behind-the-scenes dispute in which the same old forces seem to be dragging anchor. The dispute is over manganese, one of the scarcest metals and one that is absolutely essential. It is the "cement" that must go into every bit of steel that is made.

The only country in the world with large known deposits of high-grade manganese is Soviet Russia. In the past a considerable share of our imports has come from Russia. But in the past two years this has been reduced to a trickle.

That has made it imperative to develop new sources of supply. A group of engineers-promoters came to Washington to urge development of manganese deposits their company had staked out in New Mexico. They were not asking for Government loans or aid. But they did want a contract from the Government agreeing in advance to buy the ore they produced at a sufficient price.

BECAUSE the New Mexican deposits are not so rich as the ore imported from Russia, the processing cost is naturally higher. The independent company proposed to install a processing furnace—these are in surplus left over from World War II—at Deming, N. Mex., to do the job.

It would seem to have been a natural in view of the acute shortage of a metal that is in reality more precious than the gold hoarded in Fort Knox. But, just as in World War II, the company's representatives in Washington found officials either strangely reluctant or, in some instances, deliberately obstructive.

They became convinced that this was due to the influence of the world steel cartel which has long dominated the manganese picture. The United States Steel Corp. had pushed the development of a manganese project in the Gold Coast of Africa. This was a high producer. But in the first months of World War II only five out of 100 shipments escaped German subs, according to one report.

The mysterious dragging of feet continued. The Bureau of Mines "lost" a report on the extent of the manganese deposits in the Southwest. Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer was urging development of manganese in Brazil. Jess Larson, administrator of the key General Services Administration, and his aides talked about the excessive cost of the New Mexican development and the possibility that the independent company might lose money.

AT THIS point the frustrated promoters told their story to two officials who immediately saw its significance. One was Senator Clinton Anderson of New Mexico, the other Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman.

Anderson promptly began to investigate. He says that what he found out startled him. One manganese mine in the Southwest was bought up by a large company and promptly closed down. A rich deposit in Mexico, just across the U. S. border, had gone undeveloped because the price offered by the steel-manganese cartel was impossibly low.

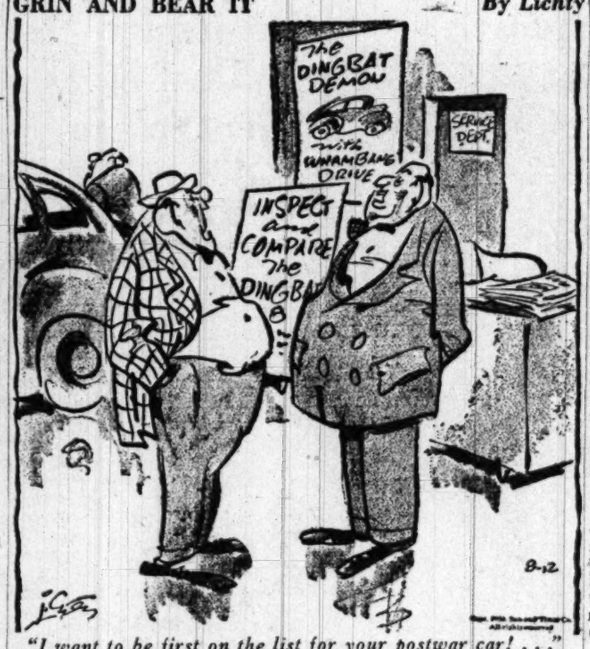

Chapman, who for several months had been riding the Munitions Board about the need to build up stockpiles, put his influence behind the New Mexican project. There is every likelihood now that a contract will be signed for 100,000 tons of ore from the Southwest.

A year and a half ago Representative Wilbur Mills of Arkansas put a statement in the Congressional Record that the stockpile of manganese was then 1,840,000 tons, little more than a year's supply at the then level of production and probably less than that with the present record use of steel. Edward Newton, a mining engineer at one time connected with the Bureau of Mines, testified:

"I urge that further consideration be given to this subject, with a view to continuing the investigation of processes of realizing the potential wealth that lies in the manganese deposits of this country. We are tackling a difficult problem and one in which the competition of the foreign supplies is against us, but it is a patriotic and selfish duty to try to develop our own industry and through public and private stimulation the work should be continued."

That advice was given in 1919.

states are affected by this, and they know it."

Jebb demanded the Communist North Koreans retreat to the 38th Parallel, border between North and South Korea, before the Council could consider inviting the North Koreans to the Council table. He said Malik's claim that the fight is a civil war is "patent nonsense."

The Briton poked fun at Russian charges the Americans are imperialists.

"Imperialist powers, good gracious me!" he said. "Are we really to believe that the boys from Iowa or Colorado who are now sitting in foxholes near Chinju, doing their best to defend democracy as they know it, and longing for the day when they will get back to Denver or Sioux City, are we really to believe that these people are out, like Genghis Khan, to enslave the world?

"Show me any one of these United States soldiers, Mr. President (Malik), who would rather reign in Outer Mongolia than go back to Seattle, and I will gladly concede your point about 'imperialist America.' Until then, No: I prefer to rely not on Marx (Karl Marx, a patron saint of communism) but on the judgment of my own eyes and ears."

Malik answered that it was not cowboys from Texas or Chicago workmen who are responsible for attacks on Koreans, but the "warmongers" who sent them.

Touching on American hints that Russia supplied armament for North Korea, Malik reiterated that his Government had sold weapons to the regime when Russia made its announced withdrawal from North Korea in 1948.

In turn, the Russian delegate charged Americans supplied the South Koreans. He said more than 110 million dollars was made available to South Korea, but he did not refer to some reports that only $200 worth of barbed wire actually reached South Korea before the Communists invaded that territory.

The Council made no progress toward getting Malik to rule on inviting a representative of the Republic of Korea (South Korea) to the table. There was a flurry between Malik and Warren R. Austin, United States delegate, on procedure, but Malik said again and again he had made no ruling, called on Jebb to speak, and settled back to listen.

The Council will meet again Monday.

Senate Group Boosts Taxes

one-fourth of the income received in the current year. The withholding tax setup would collect part, if not all, of this. Individuals could pay the balance in their last quarter payment or in their final return for the year.

The new rates were arrived at by wiping out percentage cuts voted by Congress in 1945 and 1948, and returning to a schedule of taxes only three percentage points in each bracket below World War II (1944-45) rates.

The 1948 boost in personal exemptions to $600 each and the right of husbands and wives to split their incomes for tax purposes would be retained, however.

Individuals can find out how their 1951 tax would be computed by referring to last year's tax form. The so-called "tentative tax" on the old form would be substantially the final tax on the new.

On the old form, individuals were allowed fixed percentage reductions from their "tentative" tax. These percentage reductions would be repealed.

Some Examples Given

Here are some examples of how this will boost tax payments:

A single person earning $2000, who paid $232 this year, would pay $280 under the new bill. If he earned $5000 his tax would be $944 compared with $811 under present law.

A married couple earning $3000 and with no dependents would pay $360 instead of the $299 under present law. If the same married couple earned $5000, their tax would be $760 instead of $631.

A married couple earning $5000 and with two dependents would pay $520 under the proposed law compared with $432 under the old. If the same couple with two dependents earned $10,000, their tax would be $1592 instead of $1361.

Truman Proposal Altered

While the committee made no major change in the Administration's individual tax recommendations, it did not follow the President's corporation tax proposals so strictly.

Instead of making the corporation tax increase fully retroactive for 1950, as the President recommended, they applied the corporation tax increase to half the 1950 income, but made it fully effective in 1951.

The corporation tax increase, voted Thursday, raises the maximum rate on business firms from 38 percent to 45 percent. On the first $25,000 of corporate earnings the tax would be 25 percent, instead of the present 23 percent average. All earnings in excess of $25,000 would be taxed at the top 45 percent rate.

Acheson Flays Russian Part In Korea War

By The Associated Press

Secretary of State Acheson today denounced Russia's conduct in the U. N. Security Council as intended "to thwart the U. N. effort to restore peace and security" in Korea.

He also accused the Soviet delegate, Jacob Malik, of disregarding "the duties of his office" as president by refusing to rule on whether a representative of the South Korean government should meet with the Council.

Making the charges at a news conference, Acheson was asked whether he thought Malik should be removed from the chairmanship but said he did not wish to comment.

Acheson declared Russia's whole approach to the Communist aggression, including its demand that U. N. forces pull out of Korea, shows that the settlement which the Kremlin desires in Korea "is abject submission to Communist control."

Along with his denunciation of the Soviet Union, Acheson issued a statement praising the U. N. forces fighting the Korean Communists and lauding "their gallant and inspiring general, MacArthur."

He said "they carry with them our hopes and aspirations for peace. We share with General MacArthur his confidence in the outcome."

His praise of MacArthur may have been in the nature of pouring oil on troubled waters in connection with recent Washington concern over MacArthur's trip to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa. MacArthur in a public statement had bitterly resented these criticisms.

Previously Acheson was reported to have told members of Congress that the Nation faces a crisis greater than those at Gettysburg and Pearl Harbor.

The Secretary was said to have impressed the Congressmen with the gravity with which he views the present situation in which Russia controls a large share of the world's manpower.

"By disregard of the duties of his office, by dilatory tactics, and by reiterated reversals of the truth, the Soviet representative has obstructed but not prevented presentation of the facts."

Taft Wants Controls Authority For Congress, Not Truman

Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) yesterday asked the Senate to give Congress rather than the President the right to pull the "trigger" on standby price controls.

He charged "dictatorial" powers granted the President in the pending economic control bill go beyond any warranted by the emergency. He told colleagues they would "bitterly regret" a vote for it.

Taft, apparently in the minority in his own party on the control issue, promptly was challenged on both sides of the aisle in a three-hour round of Senate debate.

Senate Banking Chairman Burnet R. Maybank (D., S. C.) later predicted that the Senate control bill, similar to the measure propelled through the House by a 383 to 12 vote Thursday, will pass the Senate by a 2-to-1 margin when it goes to a vote late next week.

'Market Is Going Crazy

Maybank hinted his Senate Banking group may be called into session in the meantime to try to devise a compromise amendment giving the President standby controls over speculative trading on commodity markets.

The Senate Banking Committee earlier knocked out such a provision and so did the House. Maybank said an amendment aimed at "gambling, but not legitimate hedging operations" ought to be worked out "because the market is going crazy."

Taft, in his first major speech on the issue, said the broad standby price-wage controls in the bill give Mr. Truman "arbitrary" power to make a "complete change in the character of our life."

All he really needs to do the job, at the present and proposed scale of military spending, is credit and possibly priority and allocation control powers, Taft argued.

The Ohio Republican said he would not "hesitate for a moment to grant every power here sought "if he thought we had entered World War III, but no facts or budget estimates given Congress to date make it "necessary to surrender freedoms at home."

"I do not intend to say that the Korean war is not a real war, and that it does not carry many of the heartbreaks and tragedies of a larger war," Taft said. "But from an economic standpoint it is not any particular strain on the economy of this country."

He said that apparently the President himself is not willing to say that price and wage controls are needed at this time and "I agree with him."

Countering Taft's argument, Senator Irving M. Ives (R., N. Y.) called "fears of dictatorial regimentation" unfounded.

"Charges of abdication of Congressional responsibility and fears of dicatorial bureaucratic control serve only to obscure the basic issue of National security," said Ives.

Saying there are adequate Congressional restraints on the President's powers, Ives added:

"Now it is a matter of as much and as rapid mobilization of our National defense as may be necessary to meet whatever the future may bring.

"Controls authorized, or even imposed, now seem a small sacrifice of liberty in terms of what failure properly to mobilize our economy may ultimately bring."

Robertson Backs Bill

Senator A. Willis Robertson (D., Va.), another member of the Banking Committee, also stressed the bill's safeguarding provisions and said mobilization legislation should not be based on distrust of those in authority.

"The powers necessary to do a successful job must be granted under the assumption that they will be properly and wisely exercized," Robertson said.

As a further safeguard, he told Taft, he plans to offer an amendment empowering Congress to terminate the standby powers by concurrent resolution at any time.

Taft said that device hasn't worked in the past—that once a law got on the books it was difficult to remove it. The Ohioan said he intends to press for his own amendment, reserving for Congress the right to say when the controls should start.

House to Back Loan to Spain, Martin Feels

Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin, jr., (R., Mass.) predicted yesterday the House will approve the 1 hundred million dollars loan to Spain "without any trouble."

The loan was tacked on to the European Recovery Program section of the omnibus money bill by the Senate. It is awaiting action by a joint conference committee charged with adjusting differences between the House and Senate bills.

"If we're going to fight communism, we've got to fight it all the way—and that involves helping other nations which are opposed to it," Martin said.

He said he personally believes the loan should be made and he thought a majority of the House felt the same way.

Both President Truman and Secretary of State Acheson have come out strongly against granting Spain a loan through the Economic Recovery Administration, although they do not oppose an Import-Export Bank grant based on its economic merits.

Representative Richards (D., S. C.), ranking Democratic member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, agreed the House would accept the Senate amendment on Spain.

Red Papers Banned

Civil Defense Plan Readied in Baltimore

Baltimore, Aug. 11 (AP).—Civil defense plans for the Baltimore area began taking definite shape today.

Seventy civilian defense leaders from the city and four surrounding counties mapped out a program to provide maximum protection for the area's population in the event of an atomic attack. The program includes training of first-aid and nursing volunteers, setting up emergency welfare centers, a radio communications network and radiological system.

Controls Held Superficial

last war was the failure to pay as to avoid, by the very process of borrowing, the expansion of bank credit and of private purchasing power.

If the Treasury borrows from individuals rather than from banks, it effects a reduction of purchasing power. If on the other hand, as is the case now, it sells most of its securties to banks, that act in itself adds to purchasing power and indirectly permits a greater expansion of credit.

A change in policy to accomplish this aim has hitherto been stubbornly resisted apparently because it would cost some extra money in the form of higher carrying charges on the Federal debt. But some of the higher interest cost that would have to be paid would be recovered through taxes. And what it would save the country, through combatting inflation, would be greater beyond all comparison.

A consistent policy of general credit restriction in an inflationary situation has never been tried. An important body of economists, Government and private, think that it's about time to do it.

British Fear Formosa Could Start Big War

London, Aug. 11 (AP).—Diplomatic informants reported today Britain has told the United States she is concerned lest an American-Chinese clash over Formosa lead to a third world war in which the non-Communist nations might be divided.

Britain made this point in exchanges with the State Department "in the last two or three days," the informants said.

As the British see it, the Western powers may be heading into political hot water over Formosa. They say the United States decision to guard the island is being confused in Asiatic minds with the U. N. actions in Korea; that if Red China attacks Formosa, many non-Communist countries, particularly in Asia, would not help the West.

They would see the action, the informants say, as a continuation of the Chinese civil war rather than an act of aggression by the Communists.

Federal Borrowing Studied

Selective controls on installment buying operated successfully during the war in reducing spending. There is every indication they would be effective now in cutting back the huge existing credit financing of auto, appliance and housing purchases.

An additional method of credit restrictions, general rather than selective, is of major interest to a growing number of economists. It relates to the matter of Federal borrowing. The details are complex but the essence is simple.

By appropriate financing methods, coupled with a consistent Treasury and Federal Reserve policy, it is possible for the Government to borrow in such a way

3000 Adventists Open 10-Day Meeting

More than 3000 Seventh-Day Adventists were told in Takoma Park, Md., last night that the current international tangle is just the beginning of Biblical predictions of "last day" events.

Elder Dan A. Ochs, president of the Columbia Union Conference, SDA, opening the annual 10-day camp meeting of the Potomac Conference at Sligo Church, Carroll and Flower aves. warned his audience: "We are living on borrowed time."

Delegates and members from more than 50 churches in the District, Maryland and Virginia, heard the church leader declare:

"There never was a time when statesmen, politicians, religionists, financiers and educators have been so perplexed over what is going to happen next in the world situation."

These men, he said, must reconsider and look for a new way out, and that way is only by a return to the original Christianity and to the things for which it stands.

He said wickedness, insincerity, dishonesty and pretense are rampant in the world today. All of these were predicted by Jesus Christ Himself as signs of the "last day," he added. He used as an example of insincerity, double-crossing and dishonesty the United Nations, where nations of the world, he said, are trying to outdo each other in their quest for world power.

Ochs urged all Christians to make themselves ready for the second coming of Christ.

An attendance of between 4000 and 5000 persons is expected at the weekend services beginning today, according to Elder Howard J. Detwiler, president of the Potomac Conference.

Speakers scheduled for today are Elder William H. Branson, president of the World General Conference, at 11 a. m.; Elder Ochs at 3 p. m., and Elder Chris P. Sorenson, secretary of the denomination, Far Eastern Division, who is here from Singapore, at 8 p. m.

Missionary To Deaf Gives Silent Solace

"He that hath ears to hear, let him hear . . ."
St. Mark 4, 9.

But what of those who can't hear? Can there be any solace in soundless hymns and silent sermons?

The Rev. Walter A. Westermann says a most definite "Yes." He's the first Lutheran missionary to the deaf in this area, and for the past three years has been holding services in Christ Lutheran Church chapel, 5101 16th st. nw.

His congregation is mixed—some deaf mutes who can read lips, others who depend entirely on sign language. His sermons are both spoken and signed. The choir, however, is made up of deaf mutes who only sign the hymns.

"All deaf people enjoy hymns of this type," Mr. Westermann said. "Although there is no sound, there is a definite pleasure in the rhythm of the hands carrying out the meter and measure of the hymn—a poetry of motion."

Sign language, he said, is a combination of pantomime, pictures and finger spelling, and lends itself to the grace and beauty of hymns.

Mr. Westermann, himself, might never have entered the "silent work" 21 years ago, if there had been hearing aids. In 1919, he became hard of hearing after an attack of influenza.

"I felt lost in a regular pastorate, and decided to dedicate my life to missionary work among the deaf," he said.

"This is one of the most difficult missions there is. When they think any Tom, Dick or Harry can do it, they're all wet. You have to have the training required for any minister, and a lot more than that."

He said learning the sign language alone was like mastering Chinese.

His services are just like those in a hearing church. The order of service is just the same, with the prayers, responses and hymns. The main difference between the two types of congregations, Dr. Westermann said, is that the silent audience is more attentive.

A native of Bremen, Kans., Dr. Westermann serves around 1500 to 1800 Lutheran deaf and deaf-blind mutes in Washington, Maryland, Virginia, North and South Carolina and eastern Tennessee. In addition, he is a student pastor at Gallaudet College and Kendall School, which he attends during the week.

Dr. Westermann, who came here from Memphis, Tenn., is 54 years old. Much of his time is spent on the road covering his territory. He holds services the last three Sundays of each month at Christ Church chapel to an average attendance of 33 persons.

Plans Are Set For Bishop's Consecration

Bishop-elect Patrick J. McCormick, rector of Catholic University, will be consecrated titular bishop of Atenia and auxiliary bishop of the Archdiocese of Washington, at ceremonies on September 21.

Bishop-elect McCormick

The Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, apostolic delegate to the United States, will be the consecrating prelate at ceremonies in the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in the University at 10 a. m.

The assistant consecrators will be the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, and the Most Rev. Henry J. O'Brien, bishop of Hartford, Conn. The sermon will be preached by the Most Rev. Michael F. Brady, bishop of Manchester, who like Bishop-elect McCormick was a priest of the Hartford diocese before his elevation to the episcopacy.

Atenia, to which Bishop-elect McCormick was made titular head on June 20, is an inactive see which was in the province of Pisidia, now known as Kirili Kassaba, a city on Lake Kirili in southwestern Turkey.

Third in Series Of Services Set Sunday

The third of a series of five public religious services in honor of Our Lady of Fatima will be held in the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception at Catholic University at 4 p. m. Sunday.

The Rev. Charles D. Gorman, moderator of the Legion of Mary for the Archdiocese of Washington, said the services commemorate the appearances of the Blessed Virgin on the 13th of each month from May to October, 1917, to three shepherd children at Fatima, Portugal.

Chief speaker will be the Rev. John Waldron, C.SS.R., director of the Novena to Our Lady of Perpetual Help, at Sacred Heart Church, Baltimore.

Since 1917, a great devotion has sprung up among Catholics in all parts of the world to Our Lady of Fatima. At her sixth and final appearance, the vision was reported to have predicted the end of World War I, the rise of communism, the beginning of World War II and implied a third great World War if people did not cease offending God.

The observances here will be under the auspices of the Legion of Mary and the Reparation Society of the Immaculate Heart of Mary.

Protestants to Reassert Beliefs at Geneva Parley

More than 450 delegates from 41 nations representing 61 Protestant bodies will gather in Geneva, Switzerland, Wednesday for the Second Plenary Congress of the International Council of Christian Churches.

The purpose of the week-long conference will be to reassert the belief in the historic doctrines of orthodox Protestantism; to declare opposition to totalitarism in any field, including that of religion; to recommend necessary steps to preserve religious liberty and to keep doors to mission fields open.

Dr. Carl McIntire of Collingswood, N. J., president of the organization, stated that the International Council of Christian Churches proposes to expose apostasy within the Protestant church system which, he declares, is softening up the churches for communism, socialism, and liberalism. The theme of the second congress will be, "The Twentieth Century Reformation."

More than 200 delegates, observers and consultants are going by chartered planes from the United States alone to the city which harbored such reformers as John Calvin, John Knox, Farel and Beza.

The International Council of Christian Churches was organized in the English Reformed Church, Amsterdam, Netherlands, August 11-19, 1948, when representatives from 61 Protestant bodies and 29 countries came together.

It stands for the purity of the Gospel and the purity of the church and has brought together evangelical churches standing in the true Protestant succession: Reformed, Baptist, Presbyterian, Lutheran, Congregational, Brethren, Independent, Methodist, and many others. The council is engaged in a world-wide mission. It acknowledges the Scriptures to be the Word of God, the only infallible rule of faith and practice, and it stands against all compromise, modernism, apostasy and seeks to encourage true evangelism, missionary endeavor, and the twentieth century reformation.

Church to Honor Mary H. Lentz, Registered Nurse

The Wallace Memorial United Presbyterian Church tomorrow will honor Miss Mary H. Lentz, of 536 Oneida pl. nw., a registered nurse who has signed up for five years medical missionary work with the United Presbyian Mission in Sialkot, Pakistan.

Miss Lentz

A commissioning service will be held at 11 a. m. at the church, 712 Randolph st. nw. for the 27-year-old nurse who answered an UPM appeal two years ago for short-term relief work in strife-torn India. Miss Lentz returned here after 10 months, and decided that her future would be devoted to hospital work among the unfortunates of that area.

A graduate of Roosevelt High School and Sibley Hospital, Miss Lentz had been attending Wallace Memorial Church since the age of four when her parents moved here from Scranton, Pa.

Guest Preacher

The Rev. Edward C. Rorke, rector of St. Stephens Church, Olean, N. Y., is serving as guest preacher and supply clergyman at All Souls Memorial Church, Cathedral ave. and Woodley pl. nw., during August, while the Rev F. W. Blackwelder is on vacation.

Rev. E. C. Rorke Back

The Rev. Edward C. Rorke, rector of St. Stephen's Church in Olean, N. Y., has returned to All Souls Memorial Episcopal Church, Cathedral ave. and Woodley pl. nw., for the third consecutive summer. He is visiting pastor for this month.

More Protestant, Catholic Unity Urged

Toronto, Aug. 11 (AP).—A Canadian Protestant tminister today told church representatives from 62 countries that "disunity and discord" among Christian faith is a "sad commentary on our manifestation of the spirit of Christ."

Addressing the World Convention of Christian Education, Dr. R. C. Chalmers, associate secretary of the board of evangelism and social service of the United Church of Canada, suggested a new approach is needed to improve relations between Protestants and Roman Catholics.

"Let us seek for cooperation of Catholics on the secular level of public and moral matters of mutual concern," he said. "There are many areas of welfare work, civic affairs and social amelioration where Protestants and Catholics do cooperate."

The Rev. Emmanuel Jung, president of the Swiss Sunday School Association, said modern science has set up false gods such as communism.

Science, he said, has progressed to such a point many persons consider God unnecessary.

But "human beings cannot exist without a creed," he declared, and therefore "new gods have been created. Secularism and Communism are examples."

Some 4500 delegates from 62 countries are attending the six-day convention which opened here last night.

Bible Sessions

Dr. Docherty On Program At Massanetta

Massanetta Springs, Va. Aug. 11. Dr. George M. Docherty, pastor of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, will be among 19 religious leaders on the program of the inter-denominational Bible Conference here August 21 through September 3.

Rev. Docherty

Dr. Docherty is returning this summer by popular demand. Last year, as pastor of North Church, Aberdeen, Scotland, many Washingtonians heard him for the first time at Massanetta Springs. He was later selected to succeed another Scotsman, Dr. Peter Marshall.

Ruth Thompson, Author, Dies in Miami

Miami, Fla., Aug. 11 (AP).—Mrs. Ruth Thompson, 70, who wrote many books and stories under the name of Ruth Kidsie Wood, died today.

She was a feature writer for American magazine and Collier's. She formerly was editor of Mentor magazine.

Mrs. Thompeson lived in New York before coming to Miami 15 years ago. She had been ill for a year. No immediate family survives her.

Area Group In Mormon Pageant

Eighteen young people from Washington and vicinity are appearing in the nationally famous Mormon pageant, "America's Witness for Christ," which is playing this weekend on the slope of Hill Cumorah, Palmyra, N. Y.

The missionaries, some of whom are members of the Utah Centennial Chorus, are: Elders Jack R. Bagley, Robert H. Frame, Howard J. Ruff, Benjamin R. Hunter, Charles C. Fronberg, H. Glenn Poulsen, Donald M. Robinson, Donald M. Mortenson, Sherill D. Huff, Serge B. Woodruff, Beed Funk, Lloyd P. Taysom, Harold D. Hancock, Gordon A. Madsen, Alice M. Cutler, Nettie Jane Huntington, Grace Bowman and Pearl Oliver.

The youthful Mormons, who are serving two years on missions for their church in the Washington area, are among 200 in the cast from New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Jersey and surrounding areas.

Performed on the wooded slope of the hill where Joseph Smith was said to have received the ancient historical record of America from an angel in 1827, the drama tells of wars, trials, and religious customs of two nations, known as Nephites and Lamanites who inhabited this continent from 600 B.C. to 421 A.D.

The most spectacular and intense scene of the drama is one showing the appearance of Jesus Christ, clad in brilliant white, to the Nephites after his resurrection in Jerusalem. The Book of Mormon tells how He appeared briefly to the Nephites and taught them the same doctrines He had taught the Jews.

Enrique Schueg Dies; Bacardi Co. Head

Santiago, Cuba, Aug. 11 (AP).—Enrique Schueg, 86, president and one of the founders of the Bacardi company, world-wide dealers in Cuban rum, died here today.

Schueg was the holder of decorations from the Cuban and other governments as one of Latin America's outstanding citizens and financiers.

Rev. F. A. Gray To Be Buried At La Plata

Funeral services for the Rev. Francis Alexander Gray, 56, will be held at Christ Episcopal Church, LaPlata, Md., at 2 p. m. today. Burial will be in Mount Rest Cemetery.

The Rev. Gray, who began his career as a county agricultural agent and later entered the Episcopal ministry, died Thursday at Physicians Memorial Hospital, La Plata, Md., after an illness of five months duration.

Born in Port Tobacco, Md., he later attended Virginia Polytechnic Institute and in 1917 graduated with an M.S. degree in agriculture. During World War I; he saw service with the Navy as an ensign.

Returning from duty, the Rev. Mr. Gray became county agent for Fauquier County, Va., for a year, then went to Wuchang, China, in 1920 as agricultural agent for the Protestant-Episcopal Mission Board.

There he served at Boone University as a mission worker and teacher, returning to the United States in 1923.

He attended Philadelphia Divinity School, was ordained in 1927, and served in Philadelphia Parish until 1929. Next, he was transferred to St. John's Church in Baltimore County, Md., where he worked until 1935.

For the next seven years, he had the combined King and Queen Parish in St. Marys County, and the William and Mary Parish in Charles County, both Maryland.

In 1942 he took over the Lynnhaven Parish and the Epiphany Church in Norfolk, Va., and in 1945, returned to Prince Georges County and St. Johns Parish there. He retired in 1949.

Because of his interest in agriculture, he had always preferred rural parishes, his family said. His last residence was in LaPlata.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Mary Beverly Jenkins Gray; his son, Francis Alexander Gray, jr., two brothers, G. R. Gray of Poolesville, Md., and Frederick Gray of Havertown, Pa., and a sister, Mrs. W. C. Gues of Richmond, Va.

Reds Onto Us at Last, Sports Are Unmasked

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (NYHT).—Somebody in the Kremlin is slipping. There was unfortunate timing in Russia's expose of the American plot to arouse the bestial instincts of our young in prparation for another world war.

Red Smith

The story was broken too soon after that poignantly tender exhibition of peace on earth, good will to each other, which Sugar Ray Robinson and Charley Fusari presented in Jersey City the other night.

Brotherly love was still running amok around here when American monitors caught a broadcast from Moscow describing the horrid savagtry of games in this country. In Ann Arbor, Mich., Muscovite radio listeners were told, football is so murderous that players are often carried from the playing field straight to the cemetery,

This sentinel of the steppes went on to picture other barbarous diversions popular on our playgrounds. The master plan underlying all sweaty undertakings, he said, was to develop a sweet tooth for atrocities among the small fry so they'd be in the proper mood for the great war "about which the Wall Street bosses are dreaming."

It is possible that the radio script writers in Red Square have been getting the goods on Wall Street from sources which are closed to this reporter.

Contact between this bureau and the financial district is negligible, but now and then one of the overlords of that area ventures uptown and gets talking loosely over a gin-and-tonic in Bleeck's. On such occasions one gets the clear impression that what the Wall Street bosses really dream about in this weather is the slaughter of trout in Maine.

TO BE SURE, once in a while a Harvard man horns into the conversation, and it is well known that this type is the most bloodthirsty in the whole street. There have been, in these instances, some pretty fiendish hints dropped about the torture in store for the sadistic followers of Herman Hickman up in New Haven.

Russian Correspondents Offered Tickets to See Michigan Play

The Voice of America yesterday offered to buy a season pass for any accredited Russian correspont who wants to see the University of Michigan football team in action.

It broadcast this offer in 25 different languages on all its programs beamed throughout the world.

The broadcast was an answer to a radio Moscow propaganda blast against American football which said: "Football players at the University of Michigan are often carried from the football field to the hospital or even straight to the cemetery."

In reply the State Department's "Voice" accused the Russians of shedding "crocodile tears" about American athletes who were pictured by Moscow as driven to slaughter by greedy promoters. Moscow cried that it all is inspired by Wall Street to get the American public conditioned for a war.

However, if Joe Stalin's man thinks any effort is going to be made here to explode his scoop, he's mistaken. Let some other parent of children freshly returned from summer camp argue about the bestiality of the young.

As a matter of fact, anyone who reads headlines on the sports page is forced to admit that the playing fields on his Nation are hot-beds of brutallity.

"Athletics Bombard Yanks," the Candid streamers confess. "Konstanty Throttles Giants." "Tigers Slug Chicox." "Kiner Blasts 31st as Bugs Stun Cubs." "Tribe Scalps Browns." "Brooks Comb Sain." "Nats Trip Bosox."

THAT LAST, it must be conceded, suggests that when Washington and Boston get together the spirit of the occasion is mischievous rather than murderous, but there can be no dispute about man's inhumanity to man in the cases if the Athletics, Konstanty, the Tigers, Pirates and Indians.

Persons unfamiliar with the mechanics of publishing newspapers take it for granted that the headlines, as well as the news accounts of these macabre amusements are written on the scene by eye witnesses. This is erroneous. When Stan Musial bludgeoned Ralph Branca, the gory event is described by a reporter in the press loft but the head on his story is composed by a copyreader in the office.

Copyreaders are, generally, men of deceptively mild appearance. A stranger watching them as they crouch about the rim of the copydesk, pouncing on semicolons and slashing at adjectives with their sharp and deadly pencils, might think they hated nothing except the English language.

ACTUALLY THEY are monsters of unfathomable cruelty. A wild, fanatic light glows beneath their green eyeshades. Bloodlust courses through their veins; beneath the camourflage of dandruff, their temples throb with passion.

Such is their taste for violence that they can seldom stomach a word so bland as "win" or "lose." In their sanguinary lexicon it is possible for the Bomber to smash the Bengals by a score of 1 to 0. On the other hand, it is not uncommon for the Phils to trip the Reds, 12 to 1, which suggests that the tripping was accomplished on the parapet of a tall building.

This is, of course, all part of theplot which the Russians have now exposed. In America, the playing of games, the writing of sports and the composition of sports headlines are carried on for a single purpose. This purpose fails when a single golden-haired tot, having wolfed down his wheaties and scanned the morning papers, manages to resist the impulse to skewer his mother with the bread knife and poke out his baby sister's eyes.

For a long time this program of brutalizing the race was carried on under the guise of clean, refined fun. Now the Moscow radio has stripped away the veneer of sportsmanship, unmasking us, showing us wallowing in the abysmal slime. The Russians are onto us at last. To the barricades, kids.

Choo-Choo Has Runs of 47, 31, 28, Gains 133

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Chicago, Aug. 11.—Two stars the Washington Redskins lost, Charlie Justice and Eddie LeBaron, led the College All-Stars to a stunning 17-7 upset over the vaunted Philadelphia Eagles tonight before 88,885 popeyed Soldier Field spectators.

North Carolina's brilliant Justice, who has refused all Redskin offers, scored one touchdown and set up the other as the Collegians outplayed the National Football League champions, 14-point favorites, in the kickoff of the 1950 football season. He had runs of 47, 31, 28 and 12, and gained 133 yards in nine attempts.

The touchdown Justice made was on a pass tossed by College of Pacific's Eddie LeBaron, who is willing to play for the Redskins but must go on active duty next week with the Marines instead.

In addition to scootng 35 yards to score with that LeBaron pass, which Eddie got off only after squirming out of the hands of four massive Eagles. Justice ran 31 yards midway in the first quarter to set up the score which Villanova's Fullback Ralph Pasquariello made from the one-yard line.

Haynes Also Does Well

Minnesota's Gordon Soltau booted the extra points and also chipped in a 17-yard field goal in the final quarter to complete the upending of the proud Eagles.

Their ground attack smothered by the bruising defensive play of Notre Dame's Leon Hart and Jim Martin and Minnesota's Clayton Tonnemaker, the Eagles' Tommy Thompson also had rough time completing his passes.

This was due to some great defensive play by Santa Clara's Hall Haynes, who happens to be a Redskin also. Unlike Justice and LeBaron, Haynes rejoins the Redskins tomorrow in Los Angeles. He intercepted two Thompson passes to halt Eagles' drives and midway the second quarter he recovered a fumble which set up the LeBaron-to-Justice touchdown pass.

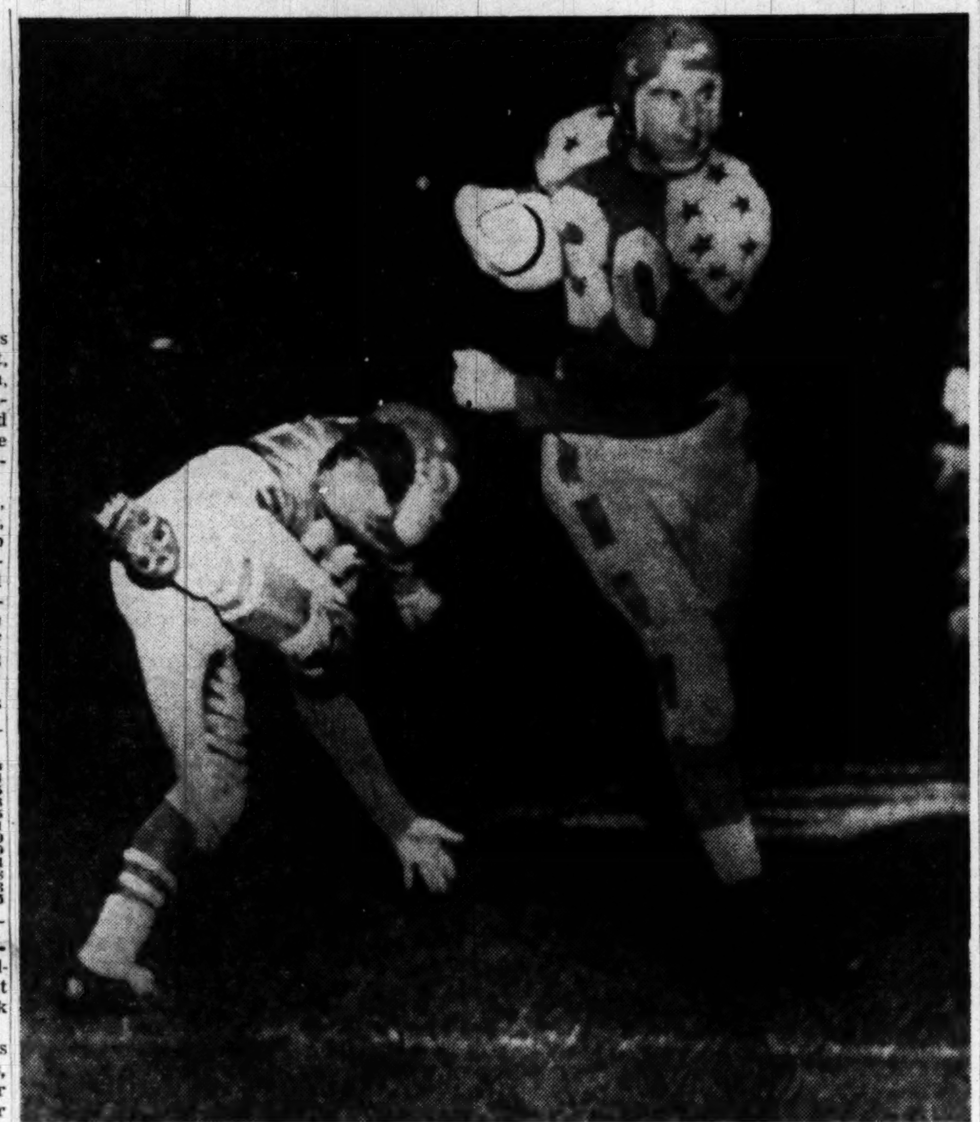

Blanked for three and a half quarters, the Eagles finally scored late in the game when Steve Van Buren climaxed a 57-yard drive to score their only touchdown.

The Collegians' astounding victory brought the All-Stars series to nine victories for the pros, six for the Collegians and two ties. The Eagles, champs of the National Football League for two straight years, smothered last year's All-Stas, 38-0.

Two minutes after the game started, Justice gave the throng its first thrill by racing 31 yards to the Eagles' 33-yard line before he was knocked out of bounds. Choo-Choo took a pitchout from Quarter Adrian Burk and cut in between tackle and left end on his jaunt.

A moment later, with the Stars on the Eagles' 13, Justice carried

Walks Four

He Is First To Turn Trick Since 1948

Boston, Aug. 11 (AP).—Righthander Vern Bickford, tonight achieved baseball immortality by pitching a nohitter as the Braves shut out the Brooklyn Dodgers, 7-0. Bickford struck out three Dodgers and walked four, the only men to reach base.

Only three Brooklyn base runners were left on base.

The no-hit, no-run game was the first in the majors since Brooklyn's Rex Barney shut out New York, 2-0, September 9, 1948.

It was the first at Braves' field since Jim Tobin of the Tribe, blanked Brooklyn, 2-0, April 27, 1944.

In five innings Bickford retired the Brooks in order.

There were three better-than-usual plays behind him as the 29,008 crowd—third largest of the Braves' home season—cheered every out from about the fifth inning.

Only 30 batters faced "Bick" who hurled 97 pitches.

Only one of them got to second base. Pinchhitter Jim Russel, who walked as leadoff batter in the ninth. He moved up with one out, on a base on balls to Gene Hermanski.

Bickford, who once lost a nohitter in the ninth inning while pitching for Milwaukee, got the first 10 men in order before Hermanski drew the first walk of the game.

Ray Campanella drew a pass in the fifth and the Brooks left their second base runner.

In the next three innings the Brooks went out in order until Russell walked to start the ninth.

Bob Elliott made a good play to prevent a possible hit in the second when he spurted to his left, fielded one-handed a hard, bouncing smash by Carl Furillo and threw out the Dodgers outfielder.

Willard Marshall also prevented a hit when he grabbed reliefer Joe Hatten's high Texas Leaguer in short right center.

As Marshall caught the ball he collided with Second Baseman Roy Hartsfield and Centerfielder Sam Jethroe and all went down in a heap.

The victory, which moved Boston within five games of first place, was Bickford's 14th of the season and his third over Brooklyn which has beaten him once. He has lost eight games and tonight's was his 18th complete game.

Coan Belts 3 Safeties As Noren's Streak Ends

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

Sandalio Consuegra, one of Cuba's more prominent ambassadors to the major leagues, pitched the Nats to a six-hit 5-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox last night before 7257 applauding fans at Griffith Stadium.

Unschooled in English, and apparently unaware of the Bosox' lofty .302 team batting average, the slender Consuegra calmly pitched his way in and out of trouble for his fifth win against three defeats.

He put at least one Bosocker on base in eight out of nine innings, but with his sneaky fast ball and slow curve, he left 12 of them stranded.

Gil Coan supplied much of Washington's punch with a single, double and triple, as he scored a run and drove in two more.

The Nats made only five other hits off Ellis Kinder, who worked the first seven innings for Boston.

Noren's Streak Ends at 17

Irv Noren, sensational rookie centerfield, failed to produce any of them in four trips, and his hitting streak came to an end at 17 games.

Washington took a 1-0 lead in the second inning on Sam Mele's single, his theft of second and Cass Michaels' single to left.

The Sox tied it in the third on a walk to Dom DiMaggio and Vern Stephens' cheap double, a handle-hit blooper just out of Ed Stewart's reach in short right.

They made it 4-1 in the fifth on singles by Mickey Grasso, Yost and Coan with Consuegra's sacrifice sandwiched in. Their final run came in the seventh on Grasso's walk and Coan's bloop double to right.

Consuegra eased up with two outs in the ninth and permitted the Red Sox to put over their harmless second run on Billy Goodman's walk and Vern Stephens' Texas League two-bagger to left.

Kinder dropped his second game of the season against Washington and his record is now 11-12.

IN SHORT . . . Mickey Vernon will be out of the Nats' lineup for about 10 days as a result of a twisted right ankle suffered in the Red Sox game Thursday night. X-rays revealed there was no break, but heavy swelling developed yesterday afternoon.

Indians Win In 9th on Hit By Boone, 3-2

Chicago, Aug. 11 (AP).—Shortstop Ray Boone's ninth inning single scored Allie Clark with the winning run as Cleveland's second place Indians came from behind to defeat the Chicago White Sox, 3-2, in the series opener before 6544 persons today.

Just before Boone connected, Catcher Jim Hegan's fly enabled Joe Gordon to register the tying run.

Mike Garcia gained his seventh decision on a yield of five hits—all singles. Billy Pierce, the Chicago lefty, also gave up only five singles in suffering his twelfth setback.

Dark Homers, Giants Beat Simmons, 3-1

Philadelphia, Aug. 11 (AP).—Al Dark's two-run homer and an inning of wildness by Southpaw Curt Simmons carried the New York Giants to a 3-1 victory over the League-Leading Philadelphia Phillies tonight and squared the four-game series at one each.

The victory was the Giants' 18th in their last 21 games and reduced the Phils' margin over the victorious Braves to five games.

The setback was Simmons' second straight and his seventh as compared to 14 victories.

Cubs Square Series With Pirates, 3-1

Pittsburgh, Aug. 11 (AP).—The Chicago Cubs squared their series with the Pittsburgh Pirates at a game apiece tonight as Frank Hiller pitched them to a 3-1 triumph over the last place Bucs before a crowd of 11,082.

Hank Sauer's single and Andy Pafko's triple gave the Cubs their first run in the fourth. Wayne Terwilliger singled in the winning tally in the fifth.

Yanks Blow 5-0 Lead But Win

Mapes, Subs for DiMag, Hits 400-Foot Homer to Beat A's

New York, Aug. 11 (AP).—Cliff Mapes, subbing for Joe DiMaggio, clubbed a 400-foot home run into the right-centerfield in the seventh inning tonight to give the New York Yankees a 7-6 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics before 27,002.

The Yanks led, 5-0, at one time, but the A's caught up to set the stage for Mapes' blow.

The blow, coming with Pinchrunner Joe Collins on second base, snapped a 5-all tie and gave Reliefer Tom Ferrick the nod over Joe Coleman, making his first start of the year for the Mackmen.

Casey Stengel, manager of the New Yorkers, benched DiMaggio before the game, saying "DiMaggio was dead tired."

The Yanks spurted to a 5-0 lead after four innings, but the A's tied it in the fifth with a five-run rally, three coming on Billy Hitchcock's base-clearing double.

Mrs. George H. Bailey was second with 89—7—82, Mrs. J. G. Schnitzer was third with 111—29—82, Mrs. C. R. Miles' 108—25—83 took fourth and Mrs. Robert W. Hart's 116—32—84 was fifth.

Four Hits in Last 38 Times Up

DiMaggio Benched for 1st Time

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP).—For the first time in his major league career, Joe DiMaggio has been benched. The famed slugger of the New York Yanees sat out tonight's game while Cliff Mapes took his place in centerfield against the Philadelphia Athletics.

"Joe is dead tired," Manager Casey Stengel said. "I instructed him to come to the park late and not take either fielding or batting practices. I hate to do this but this is the right time to do it."

Stengel then took a direct slap at some of the other Yankees. "If those fellows I have out there cannot beat a team "then maybe its time I got rid like the Athletics," he said of some of those high-salaried men on this team."

The manager made the move without consulting the star player.

"I don't know how long I'll keep him out," Casey went on. "Perhaps a week. I'll put him in sooner if he comes to me and asks back in the lineup, however. I just want to be sure he gets enough of a layoff to be fresh the rest of the schedule."

DiMaggio was reticent, as usual, to discuss himself and his troubles.

"I'm tired," he admitted in a disgusted tone. "I've got my share of aches and pains. I know people are saying I'm about through. Well, they said that in '46, but I wasn't."

The clipper had gotten only four hits in 38 times at bat over the nine games previous to tonight, six of which the Yankees lost. He didn't drive in a run over that span.

Wood's Throwing Saves 2-1 Win, Earns Split for Browns

St. Louis, Aug. 11 (AP).—Outfielder Ken Wood's throwing arm choked off two consecutive runners at home plate in the second game of a twilight doubleheader tonight, giving the Browns a 2-1 victory over Detroit after dropping the opener, 4-3 in ten innings.

Don Lenhardt lost the first game for St. Louis on an error but redeemed himself by driving in both Brownie runs in the finale.

Wood's feat occurred in the eighth inning when Detroit was trying to overcome the one-run lead. Leading off, Vic Wertz singled and went to second on a wild pitch. Hoot Evers walked. Johnny Groth singled. Wood cut off Wertz trying to score. Don Kolloway then singled and Evers tried to score but he, too, was out

Virginia, District Players Chosen for All-Star Match

Brownell members have been selected for the Virginia All-Stars—Washington amateurs golf match Sunday at Manor Country Club.

Bobby Brownell, who will captain the District's team, and his golfing pal and law partner, Ralph Bogart, are tentatively scheduled for the No. 1 match.

Although H. M. (Bunny) Blankinship, captain of the Virginia team, has not announced his pairings, it is expected that Brownell and Bogart will meet Dick Payne and Wynsol Spencer.

The No. 2 Washington team will be Claude Rippy and Bob Morris, and Mike Jankowski and Charles Price will be in the No. 3 position. Billy Griffin and Ed Ault will be fourth, Maury Nee and Billy Shea fifth, Karl Kellerman and Dick Mothershead sixth, Col. Tom Belshe and Comdr. Frank Heyer seventh and Buddy Brylawski and John Rudd will round out the squad.

Blankinship of Boonsboro Country Club, Lynchburg, is non-playing captain of the Virginia team. On his squad are:

Jack Harris, Harry Thompson and Harry Easterly, Country Club of Virginia, Richmond; Frank Wooley, Belle Haven Country Club, Alexandria; John S. Battle, jr., Benno and Pat Janssen, Farmington County Club, Charlottesville; George R. Gosey, jr., James O. Watts, jr., and Connie Sellers, Boonsboro Country Club, Lynchburg; George Fulton, jr., Roanoke Country Club; J. B. Hall, jr., and J. D. Ewell, jr., Hermitage Country Club, Richmond; Wynsol Spencer, James River Country Club, Newport News, and Dick Payne, Princess Anne Country Club, Virginia Beach. Frank Sutton, 3d., of Farmington County Club is alternate.

Three Teams Tie at 69 In Rock Creek Tourney

Three couples tied at 69 for first place in mixed scotch foursome play at Rock Creek yesterday. They were Elizabeth Saunders and Bill Nicholson, 76-7-69; Carl Cundy and Ida Fellman, 82-13-69, and Getchen Huff and Tex Carpenter, 76-7-69. A flip of a coin gave Nicholson and Saunders first place and Cundy and Fellman second.

Georgetown Lions Club trounced Dagwood's Restaurant, 13-5, yesterday on the Ellipse to win the Washington Boys' Club Senior Division championship.

Ransom Takes Lead in Tam O'Shanter 'World' Golf With 69-139

Harper's 70 Leaves Him 2 Strokes Back

Chicago, Aug. 11 (AP).—Henry Ransom, a transplanted Texan who has won only two titles in 13 years of campaigning, shot to the front in the $49,000 Tam O'Shanter "World" golf meet today with a halfway total of 69—139, five under par.

The 39-year-old pro, who started out at Houston and now registers from Chicago, peeled off a 33 with the help of two 15-foot birdie putts on Tam's front nine today. Then he matched par 36 for 69.

Two strokes back of Ransom in the hustle for golf's richest first prize—$11,000—was the 1950 PGA champion Chandler Harper.

The Portsmouth, Va., star coupled 34-36—70 for the second round. He wound up with a disastrous 2-over-6 on the last hole after hitting in front of the green and then ultimately missing a 5-foot putt.

Ransom's rise in the race after an opening 70 over the par-72 course came as no surprise. He was in a four-way tie for the first-round lead and was elated by an early morning ruling that all first round scores would stand.

The scores were cancelled yesterday by tourney promoter George S. May when a late downpour made it impossible for several players to finish. They completed their rounds this morning.

Bracketed at 142 in the select field of 32 pros were unheralded Dick Mayer of New Greenwich, Conn., who quit the amateur ranks a year ago; Ed (Porky) Oliver of Seattle, Wash., and Jim Ferrier of San Francisco, a top money winner and newly-crowned St. Paul open champ.

Bobby Locke, the TAM All-American champion, posted 73 to be grouped at 143 with Ed Furgol of Royal Oak, Mich., with 69, and Clayton Heafner, Charlotte, N. C., with 72.

The leading money winner, Sam Snead, had 145.

Women's pro—Babe Zaharias of Chicago with 75 for 148, four under par; and Patty Berg of Minneapolis, with 77 for 150.

Women's amateur—Peggy Kirk of Findlay, Ohio, with 77 for 156, and Oot Kielty, Long Beach, Calif., with 78 for 158.

Men's amateur—Wilford Wehrle of Ormond Beach, Fla., with 75 for 143, and Frank Stranahan of Toledo with 76 for 145.

It's Basketball—Edgewood Loses Overtime Game

Washington Boys Club handed Edgewood its first defeat in the Washington Boys Club summer basketball league, 44-42, in overtime last night at the club's courts.

Ed Latch's field throw and foul shot with 10 seconds remaining in the overtime period gave the Boys Club the victory. Edgewood had won 11 games in a row.

The game was in the playoffs for the league championship. In the other contest, the Cahills downed Chevy Chase A, 50-38, with Bill Patton's 17 points showing the way.

Quantico Beats All-Stars, 10-8

Manassas, Va., Aug. 11—The Quantico Marines outslugged the Old Dominion League All-Stars, 10-8, here tonight. Bill Hawkins paced the victors with three hits, one a 400-foot home run in the eighth inning with nobody on base.

Worsham's Finishing 68 Takes Title

Baltimore, Aug. 11 (AP).—Buck Worsham of Washington's Congressional club traveled 36 holes within a stroke of par to win the Middle Atlantic PGA assistant pros' championship today.

Worsham, whose brother Lew captured the 1947 National Open crown, shot a 73 and 68 for a 141 total over the par-70 Suburban Club course.

His faltering morning round left Worsham tied in second place, at the halfway mark. Clarence Fling of Columbia Country Club, Washington, led at that point with an even par 70.

Worsham's subpar afternoon junket put him two strokes ahead of his closest pursuer. Bracketed behind Worsham were Bill Clarke of the Baltimore Country Club and Bobby Bowers of Indian Spring, Washington, both with 73-70—143.

Wilson Thorpe's 63 Wins Scotch Foursome Golf

The team of Mrs. R. W. Wilson and Merle Thorpe, jr., members of the host club, shot a six-under-par 63 to win the Maryland State Golf Association's mixed Scotch foursome tournament yesterday at Chevy Chase Country Club. They had a gross 73 and a 10 handicap.

Second low net was won by Mrs. R. R. Hendrix and J. A. Swink, Belle Haven, with 75-11—64.

Mary Ann Downey of Baltimore Country Club and David Halle, Suburban, copped low gross honors with a 71.

Mrs. Stelle Wins Tourney

Mrs. C. W. Stelle yesterday won the Army-Navy Country Club's annual Maj. J. Clinton Tribby tournament with a 36-hole net of 182-36—146. Second low net went to Mrs. Frank Browning with 173-22—151 and Mrs. J. O. Dahlke's 199-46—153 was third.

Low gross was won by Mrs. William Ely, who carded 172.

Heurich, Cameo Battle for Lead In Post League Ends in Tie

After Cameo had scored four runs in the first half of the ninth inning, Heurich's Brewers came right back with five and gained an 8-8 tie in a Washington Post Industrial League game played yesterday on the Ellipse. The game was called after the ninth because of darkness.

Heurich has won eight games, and lost one while Cameo has a 7-2 record.

Fort Stevens Reaches Finals

Billy Smith pitched a four-hitter, striking out 16. Fort Stevens meets the winner of today's game between Bunker Hill and Fort DuPont for the title Sunday. The competition is a double elimination affair.

Printers Win From Boston

Special to The Washington Post

Chicago, Aug. 11.—Al Buschling rapped out a home run, double and two singles to pace Washington's Union Printers to a 7-1 victory over Boston in the semi-finals at the Union Printers International baseball tournament today.

Buschling's homer sailed into the Wrigley Field bleachers, 355 feet distant.

Washington, defending champion and the only undefeated team remaining, meets New York tomorrow for the title. New York, defeated once in the double-elimination affair, ousted St. Louis, 16-3.

Eagles Upset By College Stars, 17-7

eight yards to the Eagles' five-yard line on the same play, this time on a pitchout from Eddie Le Baron.

On third down, Fullback Ralph Pasquariello plunged over for the touchdown from the one-yard line. Minnesota's Gordon Soltau kicked the extra point and the Stars led, 7-0.

Stung into action, the Eagles charged back with the kickoff. Van Buren got the pros started by making it a first down on the Eagles 44 with a 14-yard run. Then Tommy Thompson launched his passing game, and completed two aerials to Pete Pihos good for 24 yards.

Scott and Van Buren made it a first down on the Stars' 19 and Thompson gained four on a quarterback sneak to put the ball on the Stars' 15 as the quarter ended with the score All-Stars 7, Eagles 0.

Hart Throws Thompson Back

On third down, however, the Eagles drive came to grief when Leon Hart threw Thompson trying to pass, for an 18-yard loss on third down. Patton's 33-yard field goal try was low and the All-Stars took over on their own 90. On the first play, the electrifying Justice raced 48 yards down the sidelines to the Eagles' 31 where Halfback Joe Sutton caught him from behind.

The Collegians, however, couldn't gain and Burk punted on fourth down, out of bounds on the Eagles' 28.

On the first play, the Stars got another break. Clyde Scott fumbled and Hall Haynes, Washington Redskins' draftee, recovered on the Eagles' 28.

One running play failed and then came the play of the night. LeBaron faded back to pass. He eluded one, two, three and then a fourth Eagle, running from side to side.

Finally when he had retreated 19 yards, he passed to Justice, who was standing alone on the 35-yard line. Choo-Choo hauled it in and sped unmolested for the Stars' touchdown. Soltau's kick made it 14-0 at halftime.

On the second play from scrimmage after the third quarter kickoff, LeBaron fumbled and Guard Walter Barnes claimed the ball for the Eagles on the All-Stars' 28. After Thompson pitched to Jack Myer for eight yards, Van Buren made it a first down for the Eagles on the Stars' 17.

But again the Eagles' scoring hopes ended as quickly as they started. Fullback Myers cracked into the line, fumbled and Tulane's Bill Svoboda recovered for the Stars on their own 12.

The quarter ended with the Eagles driving again. A Thompson-to-Muha-pass and a 13-yard run by Clyde Scott put the ball on the Collegians 23-yard line as the whistle sounded.

Helped by a five-yard offside penalty, the Eagles moved to the Collegians eight-yard line and a first down. Thompson hit Ferrante with a seven-yard pass over the center and Van Buren plowed off tackle for a touchdown. Automatic Cliff Patton added the extra point and it was All-Stars 14, Eagles 7 with 12 minutes to play.

Justice got back into the act. He took a LeBaron handoff, slanted off tackle, cut wide and with the neatest bit of zig-zagging and wiggling, pranced 27 yards to the Stars' 45-yard line. The crowd simply went wild in its applause for the crazy-legged runner from North Carolina.

Justice's Tar Heel teammate, End Art Weiner, barged in with a circus catch of a LeBaron pass for a 35-yard gain, moving the Stars to the Eagles' 20-yard line.

After LeBaron gained three yards, Soltau came in and kicked a 17-yard field goal to make the All-Stars' ahead, 17-7.

Pretender Takes Lead In Staunton Show

By Harry de Mawby, Jr.

Staunton, Va., Aug. 11 Donald Snelling's Pretender performed his way today to a one-point lead in the open jumper division at the first day's session of the two-day Glenmore Hunt Club Horse Show.

Another small one-point lead is credited to Ally Boom, owned and shown by Maxine Ix of Charlottesville, Va., in the strong working hunter division star studded with former champions.

With only two half-value classes completed so far the Coforation hunter race for the coveted crown remains a wide open battle with Waverly Farm's Really Rugged, owned by Mrs. Gregory McIntosh of Warrenton, Va., and the Shawnee Farm's Gentry, owned by Mrs. Parker Poe of Harrodsburg, Ky., both sporting four points in the lead.

Pretender, who currently holds the point lead for State championship honors under the scoring of the Virginia Horse Show Association, was ridden by his young Fredericksburg owner to a blue in the first day modified Olympia event, third in the open jumpers and fourth in the opening warm-up class, in which he apparently did just that, for an eight-point top score.

Female Llamas, Storks Arrive..

MALES REJOICE—There was great rejoicing in the male llama colony at the Zoo yesterday. The above females arrived from the Catskill State Farm, New York. A mysterious malady killed off Dr. William Mann's female llamas a decade ago. Since that time the male llamas have been unhappy

The Washington Post

STORKS AT HOME—Included in the shipment from New York were these shoe-billed storks. Dr. Mann called them "sensational" birds. Whether the big mouthed creatures had anything to do with the baby llama rumor hasn't been determined

Gun Factory Defeats FBI

Naval Gun Factory defeated the Federal Bureau of Investigation, 3-1, behind the six-hit pitching of George Catloth in a Departmental League game yesterday on the Ellipse.

Pete Scalise banged out three hits and Ted Walsh two to lead the victors at bat. Naval Gun has won six games and lost five while the F. B. I. has a 5-4 record.

In Monday's game on the South Ellipse, Washington Gas Co. meets the F. B. I. at 5:30 p. m.

Walter Eyles scored an ace on the 189-yard ninth hole yesterday at Washington Golf and Country Club.

Eyles used a No. 3 iron. He was playing with Harry Lawson, Carl McQuill and Tom Crowell.

St. Teresa's Defeats St. Anthony's, 10-3

Bob Watson pitched a four-hitter to lead St. Teresa's to a 10-3 victory over St. Anthony's in a Catholic Youth Organization summer league game at Fairlawn Park, Anacostia, yesterday.

Cliff Chapman paced the winners with a single and a double in three trips and scored three runs. The win advanced St. Teresa's into second place behind St. Francis de-Sales.

Swedish Tennis Star Shucks Shoes, Beats Top Aussie

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 11 (AP).—Lennart Bergelin of Sweden sprang a rousing upset today by defeating Frank Sedgman, the Australian champion, 2—6, 6—2, 7—5, 1—6, 6—3 in the opening match of the interzone finals for the Davis Cup.

John Bromwich, the 32-year-old gaffer, who was thought to be through as a singles player a couple of years back, pulled the Aussies out of a bad hole in the second match giving Trosten ten Johansson, Sweden's No. 2 player, a frightful going over by scores of 6-2, 6-3, 6-0.

Bromwich and Sedgman will be odds-on favorites to win tomorrow's doubles from Bergelin and Johansson.

Bergelin, trailing in the final set, shucked off his shoes and socks to get better footing on the wet turf at the Westchester Country Club and then raced through five of the final six games to settle the match.

Jury Drops 'Tap' Probe

of the ransom charge. United States Attorney George Morris Fay would not reveal Whitaker's connection with the grand jury investigation.

Monroe's name turned up as an officer of Advice, Inc., according to Senator Pepper. He said two police officers told his committee in an afternoon closed door meeting that they ran a recording-machine tap on the lines of Advice, Inc, for Shimon in January, 1948.

This was the month just before Monroe was sent to the Federal Penitentiary in Lewisburg, Pa., for selling textiles in violation of OPA regulations. He was paroled last September. Monroe, himself, was the target of a congressional inquiry in 1943, the outgrowth of lavish entertainment he served to Cabinet officers and Congressmen in the Big Red House.

Two Detectives Testify

Pepper said the testimony on the Advice, Inc., wire tapping was given by Detective Serge. Walter N. Cook of the homicide squad and Detective Thomas I. Herlihy of the special investigations squad.

They testified separately on the third day of the excutive hearing being held as a prelude to later public hearings. Pepper said they gave the same story.

Their story, according to Pepper, was that they were assigned in January, 1948, to Lieut. Shimon, to perform some confidential work for "a committee on the Hill." Pepper did not identify the committee, but it was understood other information supplied to the Pepper group indicated it was the Macy Committee. Pepper said Cook and Herlihy testified Shimon had them work for two weeks in shifts operating a recording machine in a room in the Gralyn Hotel, 1745 N st. nw. Pepper said their testimony was that a wire ran from the machine to the basement where it tapped into the phones of Advice, Inc., with officers in a nearby building.

Macy has said Shimon came to his office after Macy himself called upon Maj. Robert J. Barrett, chief of Metropolitan Police, for investigative help for the committee he had been appointed to head. Macy said he discussed various matters with Shimon. He said he recalled only the one visit, and denied he ordered or knew of any wire tapping done for the committee. Shimon's attorneys have declared their confidence in the lieutenant's innocence of any illegal or improper act.

Pepper said that in the tapping of Advice, Inc.'s phones, the officers testified it was Shimon who had charge of the operation, that Shimon had the recording equipment installed, that Shimon collected the recording tapes, and that at the end of two weeks or so, the Advice, Inc., people complained about their phone service and the officers called Shimon and he disconnected the recording machine.

A third police officer, Detective Sergt. George H. Robison, jr., of the sex squad, a former aide to Shimon, also testified to the Pepper group, in a morning meeting.

Pepper said Robinson, like McHale, testified he had done wire tapping with and for Shimon. Pepper said it was done at three places in Washington. (1) an apartment house in the 2500 block of Q st. nw; (2) the Occidental Hotel, and (3) the Mayflower Hotel. Pepped said all the jobs were in 1947. He said the Mayflower job had to do with the Hughes case.

Pepped quoted Robinson as saying Shimon had declared the work was confidential and for an investigating committee on the Hill. Pepper said Robinson denied he received compensation for the work. Pepped said Robinson told of seeing several $100 bills in Shimon's pocketbook, and received the impression Shimon had made a successful deal in the auto business.

Pepper said Robison testified he did not participate in the alleged tapping of the lines of Hughes' Carlton hotel suite.

Pepper said the failure of the grand jury to return an indictment in connection with the alleged wire tapping of Hughes' lines would not stop the committee probe of that subject. He said the subcommittee is interested in whether the privacy of citizens is being invaded by persons who have no right to do it.

He said the subcommittee is not out to convict anyone, but to find out if District Police have engaged in wire tapping, and to determine if legislation is needed. He said the committee might want to know why policemen responsible for wiretapping are being kept in the department. Pepper was critical of the police on another score. Asked whether the department report showed what information was obtained by the wire taps, the Senator replied: "No, it didn't seem to me they want very thoroughly into it."

He added, however, that McHale gave the grand jury one set of wire tapping notes for one night of listening.

A reporter asked, too, if Pepper had not been friendly to Hughes when the latter was being investigated. "I'll put it this way," said Pepper, "I was fair."

United States Attorney Fay announced that the recessing of the wiretapping grand jury until Monday ended its investigation of the Hughes case. He added:

"We presented all the evidence we had. It wouldn't have made any difference if the statute of limitations had run until January. The result would have been the same. I don't want to give the impression that the case was tried on only part of the evidence. It was not a whitewash."

Pepper said Committee Counsel Gerhard P. Van Arkel will announce today the agenda for Monday's committee meeting.

When reporters asked Senator Owen Brewster (R., Me.) to comment on the failure of the grand jury to return indictments, the Senator said the development was "very interesting!"

"I assume that is because they didn't have any evidence," said Brewster. "I have great confidence in the grand jury."

fi-etaoinhrdluetaoincmfwypetauuu

Senator Brewster said he had not discussed the Senate committee's wiretapping investigation with either of the Republican members of the investigating committee. These members are Senators Robert C. Hendrickson (R., N. J.) and Senator Harry Darby (R., Kan.).

Brewster said there had "decidedly not" been any wiretapping by the war contracts investigating committe when he was its chairman. It was during his chairmanship that Hughes' contacts were investigated in 1947. Brewster pointed out the Hughes investigation was in the hands of a subcommittee headed by Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.).

Tieups Spread In St. Louis, N. Y. Transit

Wildcat transportation strikes spread in St. Louis and New York Friday, but the Government took steps to prevent two railroad tie-ups.

A back-to-work movement at Oak Ridge, Tenn., eased a threatened delay in completion of two huge atomic plants costing 227 million dollars.

Defiance by some St. Louis streetcar and bus operators of State seizure of the St. Louis transit system brought about half the city's public transportation to a halt. Despite pleas by union leaders, groups of striking operators began flagging down buses and streetcars. The 10 streetcar lines and 36 of 47 bus lines operated during the morning, but by afternoon two streetcar lines and 26 bus lines were out.

Bus service was halted for 350,000 daily riders in Manhattan and The Bronx by a wildcat strike affecting about 100,000 riders along eight routes Thursday which spread to 16 routes yesterday. The strikers claimed dirty windows and windshields created a safety hazard.

A possible strike by 14 non-operating unions against 26 short-line railroads was postponed for at least 60 days when President Truman created an emergency board to look into the dispute.

At Buffalo, Federal Judge John Knight granted a Government plea for a preliminary injunction against the Switchmen's Union to prevent it from renewing its strike against the Rock Island Railroad.

Seventy-five AFL painters walked out at the Oak Ridge atomic plants Monday and set up picket line Thursday. About 1450 of the 2500 AFL craftsmen on the projects honored the picket line.

However, about half the morning shift of 2000 workers went through the lines Friday, and AEC and union officials predicted early settlement.

RFC Fined For Contempt In Watch Case

Boston, Aug. 11 (AP).—The Reconstruction Finance Corporation was fined $50,000 by Federal Court Judge George C. Sweeney today for contempt in failing to comply with the court's order to turn over all the assets of the closed Waltham Watch Co.

The trustees said that the RFC refused to turn over $500,000 in cash. The RFC contends that the money is its property.

C. Keefe Hurley, one of the three trustees, told Judge George C. Sweeney that the RFC had disclosed on the day of the court order its intentions of foreclosing on the plant for a 4-million-dollar loan.

The RFC's intentions, Hurley said, were told to the trustees at a conference with RFC Special Counsel Charles C. Cabot and James J. Crawshaw, acting manager of the RFC Boston office.

Although Cabot and Crawshaw objected that Hurley's testimony would be a "breach of confidence," the trustee listed as the RFC's position:

1. Not to accept or assent to the trustees' reorganization plan.

2. Despite the court decision that the company was solvent, the RFC felt stockholders had no equity.

3. The RFC intended to foreclose the company, wipe out the stockholders and unsecured creditors, and sell the firm to persons who would make it a going concern.

Meanwhile in Washington a Senate investigating committee sharply criticized Reconstruction Finance Corporation supervision of the agency's loan to the defunct Lustron Corp.

A committee report filed with the Senate dealt specifically with testimony that Lustron, a big prefabricated housing firm in Columbus, Ohio, used more than $500,000 of the Federal loans to pay improper transportation fees. It said the Investigators will leave to the Department of Justice the task of determining whether law violations were involved.

Dr. Townsend Credits Plan With Avoiding Revolution

Dr. Francis E. Townsend, 83, father of the pension plan bearing his name, yesterday credited his idea with saving this country from revolution.

The original proposal, to give $200 a month to all persons more than 60 years of age, he said, proved "good psychology" in the dark of the depression of the early '30s.

Without the "hope" the proposal instilled in the aged 17 years ago, Dr. Townsend said here, "despair would long ago have probably induced a revolution."

Dr. Townseind arrived here yesterday to prepare for the activities of the first National Conference on Aging, to be held Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at Hotel Shoreham. He said he still "hopes" the present Congress will pass his present pension plan.

The plan cals for scrapping Social Security in favor of a taxing program which he estimates would provide monthly pensions of $150 to all over 60, at its start. Once put in operation, he said, the benefits would increase by the impetus the extra spending would have on all business.

Case Technology School Head Named to Atomic Commission

T. Keith Glennan, president of Case Institute of Technology, Cleveland, Ohio, and former Hollywood studio manager, was nominated by President Truman yesterday for a five-year term on the Atomic Energy Commission.

Glennan, 41, whose appointment was sent to the Senate for confirmation, will fill the post left vacant on the five-member commission by Lewis L. Strauss, who resigned. Other members are Chairman Gordon Dean, Henry D. Smyth, Sumner T. Pike and Thomas E. Murray.

The commission is responsible for the 4-billion-dollar atomic weapons and research program, including development of the hydrogen bomb.

Glennan's confirmation by the Senate seemed assured. Chairman Brien McMahon (D., Conn.) of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee described him as a man "of fine background" and predicted he will make a "good commissioner." The committee will hold a hearing on the appointment next week.

Mr. Truman also named three new members of the General Advisory Committee to the atomic commission. They are: Willard F. Libby, professor of chemistry, University of Chicago; Eger V. Murphree, Summit, N. J., president, Standard Oil Development Co., and Walter G. Whitman, professor of chemical engineering, Massachusetts Institute of Technology. They will replace Dr. Enrico Fermi; Dr. Glenn T. Seabong, and Hartley Rowe.

A native of Enderlin, N. Dak., Glennan was director of the Navy underwater sound laboratory at New London, Conn., during World War II. During his Hollywood career, he was with Paramount studios for six years as operations manager and was with the Samuel Goldwyn studios for two years.

Glennan was an official of the Aniline Film Co., Binghamton, N. Y., from 1945 to 1947 and went to Case Institute as president in 1947.

Libby Holman's Son Missing on Mountain

Lone Pine, Calif., Aug. 11 (U.P.).—Searching parties combed the steep slopes of Mt. Whitney, highest peak in the United States, today for two 17-year-old New York boys missing for five days.

The sheriff's office at Independence said it understood one of the boys, Christopher Reynolds, was the son of tobacco heiress Libby Holman, while the other boy, Steven Wasserman, is reported to be the son of a New York broker.

Mother, Daughter Sue Same Husband

Nevada, Mo., Aug. 11 (AP).—A mother and her daughter, married to the same man, brought their troubles to the circuit court here for unraveling.

The judge's problem was more complicated by the fact both the mother and her daughter had born the man a child.

In the plaintiffs' petitions, one asked a divorce, the other annulment.

The judge granted the older Mrs. Sexton a divorce and dismissed the younger woman's petition for annulment.

AFL Calls Red Peace Plan a 'Rank Fraud'

Chicago, Aug. 11 (AP).—The AFL Executive Council today condemned the so-called Stockholm peace proposal as a "rank fraud" and urged the Nation's working men and women "to spurn this spurious petition."

The council, policy-making group for the big labor body, concluded its quarterly meeting today.

A statement issued by the council referred to the peace petition as "Moscow's 'dove of peace'" which it said "is only a lead pigeon out of which are made poisoned bullets against democracy.

"Those who sign this so-called peace petition are, knowingly or otherwise, serving Russian imperialism, aiding its bloody adventure in Korea, and helping the Soviet dictatorship to plunge mankind into another world war," the statement added.

The petition first appeared in Stockholm, Sweden. It advocates destruction of atomic stockpiles.

Members of the council voted to request Congress to nullify the postal cutback ordered by the Postmaster General last April 17. A resolution said forthright action on the part of Congress to rescind the mail curtailment "will meet with the immediate favorable response of citizens everywhere."

Patrons May Get Rain Checks for Sesqui Drama

If Jupiter Pluvius joins the east of "Faith of Our Fathers" before Scene 4, Act II, you can get a rain check for the Sesqui show.

That was announced yesterday by Paul Massman, Sesquicentennial general manager, who said ticket holders may exchange their stubs for similar tickets to any subsequent performance of Paul Green's drama.

Massman also pointed out that the new amphitheater in Rock Creek Park, where the show is given every night but Mondays, is partially rimmed by a rain shelter capable of protecting 3000 persons.

The Federal Diary by Jerry Kluttz

Employe Provisions Of House-Approved Defense Act Outlined

The Defense Production Act, as approved overwhelmingly by the House, carries these provisions of direct interest to Federal personnel:

1. The act gives the President authority to hire and place additional employes in the three top classified grades, GS-16, 17 and 18. The jobs will pay from $11,200 to $12,200; $12,2000 to $13,000, and a flat $14,000 respectively;

2. The President also is given power to appoint heads and assistants of any new agencies set up to carry out the bill and to pay them salaries comparable to the compensation paid the heads of independent agencies, or about $15,000 annually;

3. "Any officer or agency may employ civilian personnel for duty in the United States, including the District of Columbia, or elsewhere," without regard to the law which requires the Budget Bureau to fix quarterly personnel ceilings for each agency.

4. The Administrative Procedure Act also is suspended for operations under the House bill.

5. The President is given authority to employ, without compensation, "persons of outstanding experience and ability." Persons appointed under this provision may be allowed transportation and a $15 daily allowance when they are on duty, and,

6. The no-strike and loyalty provisions covering all employes are carried in the bill.

Representative Carroll Kearns (R., Pa.) offered an amendment to require all appointments under the act to be made by Civil Service. He said in part:

"It (the amendment) is purely designed to require that all jobs which come into existence under this legislation be merit-system jobs. Every member of this House has many constituents in his district who have successfully passed Civil Service examinations and are entitled to some kind of position if it is open through this legislation. . . ."

The amendment was rejected when Representative Patman (D., Tex.) explained that most employes to be recruited would be taken from the Civil Service rolls. The exceptions, he said, would be people with outstanding qualifications.

"You cannot get them out of Civil Service examination; i. is impossible. You have got to have outstanding people with particular qualifications for this particular work. Because there are lots of fine people on Civil Service rolls does not mean they are qualified for these special jobs."

The number of new employes to be hired under the bill, and where, will depend on how the President uses the authority that would be given him, and what the President will do depends on international developments.

CAPITOL HILL: A bloc of House conferees on the general appropriation bill are reported to be demanding a 10 percent cut for Economic Cooperation Administration . . . The Senate has sidetracked for the remainder of this year the Langer bill to place nonveteran career employes with 15 or more years of service on an equal basis with veterans in making lay-offs . . . Officials of the Budget Bureau, Treasury and General Accounting indorsed the House-approved bill to have the Government buy and pay for surety bonds an estimated 1,100,000 Federal workers bought and paid for last year. A subcommittee headed by Senator Hoey (D., N. C.) is considering the legislation.

C&GS: The Navy is eyeing Commerce's Coast and Geodetic Survey. It wants C&GS transferred to it for the duration. C&GS worked closely with the Navy during World War II, and it's in line for a major role in the latest defense program. The agency is operated by men who hold Navy commissions.

As reported here the other day, Commerce's Civil Aeronautics Administration is slated to be transferred to the Defense Department and many of its civilians militarized.

Officials have slapped down reports that the Defense Department also is after the Maritime Commission. They say it hasn't even been mentioned. Maritime, of course, is working closely with Defense in supplying troop carriers and merchant vessels.

Senor, you mees sumzings whet you mees that hot deesh at the cheeli ranch.

Ah, but the cheeli eet ees not to what we refer, although eet ees superb, an adoration.

Eet was a fight weeth the feests. Senor Gabe Menendez should produce seech a beee-utifuul fight.

Eeet ees sad, not so, that Senor the Policeman John Carroll ees seespended? And Dannay Petro, who fights weeth hees feests een the prize ring, goes flat on hees back?

Reemember you when Dannay would speet een hees foe's eye? Tough Keed, heem.

Eet start at 3 a. m. een the Cheeli Ranch 729½ 11th st. se. A friend of Dannay heet a customer once, like that. Stop thees, say Senor the Policeman Carroll who ees part owner of the Cheeli Ranch. The friend heet the customer a second time, like thees.

Thees ees too much for Senor the Policeman Carroll. He heet the friend one beeg wallop and knock heem to the floor.

Dannay, he weel not stand idly by and see hees friend walloped. He go at Senor the Policeman Carroll weeth hees feests. Eet ees unhappy for Dannay that he ees only featherweight and Senor the Policeman Carroll ees 200 pounds een hees stocking feet.

One more beeg wallop and Dannay ees knocked through the screen door. By the time the friend and Dannay get to their feet, Senor the Policeman Carroll ees showing a .25 caliber peestol.

Dannay and hees friend (hees name, the Senors Policemen say, ees Carl E. Bridensteine, 27, of 1140 Oates st. ne.) leave. They return later weeth a third man.

Senor the Policeman Carroll, he says no.

"I theenk you're drunk," says Dannay.

"Eef you theenk I'm drunk, why don't you call the police?" ees what Senor the Policeman Carroll says.

Dannay does. The Senors Policemen come and take everyone to the Feefth Precinct.

"Now, Dannay Petro, who ees 27 and leeves at 30 6th st. se., ees charged weeth drunk and disorderly and hees friend, Senor Bridenstiene, only weeth disorderly. Eet ees to the Court of the Municipal they must go next Friday.

And Senor the Policeman Carroll, who ees 29, he ees asking to be retired because hees leg hurt from the war and he says he ees no longer able to pound the beat een the Neenth Precinct.

But now he ees seespended for conduct unbecoming an officer.

Cement Lack Slows Virginia Road Projects

A "critical" cement shortage in Virginia has delayed work on several State projects in the Washington area, a spokesman for the Virginia State Highway Department said yesterday.

The jobs affected by the cement scarcity, according to Robert Steele, highway department director of public information, are:

1. The Spout Run connection between an extension of the George Washington Memorial pkwy. and Lee hwy. Cement is needed for a culvert carrying a stream under the short strip of macadam road.

2. A 2.5-mile widening job on Route 236, between Annandale, Va., and the Shirley hwy. The $200,000 project, just begun, is "seriously" affected, he said.

3. Two overhead crossings on the Shirley hwy. in Fairfax, carrying Routes 648 and 617 over the thoroughfare.

4. A half-mile widening job on Route 7, running between Shirley hwy. and the Alexandria city limits. It is scheduled to be a 4-lane highway on completion.

Steele said the cement shortage is not due to the Korean war. He blamed it on the Buggs Island dam on the South Carolina border, which he said is "taking a tremendous drain on all cement in the area," plus some scattered strikes in the cement industry.

A spokesman for the Federal Bureau of Public Roads, which is building the George Washington parkway, said yesterday the new parkway Unit Three should be ready to carry traffic between November 1 and 15. Construction is nearly complete from Rosslyn circle to a point near the Washington and Old Dominion railroad tracks.

He said delay in finishing the Spout Run connection would not halt opening of the parkway extension, but that it "won't be as useful" in that case. Traffic could reach Lee hwy. via Lorcum la., which cuts into the parkway extension about a quarter of a mile below Spout Run dr., he said.

Arlington Man Named To Apprentice Board

Lawson Wimberly, 44, of 2814 S. Arlington Ridge rd., Arlington, has been appointed to the State Apprenticeship Council, an announcement from Gov. John S. Battle's office disclosed yesterday.

Wimberly is assistant to the president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, with offices in Washington. He is married and has two children. He fills the unexpired term of O. E. Barnes, 204 S. Pitt st., Alexandria, retired.

Reynolds Enters Plea

Pvt. Gilbert Reynolds, 18, of the Bolling Air Base, pleaded innocent yesterday in District Court to a first-degree murder charge in the killing May 27 of Gordon C. Brown, jr., 24, a taxicab driver. The trial date has not been set.

Wife Hospitalized After She Suffers Lapse of Memory

A woman cab passenger, at first thought to be an amnesia victim, was identified by District police early yesterday as Mrs. Anna Peters, 38, of 2319 N. 11th st., Arlington.

She is the wife of William J. Peters, employe of the Veterans Administration.

Police said Mrs. Peters hailed a cab shortly before 3 a. m. on a lonely stretch on Lee blvd. near Fort Myer, asked to be driven into Washington and once here said she could not remember her name or address.

The cab driver, John C. Mickens, 37, of 437 Tennessee ave. ne., handed the problem to Police Pvts. M. J. Walker and K. N. Herbert when he met their scout car at 34th and M sts. nw.

The policemen drove Mrs. Peters around Georgetown to see if she would recognize any landmarks. She finally recalled that she knew someone at 1525 31st st. nw. This, it developed, was a friend, Elizabeth Harmon.

After Mrs. Peters had been taken to Georgetown University Hospital, Miss Harmon was called there and identified her. When admitted, Mrs. Peters was described as being in a highly nervous condition.

County Bond Suit Action Dismissed

Fairfax Judge Says Wrong Defendants Named; $11,480,000 Issue Is at Stake

A suit challenging validity of $11,480,000 worth of bonds for schools and court house expansion in Fairfax County was thrown out of the county's Circuit Court yesterday.

The bonds were approved by county voters May 30.

The suit, filed by two county residents July 7, was dismissed by Judge Arthur Sinclair. The judge ruled that two county officials and two adjacent cities could not be considered proper defendants in the suit.

Judge Sinclair said the county's treasurer and commissioner of revenue could not be named defendants because they have not been instructed to carry out any duties which eventually might be assigned to them as the result of the bond sale. He said the cities of Alexandria and Falls Church, which now have annexation cases pending against the county, could appeal only to the special courts hearing the annexation proceedings for relief from any eventual result of the bond referendum.

Complainants Paul E. Rhinehart, jr., and Charles Gardner contested validity of the bond referendum on the ground that voters in the "annexable areas" near Alexandria and Falls Church were allowed to participate. They contended that, in the event of successful annexation suits, those voters actually would not benefit from bond proceeds.

Last Monday, Judge Sinclair ruled that the county board of supervisors and the school board were not proper "parties defendant" to the suit, either. They were named individually instead of being designated as official county organizations, he said.

Alfred J. Anton, attorney for the plaintiffs, said he would appeal to the Virginia Court of Appeals. If the appeal is carried out, it may delay by as much as four months the sale of the bonds.

To protect the county from financial loss which might result from the current proceedings, Judge Sinclair ordered the plaintiffs to post $20,000 "suspension bond" within 21 days. If the collateral cannot be posted by that time, court officials said, the suit automatically will expire.

The high suspension bond was requested by Hugh Marsh, commonwealth's attorney, and John Alexander, attorney for the school board. They said a delay in the sale of bonds, which would be occasioned if the case were carried to the Court of Appeals, might cause the county "irreparable financial harm."

The bonds under question include $10,500,000 for "critical" school construction and $980,000 for a new courthouse addition.

Award to Honor Woodward's Truck Drivers

A certificate of merit in accident prevention will be presented Monday to Andrew Parker, president of Woodward & Lothrop, by George E. Keneipp, D. C. director of vehicles and traffic.

Presentation of the certificate, which is being awarded by the Liberty Mutual Insurance Company, the department store's insurance carrier, will be at 9 a. m. at the Woodward & Lothrop service building, 131 M st. ne.

The award is for "conspicuous achievement in accident prevention," represented by the "operation of their fleet with a 31 percent reduction in the frequency of accidents per 100,000 miles during the year ending May 1, 1950."

Keneipp said that, with traffic fatalities trending sharply upward, it would be a real pleasure to honor the record of the store's 80-odd drivers.

Songs and Good Cheer at Marine Reunion

The Washington Post

Maryland Man Jailed, Fined On 10 Charges

A 23-year-old Highland Park (Md.) laborer was sentenced to 21 months in the Maryland House of Corrections and fined $250 on 10 traffic charges yesterday in Marlboro Police Court.

The defendant, John Hensley, pleaded guilty to all 10 charges, which arose from an 85-mile-an-hour chase over 8 miles of Prince Georges County roads last Saturday night. One person was seriously injured in one of three collisions during the chase.

Trial Magistrate Alan Bowie imposed six-month sentences for reckless driving, drunk driving and exceeding 70 miles an hour, and three months for failing to stop at the scene of an accident. Fines were imposed as follows: $50 on each of two more counts of failing to stop at the scene of an accident, unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and passing when the way ahead is not clear, and $25 each for driving without a license and failing to obey a policeman's command.

Failure to pay the fines would add 160 days to the jail sentence.

D. C. Drivers Permits Hit Record in July

The number of driver's permits issued by the District Department of Vehicles and Traffic reached an all-time peak in July, Director George E. Keneipp announced yesterday.

The total was 16,750, an increase of 15 percent over the 14,578 issued in the same month last year.

It looks as though August will break the July record, Keneipp said. On August 7, 1123 permits were issued, a record number for one day.

Keneipp urged District drivers to check their permits for the expiration date, as 1950 is an "anniversary" year in the three-year permit system and a great number of permits run out this year.

Even with extra workers in the permit issuance section, the job of notifying drivers of their permit expiration date is "prodigious" and is complicated by many address changes, Keneipp said.

Motorists whose permits are expiring and who have not received renewal blanks may obtain them at any police precinct.

Virginia Boy, 9, Watching Planes, Killed by Truck

A 9-year-old boy, looking at a flight of planes overhead as he crossed a highway, died instantly when he walked into the side of a trailer truck near his home at Brightwood, Madison County, Va., yesterday.

The boy, Wiley Martin, was crossing Virginia State Rt. 29, at Brightwood, south of Culpeper, when the accident occurred about 2:30 p. m., according to Virginia State police.

Thomas V. Powell, 29, of Greensboro, N. C., driver of the truck, was not held,

CTC Riders Get More Time To Use Up Old Tokens

The District Public Utilities Commission yesterday extended until September 14 the period in which Capital Transit patrons may use old tokens plus two cents for bus and streetcar fares.

Last month the PUC granted CTC a fare increase that boosted the price of tokens about two cents each. At the same time it gave passengers 30 days from the effective date of the increase, July 16, to use up their old tokens.

Capital Transit requested the 30-day extension, a company spokesman said, so passengers would not be forced to carry their old tokens to company offices. Only a few old tokens are still unaccounted for, he said.

Senate Approves Redding

The Senate yesterday approved the nomination of John M. Redding, former publicity director for the Democratic National Committee, for the post of Assistant Postmaster General.

Armed to Teeth

2d Marines Win Victory Over Chow

Veterans of the 2d Marine Division, armed to the teeth with appetites, assaulted a chow line in force here last night.

Resistance crumbled as they took their objective — fried chicken, English peas, rice and gravy, rolls and butter—at the Marine Barracks, 8th and I sts. se.

Some 400 members of the famed "Follow Me" division — whose World War II exploits extended from Iceland to Tarawa to Saipan to Tinian to Okinawa—convened at the barracks for fun and formality at 6 p. m.

The show was part of their first postwar reunion, which runs through today with headquarters at the Mayflower Hotel.

Before they were feted with what one 18th Marine Regiment veteran called "the best chow you ever saw in the Marine Corps," the Second "Mardiv" men were honored with a parade by members of the Barracks detachment.

The Marine Corps Band played "The Marine Hymn" while passing in review, and two platoons of the ceremonial Marine Barracks detachment did everything but stand on their heads—with fixed bayonets, in step and without command.

As Good as the Movies

"Just like the movies," commented one 2d Marine Regiment veteran.

Among those present and accounted for was former Corporal Donald R. Compton, of Las Vegas, New Mexico, who fought with the Eighteenth Regiment (engineers) of the Second Division.

Now an auditor at a Las Vegas hotel, Compton defied the loss of his left leg on Saipan and went back to cow punching.

He wanted to come to the reunion, but the matter of finances and transportation stood in his way. Another 2d Division veteran, John L. Schwartz, of Albuquerque, N. M., heard about his plight. Within a few days, the Marine Corps League in Albuquerque had solved the problem. Schwartz and Compton came to Washington together, where they met C. M. Culpepper, of Roscoe, Tex. It turned out that Culpepper was a friend of Schwartz's son, who was killed in action while serving with the division in World War II.

Missing Flag Shows Up

Guest of honor for the occasion was Maj. Gen. Julian G. Smith, USMC (Ret.) who led the 2d Division through its World War II battles and reviewed the parade last night.

While the "youngsters" of the Second held forth here, Leatherneck veterans of World War I held a ceremony of their own at Quantico, Va.

Former members of the 6th Marine Machine Gun Battalion turned over to the Marine Corps Museum a battle flag which "disappeared" mysteriously after the Great War.

It had been through five major and two minor engagements in France in 1918. After vanishing in battle, it was returned recently to a member of the battalion by an anonymous sender.

Getaway Car Driver Gets Prison Term

Raymond J. Bell, 22, driver of a getaway car in two purse-snatchings here, was sentenced yesterday to serve 15 to 45 months in prison.

Sentence was imposed by Judge Richmond B. Keech. Bell was apprehended by police after two women were robbed of their purses in the vicinity of the Shoreham Hotel. More than $200 in cash and $3000 in jewelry were reported stolen.

Bell, whose address was given as 6107 6th st. nw., was charged along with his brother-in-law, Alfred Funderburk, 20, of 718 Somerset pl. nw. Funderburk actually committed the robberies, police said, and escaped in the car Bell drove. Funderburk was convicted and sentenced to serve 2 to 6 years.

Onlie B. Mattocks, 29, of 458 K st. nw., received six to 18 months and Ossie L. Courts, 20, of 805 New Jersey ave. nw., received four months to a year in prison for a yoke robbery which netted them a total of 35 cents. Judge Burnita S. Matthews imposed sentence.

Judge Matthews gave Lee Sizemore, 42, of Baltimore, Md., eight months to two years in prison for breaking into the Calvary Methodist Church, 1463 Columbia rd. nw., last May. Sizemore was arrested in the basement of the church.

Alexandria Takes First Prize in Firemen's Parade

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 11 (AP).—The fire departments of Alexandria and Phoebus won first prizes in a two-mile-long parade which concluded the annual convention of the Virginia State Firemen's Association today.

With 22 of the 72 fire departments assembled in Norfolk placing units in the parade, Alexandria carried away the $150 prize for the "largest and best appearing department with a band." Charlottesville placed second to win $100.

First for size and appearance among units without a band was Phoebus, which received a $75 prize. Phoebus also received $50 for being the best department for cities having a population of under 10,000. A similar prize was won by Alexandria among cities with a population of over 10,000.

Women's Police Jobs Go Begging In Montgomery

Dissatisfied with the response to advertisements for auxiliary women police, Montgomery County officials yesterday took steps to line up applicants.

The deadline was extended to August 28, and county women were urged to apply.

As of yesterday only 14 applications had been received, Ben Hall, personnel director, said. Duties will consist of patroling school crossings for 3½ hours a day, five days a week. Pay is $50 a month.

Knife Held Not Dangerous Weapon If Used Only on Fish

Judge Armond W. Scott refused yesterday to convict a man for carrying a fish knife—at least not when it was used on fish only.

John D. Allen, 58, of 1 P st. nw., was in Municipal Court yesterday to pay a $25 fine for disorderly conduct when deputy marshals discovered he was carrying a five-inch fish knife. They haled him before Judge Scott for carrying a deadly weapon.

Allen said that he had been using the knife while he fished during the morning. His luck had been poor, he said, with only three eels hooked, and he didn't want to be hooked on the weapons charge.

"I know every good fisherman has a knife," said Judge Scott. "I carry one when I go fishing. There's no showing here that he had it for any unlawful purpose or intended to harm anyone with it."

"No, sir," Allen chuckled. "If I wanted to hurt somebody in court, I would have brought a shotgun."

"Case dismissed," said Judge Scott.

Truman Signs Bill For District Civil Defense

Funds Awaited; Measure Calls For Naming of Chief To Push Planning

President Truman yesterday signed into law a bill authorizing establishment of a District civil defense office.

It provides for the appointment of a civil defense director who, acting under the direction of the District Commissioners, would be responsible for:

(1) Preparation of a comprehensive civil defense plan to be integrated with civil defense plans of the Federal Government and nearby areas; (2) organization of volunteer units and expansion of existing District agencies where necessary; (3) study of the District's resources for civil defense and planning for their most efficient emergency use; (4) development of mutual aid agreements with nearby areas.

District officials have taken some preliminary steps to organize for civil defense. These consist chiefly of reports prepared by individual agencies on their needs and problems in the event of attack. Plans also have been announced for recruiting of 10,250 auxiliary police and firemen. But they have not yet been submitted to the District Commissioners for approval.

District Engineer Commissioner Gordon R. Young has said the bigger job—that of welding the several dozen reports into one plan and then putting it into effect—must await appointment of a director. That, in turn, must await appropriation of funds.

The District has asked Congress for $290,000 as a starter. The request is now awaiting Congressional action as part of a supplementary appropriation bill.

3 Polio Cases Bring Area Total to 138

Three infantile paralysis cases were reported in the District area yesterday, raising the year's total to 138.

Two of the new cases were reported in the District. This brought to 65 the number reported in Washington this year, as compared with 24 at the same time last year. District Health officials said the new cases included: A 2½-year-old boy of the 4000 block of Tunlaw ter. nw., admitted to Children's Hospital August 10, and a 32-year-old man of the 1600 block of Harvard st., admitted to the Bethesda Naval Hospital August 10.

The third case, reported by the Arlington County Health Department, was a 12-year-old girl of the 2800 block of S. Wakefield st., admitted to Children's Hospital August 10. It brought the county's total for the year to 11.

Second Worker Dies After Fairfax Mishap

Samuel Johnson, 36, of Shipmans, Va., died at Alexandria Hospital yesterday as the result of a conscruction accident that killed another man in Fairfax County, August 3.

Robert J. Henderson, 54, of 1200 S. Thomas st., Arlington, was killed instantly when he and Thomas were struck by the boom of a power crane while working at an excavation on Duke st. extended, about a mile west of Alexandria. Fairfax County police said the boom fell when a supporting cable snapped. Johnson, father of two children was rooming at 2022 S. Lincoln st., Arlington, while working for the DeLashmutt Bros. building firm.

Department Store Sales Gain In D. C.

Sales of Washington department stores in the week ended August 5 were 38 percent higher than in the week of August 6, 1949, and 1 percent higher than in the week of July 29, 1950, the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond reported yesterday.

The regional increase of the August 5 week over 1949 amounted to 32 per cent and the gain over the July 29 week was 1 percent.

Sales in the four weeks ended August 5 in Washington were 21 per cent greater than in the corresponding period of 1949 and 23 per cent greater in the Fifth (Richmond) District.

REALTY BOND INDEX: The Amott-Baker Realty bond average declined 0.6 percent in July, the second consecutive month in which prices receded. Previously the market had risen through eleven consecutive months. The average of the 40 issues included in the index on July 31 was $800 against $805 a month earlier and $774 at the end of 1949.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Aug. 11 (AP).—Most grains wound up with small losses on the Board of Trade today, only corn displaying independent firmness.

The market opened on a bulge when a buying flurry entered corn and soybeans. But that ended quickly, after which the market slowly retreated. Selling increased toward the close, centering mainly in wheat, which had not done much earlier in the session.

Wheat finished ⅜ to 1 cent lower, corn unchanged to ⅜ higher, oats ⅜-1⅛ lower, rye 1 to 1¼ lower, soybeans 1¼ to 2 cents lower and lard unchanged to 10 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Early buying in corn and soybeans was based on the fact that the Agriculture Department crop forecast, issued after the close yesterday, did not show as glowing an outlook for those two crops as some of the more optimistic traders had expected.

New York Cotton

New York, Aug. 11 (AP).—The cotton futures market drifted lower in slow trading today. Closing values were down 60 cents to $1.20 a bale and at the lowest levels for the day.

The market started steady, on a small amount of textile mill buying and some short covering. However, when this demand was filled the market attracted increased hedges and profit taking which continued to come into the market until the final bell. Some of the hedge selling was against increased movement of new crop cotton in Texas, while the balance was said to be against purchases of additional quantities of cotton from the C.C.C. 1948-49 pooled stock.

GM Head Foresees Possible Auto Cut

London, Ont., Aug. 11 (U.P.).—C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors Corp., said today that American automobile production might be cut 10 percent in the next year because of defense requirements.

"We don't know if we'll be at war in the next two or three years," Wilson said. But he said he was making his estimate while assuming that "our political leaders will be smart enough to avoid that catastrophe."

If complete wartime conversion does come, Wilson said, it would take "at least nine months or a year for the auto industry to be making planes, tanks and guns in appreciable volume."

4-H Girls Star as Dress Designers . . .

The Washington Post

FARMS TO FASHIONS—Nancy McCauley, 15, of Washington County, Md., proudly poses in the pink organdy evening gown which she designed to win the grand award in the 4-H style review at the University of Maryland yesterday. Video, Radio Stocks Start Market Slump

New York, Aug. 11 (AP).—A setback in radio-television stocks opened a weak vein in the entire market today.

It was the first decline this week for the TV group and the severest decline for the market generally in more than two weeks.

Several factors contributed to the relapse, brokers reported: Profit-taking sales after a sustained rise, the North Korean capture of an important seaport, and the usual pruning of holdings just before a long weekend.

Washington developments, which included House approval after the close of the market Thursday of sweeping control powers for the President, apparently had little effect on the trend of prices.

Trading contracted a bit as prices slipped.

Declines in the TV section amounted to nearly $3 a share at one time but most closed above the day's lows. Losses elsewhere were mostly confined to around 50 cents a share or less although there were several notable exceptions.

New highs for 1950 were touched by about 35 stocks during the day while only three hit bottom for the year.

Today's setback bore out the predictions of a good many Wall Streeters that the market was due for a downward adjustment.

Despite the Friday decline, the market finished the week higher for the fourth week in a row. Many brokers start to get a touch of nerves when prices curve upward too long without a dip and the minor drop today was soothing, if anything, to them.

A couple of oil stocks livened up the proceedings today.

Richfield Oil jumped $3.62 a share to $49.87 at one time and Sinclair $1.12 to $29.87, both new highs for the year. Demand seemed to be based on a revival of rumors that Sinclair planned to sell its holdings of Richfield, possibly to Cities Service.

The rumor was quickly and flatly denied by spokesmen for Sinclair and Richfield.

Arson in Barn Blaze Laid to Former Tenant

Peter Leo Marshall, 41, of Mitchellville, Md., was held for grand jury action yesterday in Marlboro Police Court on an arson charge in connection with the burning of a barn on the farm of Oden Bowie, near Mitchellville. He was committed to jail in lieu of $5000 bond.

The fire Saturday destroyed the barn and its contents of grain and farm machinery, causing estimated damage of $10,000. Witnesses testified Marshall, a former tenant on the farm, was seen in the vicinity of the barn before the fire.

4-H'ers End Club Week In Maryland

By The Associated Press

The summing up came yesterday for the 1100 or so 4-H Club members who for the past week have been frolicking and studying and competing at their annual Maryland conference.

They saw prizes awarded to contest winners. They put on skits recounting the week's activities. They expressed their thanks to some of the "4-H Friends" who have helped them along.

At the day's major assembly Dr. T. B. Symons, dean of the University of Maryland College of Agriculture and Director of its Extension Service, received a set of bronze bookends decorated with the 4-H Club cloverleaf insignia.

Earlier in the day, delegates were divided into two groups, with the girls attending a fashion show in the new armory and the boys gathering on the campus for a highway safety demonstration.

State Police Corpl. S. M. Conrad told them that in Maryland, the 20-29-year age group has the highest accident rate. But Nation-wide figures show teen-age drivers have five times as many accidents as any other age group and kill nine times as many persons.

Nancy McCauley, 15-year-old Hagerstown Club member, took first prize in the dress review. She modeled a pink organdy evening gown she designed and made herself.

Kaiser Absolved Of Wrong-Doing In Claims Case

Detroit, Aug. 11 (U.P.).—United States District Judge Frank A. Picard exonerated Henry J. Kaiser of "fraud, wrong-doing(deceit or collusion" today and in effect rejected 50 million dollars in claims by stockholders of Kaiser-Frazer Corp.

Picard approved a $1,379,000 settlement in the stockholders' suits filed after an abortive stock issue in 1948.

"Henry Kaiser always came to the financial rescue of Kaiser-Frazer and none of these stockholders opposing the settlement would assume the burden Mr. Kaiser did," Picard ruled. "Mr. Kaiser's interest in the company was more than financial, it was almost paternal."

The 1948 stock issue failed after Otis and Co., Cleveland brokers, withdrew as underwriters at the last minute.

Murder Charge Holds Man, 74, in Stabbing

George Washington Simms, 74, of 349 1st st. sw., was held for the grand jury on a murder charge yesterday after an inquest at the District Morgue.

Simms was bound over in the fatal stabbing of William Frank Walker, 43, of 220 B½ st. sw., at 6:30 a. m. yesterday in front of 229 B½ st. sw. Police said Walker was stabbed in the back with an icepick in a quarrel over a pack of cigarettes.

Expert Secs Military 'Take' Of Steel no Economy Blow

By The Associated Press

The military expects that even with the new rearmament program its "take" of steel will be no more than 5 or 6 percent of the Nation's production.

A Munitions Board official used this figure yesterday to underline his expressed belief that it will be possible to produce the "hardware"—the planes, ships, tanks, guns and other weapons—asked for in President Truman's $10,500,000,000 supplemental military request to Congress without any serious blow to the civilian economy.

The estimate on steel requirements represents the first survey made by the Munitions Board of probable requirements under the rearmament program. The military's slice of steel production now is about 4 percent.

Because the Nation's steel mills now are at virtually 100 percent of capacity, it is evident the increased demands of the military must come out of production now going to civilian consumption.

But the munitions official expresses the thought that much of it can be diverted from the frills without making inroads on important or actually necessary items. He comments that, as an example, slot machines aren't vital to civilian economy, but they use steel.

The board also expects it will be able to carry on the Korean war and go ahead with the rearmament program without digging into the Nation's stockpile of strategic materials, which the Munitions Board has been building up for several years.

The ammunition, tanks, planes and other equipment being rushed to the Korean front now are coming either from available equipment or being turned out in new production (an example is the 3.5-inch bazooka)—but none of the raw material for their manufacture comes from the strategic stockpile, he said.

Warrenton's Polo Games Are Sunday Attraction

By Elizabeth Maguire

A pleasant Sunday afternoon is a drive down Warrenton way to view the polo matches at 5 o'clock. For the first time in many years polo has been revived as a popular sport in Warrenton and for the past two months matches have been held every Sunday at the Warrenton Horse Show grounds.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gulick of Warrenton are prime organizers of the polo team which includes themselves, Jim Hodkin, Andrew Bartenstein, Buzz Rogers, John Gulick, Col. William West and Al and Teddy Miller.

This Sunday the Warrenton Polo Club will play the Polo Club of Martinsburg, W. Va. Plans are being made by the Warrenton club to organize a league next year.

This Is How We Bake Our Bread . . .

By Harriet Jean Anderson

IN THE midst of today's hustle and bustle, speed and ease have become such daily catchwords for women that we ignore entirely the joys and satisfaction found in creative work in the home. Making bread was one of those arts of cookery that our grandmothers took great pride and pleasure in; indeed, the young girl who baked the prize-winning loaf was rated the best cook of the community, a fact that did not escape the notice of the bachelors in their matrimonial pursuits.

There is something so homey about bread-baking. The rich, yeasty aroma is wafted to every room in the house, even to the sidewalk outside. That aroma immediately calls up a vision of a large, crusty golden loaf that is white and even-grained when cut into thick slices.

ENRICHED BREAD

1 package compressed or dry granular yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
2 cups milk
2 teaspoons sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon shortening
6 cups sifted enriched flour (about)

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk. Add sugar, salt and shortening. Cool to lukewarm (80 to 85 degrees F.). When cooled, add 2 cups flour, stirring well. Add softened yeast. Add more flour gradually to form a moderately stiff dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until smooth and satiny (5 to 8 minutes). Shape into smooth ball and place in lightly greased bowl. Grease surface of dough lightly. Cover and let rise in warm place (80 to 85 degrees F.) until doubled in bulk, about 1½ hours. Punch down. If desired, let dough rise again until doubled in bulk, or dough may be shaped into loaves after first rising. Divide dough into two equal portions. Shape each portion into smooth ball. Cover and let rise until doubled, about 1 hour. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 to 425 degrees F.) 45 to 50 minutes. Yield: 2 1-pound loaves.

REFRIGERATOR ROLLS

2 packages compressed or dry granular yeast
½ cup lukewarm water
1½ cups milk
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
¼ cup shortening
1 egg
5½ cups sifted enriched flour (about)

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk and add sugar, salt and shortening. Cool to lukewarm. Add 2 cups flour. Beat well. Add softened yeast and egg; mix well. Add remaining flour to make soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until smooth and satiny. Place in lightly greased bowl, cover and put in refrigerator, or let rise in warm place (80 to 85 degrees F.) until double in bulk, about 2 hours. Punch down. Shape into rolls and let rise until doubled in bulk. Form remaining dough into smooth ball. Grease surface lightly, cover and put in refrigerator. When wanted, remove dough from refrigerator and punch down. Mold at once in any desired shape. Or if preferred, let dough stand in warm room for an hour before molding. Place in greased pans and let rise until doubled, about 1 hour. Bake in moderately hot oven (425 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Approximate yield: 2½ dozen rolls.

ROLL VARIATIONS

Bowknots: Roll dough under hand into strips ½ inch thick. Cut in pieces about 6 inches long. Tie in knots. Place on greased baking sheet and let rise until doubled. Bake in moderately hot oven (425 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Approximate yield: 3 dozen rolls.

Butterhorns: Roll ball of dough into circular shape about ¼ inch thick. Cut in pie-shaped pieces. Brush with melted butter or margarine and roll up, beginning at wide end. Place on greased baking sheet. Let rise until doubled. Bake as above.

Fan Tans: Roll dough into very thin rectangular sheet. Brush with melted butter or margarine. Cut in strips about 1 inch wide. Pile 6 or 7 strips together. Cut pieces 1½ inches long and place on end in greased muffin pans. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake as above.

Twists: Roll dough under hand to ½ inch thickness and 8 inches in length. Fold roll back on itself, twisting ends around each other. Pinch together to seal. Place on greased baking sheet and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake as above.

BASIC SWEET DOUGH

2 cakes compressed or dry granular yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 cup milk
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
¼ cup shortening
2 eggs
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind (optional)
5 cups sifted enriched flour (about)

Soften yeast in lukewarm water. Scald milk. Add sugar, salt and shortening; cool to lukewarm. Add flour to make a thick batter and mix well. Add softened yeast, eggs and lemon rind. Beat well. Add enough more flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until smooth and satiny. Place in greased bowl, cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, about 1½ hours. When light, punch down. Let rest 10 minutes. Shape into tea rings, rolls or coffee cakes. Let rise until doubled, about 1 hour. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 minutes for coffee cakes, 25 minutes for pan rolls and 20 minutes for individual rolls. Yield: 3 coffee cakes or about 3½ dozen rolls.

SWEDISH TEA RING

½ recipe Basic Sweet Dough
1 cup filling
Melted butter or margarine
Confectioners' Sugar Icing

When sweet yeast dough is light, punch down and let rest 10 minutes. Pat or roll out to a sheet about ½ inch thick, 5 inches wide and 10 inches long. Brush with melted butter or margarine and spread with filling. Roll up jelly-roll fashion, sealing edges firmly. Shape into a ring on greased baking sheet, sealing the ends. With scissors or sharp knife, cut through ring almost to the center, in slices about 1 inch thick. Turn each slice slightly on its side. Brush with melted butter or margarine or egg and milk glaze. Let rise until doubled, about 45 minutes. Bake in moderate oven 350 degrees F.) 25 to 30 minutes. When cool, frost with confectioners' sugar ice and sprinkle with chopped nuts, if desired. Yield: 1 tea ring.

Suggested fillings: cinnamon sugar or cooked, drained fruit.

SPICY NUT COFFEE CAKE

1 package prepared hot roll mix
1 egg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¾ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup raisins
¼ cup candied cherry halves
¼ cup sugar
3 tablespoons butter
¼ cup all-purpose flour
¼ cup chopped nut meats

Place yeast from roll mix package in mixing bowl; add water and stir until completely dissolved. Blend in egg, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, raisins, cherry halves and 2 tablespoons sugar. Add contents of hot roll mix and stir until dough is well blended. Grease top of dough lightly, cover with waxed paper and let rise in warm place (85 degrees F.) until doubled, about 1 hour Divide dough in 6 portions and shape into balls. Arrange in a circle in bottom of greased 8-inch tube pan. Prick top of dough with fork and brush with 1 tablespoon melted butter. Combine remaining butter, remaining sugar, flour, nut meats and remaining cinnamon and nutmeg; sprinkle over dough. Let rise in warm place until doubled. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 30 minutes. Yield: 8 portions.

YOU NEED TO KNEAD to make good bread! Punch down the dough well after its first rising, as in the picture above

NEXT, TURN IT OUT ON a floured board and knead a few minutes, folding it over and over

LASTLY, FORM into a smooth loaf and put it in the bread pan. Let rise again until it doubles its bulk

An Author Suggests:

For Youth After 40 Try Rest, Relaxation and Recreation

YOU MAY have learned the three R's when you were 4, but there's another set of three R's to learn at 40, according to Ida Bailey Allen, author of "Youth After Forty."

The three R's for adults are "recreation, relaxation and rest," she explains. In a chapter devoted to them—one of 34 chapters devoted to every conceivable facet of living the full life after 40—Mrs. Allen says that maybe mature persons don't play out but if they don't they should.

"Out of every 24-hour cycle of each day, take one hour at least for play, and in addition be sure to include a good laugh at frequent intervals. Recreation without fun is sterile," she explains.

Relaxation is best measured in terms of how relaxed, not how long relaxed, Mrs. Allen says. To relax you must get limp all over and everybody can learn to do it, she adds. If you are home during the day take 15-minute rest periods twice a day, she suggests. Make a pyramid of pillows at the foot of the bed so your feet can be supported comfortably. Lie down (no pillow under the head) and pass your hands gently back and forth across the eyes 10 times to break up "tense thought images." Then close the eyes and think of uncluttered vast distances, oceans or sky. And let go! By elevating the feet, you counteract the law of gravity that has been pulling on you all day and you help reduce swollen ankles and bring beauty building circulation to your face. You'll feel rosy and rested for hours, Mrs. Allen promises.

Relax Before Dinner

The business or career woman should relax in the elevated feet position before dinner if possible, according to Mrs. Allen. And several times during the business day, she suggested, take a glass of fruit juice or water, a makeup checkup and three minutes of limp relaxation, and you'll feel much fresher.

If daytime rest periods are impractical in your work, it is essential that you take a night or several nights off and simply rest. Fix a light tray and eat in bed.

Mrs. Allen further suggests short weekends of bed rest once or twice a month. Plan light meals ahead, using prepared foods which require no cooking. Drink fruit juices — at room temperature — between meals. Have something interesting to read, perhaps a little sewing or knitting if you find it relaxing. Take a relaxing bath, put on a pretty nightie, have dinner in bed, dissolve into a pool of quiet. You'll wake rested the next day, Mrs. Allen promises, and "it's a big reward for twenty-four hours of quiet."

If you think you can't fit these rest periods into your busy career, look to Mrs. Allen herself, who is a tremendously busy radio broadcaster and lecturer and author of more than forty books on homemaking and cooking. The book is based on her regime.

Teaching Since 1912

She admits she has been lecturing and teaching since 1912, but has "a physical age of 40 years." Mrs. Allen happened to write the new Halcyon House book because of a combination of circumstances. In her 27 years of broadcasting about homemaking and feminine fashions, she had received more than two million letters.

Mrs. Allen promised herself she'd write a book some day to help these women. When, after several grueling years during World War II she began to feel like some of those women who had written the lamenting letters, Mrs. Allen got to it.

She worked out a guinea pig reconditioning regime with the help of her physician and specialists in exercise, fashion and skin care, and shortly recovered her bounce, her figure and her normal blood pressure. Thus the book.

Make It a Surprise Pie!

So you're giving a luncheon! Of course you want it to be a luncheon you are proud to serve—but if you're like most of us in this leisurely weather, you'd like it to be just as easy to prepare as possible.

Surprise pies are an especially delectable luncheon idea, when you want your entree hot. Make sure your pastry is rich, flaky, and right out of the oven. A bit of parsley and Parmesan cheese adds to the party look. Then complete the luncheon with a small avocado-and-grapefruit salad, hot rolls, coffee, and possibly smooth Spanish cream topped with fresh fruit for dessert.

TUNA SURPRISE PIES

1 7-ounce can solid pack tuna
1½ cups thick cream sauce
⅛ teaspoon marjoram
¼ teaspoon savory
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon sherry

Combine tuna and cream sauce. Heat and season with herbs, Worcestershire sauce and sherry. Fill hot individual patty shells and top with parsley and a bit of Parmesan cheese. Serves four.

Scholarship For Portias

Plans to award a four-year scholarship to the National University School of Law, one of the oldest and most outstanding law schools in the country, have been announced by Omicron Chapter, Kappa Beta Pi International Legal Sorority.

Those eligible are women interested in the study of law who have had at least two academic years of work at an approved university, college, or junior college. The scholarship includes tuition and all books.

Written requests for application blanks may be made to Mrs. Estelle Downes, chairman of the scholarship committee, 3701 16th st. nw., Washington, D. C.

School Round-Up Plan Gets Youngsters Healthy for Classes

With just four or five weeks to go in most communities, public health officials think it's time for youngsters to have their pre-school physical checkup if they haven't had it before, the Institute of Life Insurance reports this week. For if there are new glasses to be prescribed or teeth to be fixed or any other repairs and improvements, it will be easier to do them now than to try to fit them into a school schedule next fall—easier, and better for the child.

Developed by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers some 25 years ago and sponsored alike by State and Federal health departments, the roundup tries to corral as many children as possible in the spring and summer and encourages parents to send them along to the family doctor or take them to the public health office for pre-school examinations.

Parents can do many things to help prevent accidents, safety experts say, but they can help most of all by leading careful and safe lives themselves. Traffic accidents are a case in point. National Safety Council figures show that in a recent year about a third of all traffic accidents and injuries involving children took place while the child was simply riding in a car driven by someone else.

Spry, But Hardly Lovable

Coburn's the Thorn In a Rose Bouquet

ANY picture based on the assumption that Charles Coburn is lovable is a dead failure from the first reel, as far as I'm concerned. Coburn is lothsome, irascible and unattractive. And in "Peggy," which is now at the Capitol, he is also nosey and meddlesome.

However, if you take Coburn with a pinch of salt (or) better, a pinch of bicarbonate) you may enjoy "Peggy," the usual Technicolor nonsense about young love thwarted by misunderstandings and that Builder of Better Pictures, the little white lie that grows and grows.

Involved prominently in this production are Diana Lynn, Barbara Lawrence and Charlotte Greenwood, all of them blond and all of varying degrees of prettiness. With Charlotte, it doesn't matter what she looks like, which at her advance years is only middling, because she's just somebody's mother. But with Diana and Barbara it is important because they are supposed to be two leading contenders for the title of Queen of the Pasadena Tournament of Roses.

Barbara is a candy-box cover girl, a peaches-and-cream girl, a somebody's dream girl, all right. But I wonder if Diana's studio is being entirely fair to her when they ask you to believe that Diana might conceivably beat out Barbara in the beauty competition.

"PEGGY" at the Capitol Theater. A Universal International Picture in Technicolor. Produced by Ralph Dietrich, directed by Frederick de Cordova, and written by George F. Slavin and George W. George.

CAST

Peggy	Diana Lynn
Professor Brookfield	Charles Coburn
Emilia Fielding	Charlotte Greenwood
Susan Brookfield	Barbara Lawrence
Tom Fielding	Charles Drake
Johnny Higgins	Rock Hudson
Miss Zim	Connie Gilchrist

This is the severalth fight I've had this week with casting directors, and it gets us no place. So, to the plot.

Professor Brookfield leaves Ohio University behind him to concentrate on a book he's writing. He settles in Pasadena, bringing with him his two daughters, Peggy and Susan, who naturally are eligible for the Tournament of Roses queenship, except that one of them, unbeknownst to anybody, is married and therefore ineligible. How to get out of the contest without letting her dear old darling of a closed-minded father find out she's married, is Peggy's problem. One little deception leads to another, as is wont to happen, and forthwith we have what passes for comedy.

Tt picture is spiced with endearing little scenes in which Professor Brookfield earns affection by coming around—after much bad temper—to doing what he should have done in the first place. Ah, in the movies it is all so simple to be lovable.

Charlotte Greenwood doesn't have much to work with, but she's refreshing to have around. Both Diana and Barbara do all that's required of them, which is primarily to look as pretty as possible, which each does to the best of her ability.

The picture winds up with shots of the 1950 Pasadena Tournament of Roses Parade, which tends, unfortunately, toward a strong yellow but is otherwise pretty enough.

Good Yuletide Taste

I've said all I can decently say about Coburn. I will add, however, that for a man of 72 he's pretty spry and he does, by gum, send the prettiest Christmas Cards I've ever seen. I'm afraid I just won't be getting any come next Christmas.

The stage show accompanying "Peggy" is OK except that it lacks a good comic. Betty Jane Watson and Jery Austen, both of whom work pretty regularly in the better Broadway musical comedies, have good robust voices which they use well. Betty Jane sells her material awfully hard, though, which is totally unnecessary for a girl with a voice like that.

Pierre D'Angelo and Ana do the lightly-on-the-balls-of-the-feet routine this week with grace and charm. Ana has a remarkably shapely shape—more hour glass than most.

There's a cheap kind of an act shared by Ross and La Pierre, which is poor in material but rich in know-how. Ross must have gravitated up—or down—from burlesque. He's a polished performer but doesn't have the stuff to perform with. Part of the act includes imitations of musical instruments.

And then there is a young lady who does with great finesse and humor that kind of work which doesn't always seem worth doing, namely tying herself into a knot. I don't recall ever seeing anybody do it better than Merribeth Old does it, and I'm positive I never saw anybody sit on her own head before.

TRYOUTS WILL BE HELD by the McLean Summer Theater for "The Man Who Came to Dinner" next Wednesday evening from 7 to 10 o'clock at the theater which is five miles from Chain Bridge on Route 123. Arnold buses leave 11th and E sts. nw., for McLean at 6:23 and 7:45 p. m. There are several good parts open, according to the producers at McLean, and an opportunity for local talent to appear with a professional New York company. The play will run Tuesday, August 29 through Sunday, September 3.

THE WATERGATE BEING SUBJECT to the whims of the weather, the producers of "Kiss Me, Kate," which opens at the Watergate Monday night for a two-week run will announce, through the courtesy of WTOP, whether the weather permits. The announcements will be made nightly over WTOP at times not yet definitely decided. Probably 6:20 and 7 p. m.

TV Monkey Quits Piano to Invade New York Shops

New York, Aug. 11 (U.P.).—The strain of training for a television show finally got 1-year-old Happy.

The little rhesus monkey was playing a piano duet with a cat under direction of trainer Tommy Bell today. He kept striking the wrong note. Maybe it was the heat, Bell said.

Anyway, Happy slammed his paws on the keyboard, slipped his collar and bounded out of a back window at the Better Dog Kennels and Canine Beauty Salon.

Happy showed up at a ladies dress was bitten on the finger. dres swas bitten on the finger. Then Happy scampered to a Columbus Circle liquor store, broke 14 bottles of hootch and finally found a cordial to his liking.

By the time Trainer Bell arrived, Happy was drunk. With Susie, a female monkey, acting as decoy, Happy was placidly led back to his piano.

Man, Woman Slain; Assailant is Dying

Reed City, Mich., Aug. 11 (AP).—The ambush killing of a man and a woman and the apparent mortal wounding of a 65-year-old man police identified as their assailant was partlly blamed today to unpaid borrowed money.

Police said at the same time they were investigating the possibility of a jealousy motive.

Shotgun blasts last night killed Mrs. Donna Poling and Ray Nehmer, both 33.

William Dempke, who left two notes blaming the tragedy to unpaid loans, was found critically wounded in a nearby field. Part of his head had been shot away. Physicians held little hope of his recovery. He named no one in his notes.

State Police Sergt. Floyd Peters said Dempke shot Mrs. Poling and Nehmer and injured Mrs. Poling's son, Donald, 15, and her husband, Roy, 45, before turning his shotgun on himself.

Mrs. Daisy Nehmer, divorced wife of the slain man, escaped harm by fleeing to a porch and falling flat. The possibility that Dempke was jealous of her association with her ex-husband was being investigated.

The Dempke home is near that of Mrs. Nehmer.

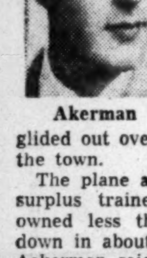

The Polings and Nehmers were attacked as they alighted from a taxicab in front of Mrs. Nehmer's home after a trip downtown.

Peters said two notes were found on Dempke, one addresed to a son, William H. Dempke, of Grand Rapids, and one "to my friend," otherwise unidentified. They were similar. The one to the son said: "Sorry to do this but I have asked them to pay me some of my money he got from me last summer. I am broke now. I can't work and don't know for sure what Koppers Co. (a wood treating firm for which Dempke had worked 20 years) will do. . . . they could have prevented it but it is too late. . . ."

Marine Pilot Crash Lands In Choptank

George Ackerman, 22, a Marine Reserve flier, of 4341 Warren st. nw., crashed his plane into the Choptank River near Cambridge Md., yesterday but escaped with ony minor injuries.

Akerman

Ackerman said he was en route to Washington from Ocean Beach, Md., when the engine conked out about 9:55 a.m. He said he glided out over the river to avoid the town.

The plane a Vultee BT13 Navy surplus trainer which he has owned less than a month came down in about 4½ feet of water. Ackerman said he had to dig his way out fast to avoid drowning. He suffered a cut leg and bump on the head. He said he thought his plane was beyond repair.

A graduate of Western High School, Ackerman has been a student at Montgomery Junior College. He is due to report to the Marines for duty August 21, however.

A member of the Reserves for nearly 3 years, he has been flying since 1946. He is the son of Leon Ackerman, Washington real estate man, and Mrs. Ackerman, of the Warren st. address.

Pressman Quits American Labor Party, Calls It Red

New York, Aug. 11 (NYHT).—Lee Pressman, who was labeled a Communist before the House Committee on Un-American activities and refused to answer the charge today sent a letter of resignation to the American Labor Party here. He said the ALP lacked support because the people feel it is geared to the interests of the Communist Party.

The former New Deal lawyer, who was forced out of a $19,000 post as general counsel for the CIO when he became a braintruster of Henry Wallace's Progressives, made no reference in his letter to Wallace's resignation Tuesday from the national party, of which the ALP is the New York branch.

Pilot Killed In Plane Crash At Detroit Races

Detroit, Aug. 11 (U.P.). — A 21-year-old pilot was killed today when his midget racing plane crashed before 12,000 spectators in the third heat of the $10,000 Continental trophy race.

The tiny craft's wing collapsed as James Vosyka of Oak Park, Ill., rounded a pylon on the closed course at Detroit Wayne Airport.

Vosyka, a flier since he was 15, was pinned in the wreckage of the "Ace of Diamonds," one of 11 entries in the race. The plane did not catch fire.

It was the second fatal crash in two consecutive years of air racing. Last year Bill Odum died in the National air races at Cleveland.

Rep. Phillips, Defeated, To Run as Independent

Elizabethton, Tenn., Aug. 11 (U.P.). Representative Dayton E. Phillips, defeated for Republican renomination in Tennessee's First District, announced as an independent candidate today. He promptly drew a charge of "turncoat" from former GOP National Chairman B. Carroll Reece, who beat him.

The official canvass in the August 3 primary gave Reece a 2868 margin over Phillips, who charged the election was conducted fraudulently.

Navy Delays Work On Carrier Leyte, Keeps Her Ready

The Navy disclosed last night that the 27,000-ton aircraft carrier Leyte is being kept in service instead of being laid up for modernization as previously planned.

Instead, her sister ship Lake Champlain is to be taken out of the "mothball" fleet and modernized.

Keeping the Leyte in service makes ah additional carrier available for duty in Korean waters if necessary. It has been operating in the Mediterranean.

Prior to the invasion of South Korea, the Navy said, strenghening of the flight deck and elevators of the Leyte to handle heavy planes had been scheduled to begin at the Norfolk Naval Shipyard late in October.

The Lake Champlain, now laid up at Newport News, will be so modernized at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Co.

Story Sordid, Singing Tops

Jane Russell Type That Sings In 'Pagliacci' at the Plaza

By Paul Hume

JANE RUSSELL had better watch her step—yes, sir.

This new film version of "Pagliacci" running at the Plaza has a gal in it named Gina Lollabriglida. And except for the fact that it's easier to say "Jane Russell" than "Lollobrigida," the competition is pretty keen.

What's more, Miss L. can sing like few great sopranos who have sung the lady-tiger role of Nedda. There's no point in telling all of you the story of Pagliacci. As I have contended at the Watergate for three summers now, it is one of the ugliest, sordid jobs on the opera stage.

It is nothing for the kids, and if you ever had the quaint idea that opera was something lofty and high, or maybe even noble, just take yourself and the other adult members of your tribe down to the Plaza. "Down to earth" is the way we describe it.

The whole picture is like Groucho Marx's crack in their recent "Love Happy" when Groucho says, "If it were a French movie we could get away with it."

But seriously, the singing in Pagliacci is tops. Tito Gobbi sings both baritone roles: Tonio and Silvio. He has a magnificent voice and acts well. For some reason, a good bit of his singing comes out flat in this film, but even that doesn't mar his work too much.

Afro Poli is the Canio, and one of the best dramatic tenors in years. Wish the Met would bring him over here. The sound track is best at full volume, but that's too loud for comfort. Softer, it loses a mite of quality but still comes out clearly.

The scenery, southern Italy, is gorgeous, and its montaging makes the old story move with honest vitality. The chorus is of the Rome Opera, and perfect.

Along with Pagliacci comes a fascinating short film about the 1848 revolutions in France. Saint Simon, Lamartine and Louis Blanc move in and out of the historical sequence describing the fall of Louis Philippe.

The pictures are done from old engravings loaned by private owners and national archives. The narration and musical background make it a vivid bit of important historical drama.

India Shows Determination To Fight Reds

New Delhi, Aug. 11 (NYHT).—Further evidence of India's determination to fight communism within her borders was given today by Sardar Vallabhai Patel, deputy Prime Minister and Minister for Home Affairs, who told Parliament the government was determined to give no quarter to any attempt of the Indian Communist Party to seize power by violence.

Discussing the Communists' assertion that the policy of violence had been abandoned, the Home Minister cited a letter circulated to party members in which he said "It was made clear that the struggle in India is to be waged by means of armed guerilla warfare in the countryside and the formation of liberation bases and liberation armies culminating in the seizure of power all over the country."

In the past two years, Patel said, 2500 persons had been killed by Communists in Hyderabad State, where they have virtually seized power in two districts. He pointed out the new Communist struggle was to be based on armed attempt to extend "agrarian reforms" already achieved in these two districts, coordinated with an attempt to incite industrial unrest in the cities.

"I am sure it is clear to the House," Patel said, "that whatever shifts may have taken place in the tactics of the Communist party, there has been absolutely no change in their fundamental strategy of seizing power through violent revolt."

Last month, the Communist Party eliminated its General Secretary, B. T. Ranadive, who had advocated train-wrecking and acid-bomb tossing, but admitted these tactics would not be able to over throw the Nehru Government. A new front based on a hoped-for cooperation of leftist groups and on agrarian rather than urban revolution was announced.

Observers feel the disinterest in the other leftist groups, such as the Socialists, in the Communist program, plus the Government's strong policy of opposition to agrarian reforms backed by violence should, as in the past, succeed in controling the Communists for the time being.

It is felt, however, that since agrarian reform is needed badly, the only long-term control of communism lies in a thorough revision of land systems.

Court Holds Man In Fatal Slapping Of Daughter

Walter Dorn, 25, appeared with his wife, Bernice, 21, in Felony Court, where Magistrate Philip B. Thurston ordered him confined without bail pending a hearing August 25.

Authorities said Mrs. Dorn found the child dead in its crib early today when she returned from her job as a telephone operator. They said Dorn, who had been caring for the baby, admitted he had slapped the baby when its crying annoyed him while viewing television. An autopsy showed the child died of a fractured skull.

Attorney For VA Dies in Hotel Of Heart Attack

Keber H. Harris, 49, a Veterans Administration attorney from Johnson City, Tenn., was found dead at 6:30 a.m. yesterday in a second floor corridor of the Georgian Hotel, 1814 G st. nw.

His body was found slumped by a drinking fountain. Hotel officials said Harris had lived at the hotel for two months.

Dr. Christopher J. Murphy, deputy coroner, performed an autopsy and issued a temporary certificate of death due to heart failure. A final certificate, will await a chemical analysis.

Puzak, Polish Unionist Reported Dead in Jail

New York, Aug. 11 (AP).—The International Free Trade Union Center in Exile reported today that Kazimierz Puzak, long a prominent labor leader, has died in a Polish prison at the age of 66.

Puzak was one of the 16 Polish leaders invited to Moscow for "negotiations" in 1945 and then jailed by Soviet authorities. Released late that year, he returned to Poland.

The Free Trade Union Center, composed of labor figures who have fled Communist-run countries, said Puzak was sent to a Polish prison in 1947 on trumped-up charges of dealing with foreign agents and provoking strikes.

Parole Board to Hear Acalotti on Thursday

Attilio Acalotti will be one of 19 parole applicants to appear before the District Board of Parole at Lorton next Thursday.

He is serving two concurrent terms of from 8 to 24 months for threatening his former girl friend, Bernice Franklin, a Government witness, and for conviction on a gambling charge.

Ile de France Delayed

Paris, Aug. 11 (AP).—The 45,000-ton French Liner Ile de France was laid up in drydock at Le Havre today because of damage to her hull. The liner's scheduled sailing for New York Saturday has been postponed until August 19.

Nettuno Reds Block Chapel For Saint

Rome, Aug. 11 (NYHTNS).—Nettuno, the home town of Saint Maria Goretti, the only Twentieth Century person to be canonized in the present Holy Year, has blocked by a vote of 7 to 6 in its city council a project to erect a chapel to the Saint.

The vote forbade the use of 8 square yards of a road for construction of a chapel to house the Saint's remains. By a vote of 7 to 2 at the same session the council also forbade use of 300 square yards of the village square for a monumental approach to the church alongside which the chapel would rise as an annex.

Like scores of other villages in Italy, Nettuno has a predominantly Communist or pro-Communist town council. Four Communists and three Socialists voted against the chapel. A minority of Communists and pro-Communists, including the Communist Mayor, Mario de Franceschi, voted for the chapel. "Public opinion might react unfavorably," the Communist Mayor warned his fellow counsellors just before the vote.

The vote astonished the Passionist Fathers who have been collecting funds for the chapel through a special account in the National City Bank in New York and through the papal nunciatures in other countries throughout the world. Despite the vote, plans for the chapel will continue, Father Flaviano, director of the project said today.

4 Fined on Gambling Charges; Eight Held

Leonardtown, Md., Aug. 11 (AP).—Four were fined, eight held for the grand jury and two snubbed in attempts to plead guilty at preliminary hearings today for persons arrested in State police gambling raids last week.

They were among 24 arrested when troopers struck simultaneously at several places in St. Marys County.

Trial Magistrate J. Ralph Abell ordered John Roach, Mechanicsville tavern keeper, and Manny Horowitz of Lexington Park to stand trial in Circuit Court despite efforts to plead guilty.

State's Attorney John H. T. Briscoe had asked the magistrate not to accept guilty pleas. He said State law permits a State's attorney to demand jury trials.

Both Roach and Horowitz were held on bookmaking charges.

They were William George and Edward Thomas, charged with running a gambling table at the Cafe Schmoo, fined $250 apiece; Robert Wise, Jr., bookmaking at Roach's Tavern, $200, and Marge Walters, managing a dice table at the Rod and Reel Club in Lexington Park, $200.

Of the 11 held for grand jury action, three waived preliminary hearings. Abell listened to the other eight cases, all involving number charges, then ordered the men bound over.

Three other cases were continued until August 21.

City Would Ban More Than 1 Dog And Cat Per House

Newark, N. J., Aug. 11 (NYHT).—Public Affairs Commissioner Stephen Moran announced today that a proposed ordinance he has drafted includes a clause permitting no more than one dog and one cat in a dwelling.

Officials immediately received angry telephone calls from pet owners. A public hearing will be held August 23 after which the five-man City Commission will vote on the measure. Owners, under the proposal, may keep one dog and one cat, but no more than one of either variety.

Moran explained the clause was included on recommendation of health officials. He quoted them as saying that "it's a pretty good idea not to have a lot of pets running around the house."

Airline Use Offered

Lake Success, Aug. 11 (AP).—Canada today offered to make available to the United Nations the complete passenger facilities of the Canadian Pacific Airlines, operating between Vancouver and Tokyo.

Beaches 'Open'

Town Shelves Negro Protest On Bathing

Colonial Beach, Va., Aug. 11 (AP).—The town council of this Potomac River resort—scene of an Anti-Negro demonstration last Saturday—has decided to take no further action in connection with Negro demands for swimming rights at public beaches here.

Councilman John E. Mayo summed up the position of his colleagues last night when he said the council "decided to stand on the answer filed by its attorney."

The town's reply to a Negro discrimination suit was in effect: the beaches have always been open to all citizens.

A group of Negroes made a test swim here Saturday and a melee followed in which one man was stabbed. A photographer roughed up and one Negro jailed. Counsel for the group, Martin A. Martin, of Richmond, has served notice the Negroes would be back for another test swim. Plans to hold such a swim party Sunday were called off when Mayor Norman Brewington warned that it might lead to bloodshed.

Another subject in minds of Colonial Beach residents—the burning of crosses here Tuesday night—was not discussed at the meeting attended by some 65 citizens.

The charred remains of a cross burned in front of the Negro Baptist Church was seen by reporters for the Fredericksburg Free Lance Star.

Mahoney Says Lane Twisted His Statement

Baltimore, Aug. 11 (AP).—George P. Mahoney today accused Governor Lane of misquoting him in their growing fight for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Lane had challenged a Mahoney statement about replacement of the State's Chesapeake Bay ferry system by the new Bay Bridge, now under construction. Lane quoted Mahoney as saying this would mean a loss of the ferry system's six million dollars annual profit.

The governor pointed out that annual profit of the ferry system last year was only $296,000.

Mahony countered today that what he said in a speech at Clarksville was ". . . the eventual loss to the taxpayers of six million dollars in the abandonment of the Chesapeake Bay ferry system." He indicated he said nothing about the annual profits.

Meanwhile, State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, replying to another Mahoney speech, declared that Maryland's sales tax or income tax would have to be boosted if one of the two taxes was done away with.

Tawes quoted Mahoney as saying that "if we are going to have an income tax, let's not have a sales tax, or if we're going to have a sales tax, let's not have an income tax."

'Flash' Figures On Casualties Given Congress

The Army explained last night why it secretly gave Congress Korean war casualty figures which were larger than those made public at the same time.

It said the information given to Congress was a "flash" report which included unconfirmed as well as confirmed casualties. It said such flash reports are not given to the public generally because the Army wants (1) to avoid causing unnecessary anxiety among soldiers' relatives and (2) to prevent the enemy from obtaining information of value.

The Army declared it would continue to furnish names of casualties to the general public as soon as they are confirmed and next of kin are notified.

A statement said in part:

"The Army will continue its policy of furnishing to the public as promptly as available the names of casualties when confirmed lists are received by the Department of the Army and the next of kin have been notified.

"Nothing so far has been hidden from the public and nothing will be hidden from the public in this regard."

Formal Opening of Hecht Co. Silver Spring Store Set Today

The newly enlarged Silver Spring store of The Hecht Co. will formally open at 10 a. m. today.

With two new floors added to the original three-story structure, the store now contains 214,000 square feet of space, making it one of the largest and most complete suburban department stores in the country.

Approximately 1000 persons, from toddlers to adult escorts, participated in the parade, together with the Silver Spring Boys Club and Elks Club Bands.

A brother-sister team won the $100 first prize, awarded on the basis of costume and appearance. Buddy, 8, and Margaret Ann Gayer, 4, of Forestville, Md., comprised the team.

Second prize, $50, went to Sheila Mae Weinberg, 7, of 802 Lanark Way, Silver Spring. Twenty other youngsters won $5 prizes in the rodeo led by Tex Cortez, the Oklahoma Kid, and Montgomery County Sheriff Frank Davis.

The phenomenal population increase in Montgomery and Prince Georges counties led Hecht Co. officials to expand the store after only two years of operation. Built in 1947 at a cost of $2,500,00, the new improvements were made at a cost of $1,000,000.

Every floor in the store has been extensively remodeled. Milton P. Shlesinger is operating manager and Harry N. Hirshberg is merchandise manager.

A complete downstairs store has been installed; the furniture floor has been greatly expanded, as have many other of the 120 departments; and escalator and elevator service have been extended to all selling floors.

Handicapped to See Car Demonstration

Members of Lodge 94, American Federation of the Physically Handicapped, will witness a demonstration of the specially equipped Oldmobile for the physically handicapped today at 2 p. m. at Barney Circle.

The auto, with complete hand control of brake and throttle and an automatic transmission, will be demonstrated by an instructor from Walter Reed Hospital. After the demonstration, the group will go to Hains Point for a picnic.

2800-Mile Phone Hookup Made So Dad Can Give Bride Away

A former Washington girl was honeymooning in the West yesterday thanks to her knowledge of long-distance telephones.

Mrs. Garwood

The former Betty Morrison, 22, became the wife of Clyde Garwood, a Korea-bound Air Force reservist, in Carson City, Nev., on Thursday night, when her father "gave her away" from Silver Spring, Md., 2800 miles distant.

A telephone service representative in Long Beach, Calif., Betty met the bridegroom when he was in the Air Force at Andrews Air Force Base. Clyde, a telephone dial specialist himself, lives in Long Beach and has been studying at Southern California University.

They planned to be married here next month, but Uncle Sam intervened. The groom-to-be was told his reserve outfit was preparing to leave for Korea.

The couple hurried to Carson City, where marriage laws require no waiting. They telephoned the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. Morrison, 1601 Grace Church rd., Silver Spring.

Mr. Morrison, representative of several business magazines here, said his "I do" when called upon by the Rev. John L. Harvey of the Carson City Presbyterian Church, who performed the ceremony.

Other members of the bride's family heard the wedding bells on their own telephones through a "conference call" hook-up arranged by the Silver Spring telephone office.

Puerile and Infantile

Video? It's Moronic, Sneers Rathbone

By Sonia Stein

THE MAN WITH the built-in sneer turned it on television. "I loathe it. It is the most inadequate medium ever offered to the public. It is puerile, infantile, moronic. It is an atrocity."

Thus spake Rathbone.

Rathbone

Usually coolly contemptuous, Basil Rathbone flared up like any old body when the word television was mentioned. Fresh from a successful evening on stage at the Olney Theater, where he had his favorite acting medium bending to his whim, Rathbone was spiritually in good shape to lace the stuffin' out of TV.

"Television borrows from everything and contributes nothing," he said with sparks flying from his pale blue eyes.

"It is wonderful for the advertiser and for people who want to see how to cook a chicken. But it is totally unrelated to art," he said with the clear incisive tone of man who brooks no argument.

One of his chief complaints is that television reduces the actors to nothing. "There you are, six inches high, while your six foot voice comes booming out. It's absurd," he said with scorn, and for a minute I was glad I didn't invent it.

Larger screens won't help, he figures, because screens for home use will never be big enough to accommodate an actor in all his glory. Motion picture screens are fine size, he says. "But television is utterly hopeless."

'No Satisfaction'

AS AN ARTIST he gets "no satisfaction whatever" from appearing on TV and acknowledges that when he appears it is the call of a substantial check and not the call of the footlights, overheads or baby spots.

He is gratified to note that the week he did a Shakespearean bit on Ken Murray's show Variety headlined its review, "Shakespeare Saves Murray."

From the other end, Rathbone finds TV a horror. "It makes people drearier than ever. You go to see friends and find them sitting in front of the television set. There is no conversation."

For a minute he relaxed and began to laugh. Was it possible he would recant? Nope. He was just laughing about the time George Jean Nathan said something about being tired of looking at old vaudeville acts through a rainstorm on his TV set.

Rathbone even finds radio preferable. "At least you can use your imagination with radio. You make your own Paris of Squedunk. On television you have to accept whatever awful sets they can fix up."

"And to have one's children subjected to itffi" he says with Rathbone wrath, "is simply monstrous. How can they grow up with an appreciation of art if all they see is the same cowboy story over and over again with nothing new except the leading man?"

Matter of Generations

JUST THEN DAVID COLE, who is playing the 14-year-old Naval cadet in 'The Winslow Boy" at Olney this week, came into earshot. He loves television, enjoys being on "Mr. I Magination" for which he is writing a script—"one page in six months"—and was beaming all over at mention of TV.

"Perhaps," I sugested timidly, "it's a question of generation. David has been raised with television and he likes it."

The DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

He Missed a Few Facts, But Not Fact She's A Blonde Miss

A certain reporter with a certain news service will be interested to know that I got a call from a lady with a blonde voice yesterday.

"I'm the girl at the State Department you commented about this morning," she said.

"The one who brought her own heater to work, in protest against the 65-degree air-conditioned chill in her office?" I asked.

"Well—yes and no. That's what I wanted to tell you about. There were several inaccuracies in that story, and I don't want people to get the wrong impression."

"What was wrong with the story?" I asked.

"In the first place," she explained, "I didn't bring a heater from home. The building engineer supplied it."

"I see. Anything else?"

"I didn't decline to give my name. He didn't ask me."

"Is that all?"

"No, he had the temperature wrong, too. It's 68 in the office, not 65."

"Even 68 is pretty chilly, isn't it?"

"I was raised in Alabama," she murmured.

"Tell me," I said, "you are a blonde, aren't you?"

"Oh, yes," she assured me. "He had that part absolutely correct."

GIVE-AWAYS

"One-month-old tiger kitten; 1-year-old male part-Persian; sweet mother cat, about to have kittens." (Hobart 3418 Sunday only.)

"Nice cat, good mouser; part-Persian." (Overlook 2056.)

"Five adorable little kittens." (Hobart 4328.)

"Six-month-old puppy, mixture cocker and bull." (Sligo 9677 after 6 p. m.)

"Nine-month-old puppy, collie and shepherd mixture; also two frisky 8-week-old part-Maltese kittens." (Chestnut 1172 after 2 p.m.)

"Beautiful black mother cat and six lovely 6-week-old kittens." (King 8-7596.)

"Will deliver beautiful Siamese cat." (Wisconsin 8908.)

"Three female kittens." (Sligo 7248, evenings.)

"Nice mother cat and four playful male kittens; will deliver." (Union 7907.)

"Set of attachments for Air-Way electric sweeper." (Randolph 8309.)

"Two 2-month-old pups, mixture of spitz and fox terrier." (Taylor 8231.)

"Twenty truckloads of dirt." (Columbia 6256 after 6 p.m.)

"Healthy 2-year-old thoroughbred cocker." (Union 4328.)

"Three housebroken 4-month-old kittens." (Emerson 3932.)

"Beautifully marked 3-month-old bull terrier pup." (Fairfax 257.)

"Thoroughbred English bull, 5 years old; good pet and gentle with children." (Georgia 9424.)

AIN'T IT THE TRUTH?

"For the first couple of years of a child's life," muses W. M. Devine of 234 F st. nw., "we try to get it to talk, and then for the next dozen years or so we try to get it to shut up."

RAPIDLY, AT THAT

The National Conference on Aging opens at the Shoreham Sunday, and it's too bad I'll be out of town by then. I could sure give those fellows some expert pointers about aging because it happens to be something I've been doing all my life.

INCIDENTAL INTELLIGENCE

Andy F. Kisacky says if you wire a piece of white cloth to the outside of your screen doors, it'll keep the flies away. Our trouble lately has been with a very tiny type of insect that looks small enough to march through the openings in our screens 10 abreast.

EXPERT OPINION

A Russian broadcaster has announced that Michigan football players are often carried directly from the playing field to the cemetery, and that American prize fighters engage in "veritable massacres."

I guess he must be right. You'll never hear me argue with Einstein's views on relativity, Ben Hogan's on golf, or a Russian's on the subject of cemeteries and massacres.

NO VACATION FOR THE READERS

On vacations I am sold
But not for our William Gold.
Pop Grey.

Pop may be interested to know that this year the District Line will keep on running during my vacation, or at least during a portion of it.

I'm leaving a few columns behind as I shove off this week end—destination unknown. If I find anything interesting to write about during my travels, I'll send in some more columns from wherever I am.

Our managing editor has grave doubts regarding my sanity. He thinks people should rest when they're on vacation. And, in theory, I agree with him.

But settling down to a regular working routine again after three glorious weeks of loafing is the hardest work in the world. And the only way a fellow can avoid the unpleasant task of returning to his daily chore is to refuse to leave it in the first place. So that's what I'm going to try to do this year.

If my tires and money hold out, you'll be hearing from me.

Catholics Fear Vatican Minister Plan

By Tom McNamara and Fred Blumenthal

(While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, his column will be written by members of his staff.—Editor's Note.)

Story behind the President's announcement that he is considering sending a diplomatic minister to the Vatican is that it took him three weeks to make up his mind. Oddly enough, if he goes through with the plan, it will be against the advice of Catholic leaders close to him.

Hillenkoetter

One top congressional leader, a devout Catholic, strongly urged that if the President wanted to reestablish relations with Rome it would be better to do so informally, by naming a successor to Myron Taylor, former White House representative at the Vatican.

This wouldn't require Senate confirmation, since Taylor was a personal representative of the President.

"If you ask for the reestablishment of permanent diplomatic relations with Rome, you may touch off a religious debate in the Senate that would do more harm than good," Truman was warned. "This is a time when all faiths should be working together for the war effort, instead of displaying disunity."

The President replied that he didn't contemplate a religious row in the Senate, but added that he wouldn't back away from one. However, he didn't say whether he would test his former colleagues on the ticklish question before or after the November elections.

Note—United States and British intelligence experts consider the Vatican the best "listening post" in Europe.

The Mighty Atom

Certain key atomic scientists are considered so valuable to United States security that they are classified as "atomic installations" and guarded 24 hours a day. . . . One reason Carroll Wilson resigned as the AEC's general manager was the fact that Wilson's assistant, Carleton Shugg, received $18,000 per year to Wilson's $15,000. . . . Through increased efficiency and scientific improvements, today's atomic dollar is worth approximately $3 spent in 1945. . . . Recent discoveries in our atomic labs now make it possible to produce "Hiroshima" results with only a fraction of the fissionable material used in August, 1945. . . . Invisible atomic dust is being developed by both Washington and Moscow. One airplane load could saturate New York City. . . . No. 1 aim of the Atomic Commission still is the production of basic fissionable material. . . . Come war, it's the heart of the bomb; come peace, it's the heart of a power plant.

The energy contained in a teacup of fissionable material can either destroy a city or run a city power plant. . . . There is enough uranium in the United States to make us independent of foreign supplies, but it would be costly to mine. . . . Oak Ridge scientists have shipped more than 10,000 packages of radioactive isotopes weighing more than one million pounds. However, the actual isotopes in all these shipments weighed only two ounces. Protective lead coating made up the rest of the weight. . . . Atomic experts say the U. N.'s huge glass-sided building in New York is "the most vulnerable major structure in the world to an atomic bomb."

Out of Paper

Senator Joe McCarthy has been grinding out so many speeches and press releases about communism in the State Department that he has used up his Senate paper quota. Since he must now pay for paper out of his own pocket, he has appealed to Republican colleagues to lend him some from their supplies.

"When I started on this investigation, my office had an excess of paper of all kinds," McCarthy explained in a letter to Republican Senators. "However, due to the great volume of documents we have used to date, my supply of paper has been completely exhausted and it has been necessary for some time to buy all the paper we use. This has become a very expensive venture.

"The thought occurred," McCarthy hinted, "that you might have an extra supply of paper which you would let us have to use in this work."

McCarthy added significantly that he planned to use the paper "in a sizable number of speeches which I plan to make prior to the fall elections."

Passing the Blame

In several hush-hush appearances before congressional committees, Admiral R. H. Hillenkoetter, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, has tried to pin the full blame for our foul-up in Korea on the State and Defense Departments.

For example, Hillenkoetter recently told the House Expenditures Committee that he had made a series of reports to both departments over a period of six months before the invasion, telling of North Korean troop movements that made war inevitable.

This may be true. However, it is a far cry from what Hillenkoetter told the House Foreign Affairs Committee behind closed doors on June 23—just one day before the North Koreans attacked.

At that time the intelligence chief testified that there had been "evidences" of troop mobilization above the thirty-eighth parallel, but that it was "almost impossible" to get authentic information because of the "reluctance" of native informers.

Pinned down by Republican Representative James Fulton of Pennsylvania, Hillenkoetter told the committee: "In my opinion, there is nothing to indicate any action in Korea in the near future."

He added something to the effect that "accidents can happen, of course."

Capehart SOS

Fearful for his senatorial scalp in the November elections, Senator Homer Capehart of Indiana, the jukebox king, has sent out an SOS to all Republican Senators.

"I would consider it a personal favor and it will be of great value not only to myself but the entire Republican ticket in Indiana if you could make at least one speech, preferably more, in Indiana during the campaign," he pleaded in a confidential letter.

Social Justice Is Forum Topic

Two Georgetown University economics professors will discuss "The Christian Idea of Social Justice, Our Answer to Communism," at 1 p.m. Sunday over Arlington radio station WARL.

Participants in the program, Georgetown University's Radio Forum, will be Dr. Josef Solterer, head of the graduate school economics department and an expert on Papal Encyclicals, and Prof. Samuel Brown, of the economics department of the College of Arts and Sciences. John V. Quinn, of the graduate school, will be moderator.

Broadcast from Raymond Reiss Studio on the university campus, the program will be open to the public.

Tobacco Prediction

Richmond, Va., Aug. 11 (AP).—A yield of 112,800,000 pounds of Virginia flue-cured tobacco this year, 12 percent over the 1949 production figure, was forecast today by the federal-state crop reporting service.
